Allies Push on Toward 'Iron Triangle' as Reds Block Advance in East

Roll Within Artillery Range of Charwon, Key Point in Fighting in Korea

East Front Boils

Allied Advance Made in Tough, Muddy Fighting

Tokyo, June 5 (AP)—Allied troops rolled today within artillery range of Chorwon, key to the Red "iron triangle" in Korea.

But 6,000 battling Chinese blocked the advance of other United Nations troops trying to reach the triangle from the east.

Most of the U.N. west and central fronts surged closer to the Communist assembly area bounded by Chorwon, Kumhwa and Pyonggang.

The threatening allied advance was made against diminishing Red resistance along the rain-swept Yonchon-Chorwon highway in the west. U.N. infantrymen slogged nearly two miles through the mud, narrowing the 13-mile gap between allied-held Yonchon and the prize Communist city.

Front line dispatches reported allies on this route now are in position to turn their long range artillery on Chorwon.

Thirty-five miles to the east, the front boiled with action. Three thousand Reds fought through the day, holding the allied forces at a standstill in their drive northwest from Hwachon toward Kumhwa. Another 3,000 Chinese held allies to a 500-yard gain north of Hwachon.

East of Hwachon reservoir stubborn Chinese fought bitterly to stem allied advances north of Yanggu and northeast of Inje.

Every allied advance, even where Red pressure decreased, was made in tough, muddy fighting over rugged hills.

Communists had hurled nine counterattacks at the allied advance Monday. Infantrymen fought them off and generally pushed about a mile ahead. Tuesday's advances averaged about the same.

Tanks Bog Down

Allied tanks led the advance on main highways. But on mired secondary roads they tended to bog down.

The Fifth Air Force sent 430 planes out to strike through clouds and rain at the Communists during daylight Tuesday.

Two fighters crashed and burned. Their pilots were killed. One was an F-80 Shooting Star jet; the other an F-51 Mustang.

Another Mustang was shot down Monday. But the pilot landed behind UN lines. Monday's strikes by 850 land and sea-based planes concentrated on Communist transport.

Two Communist planes, possibly jets, bombed allied lines near Yanggu on the east central front Monday night. If they were Red jets, it was their deepest penetration of Korea.

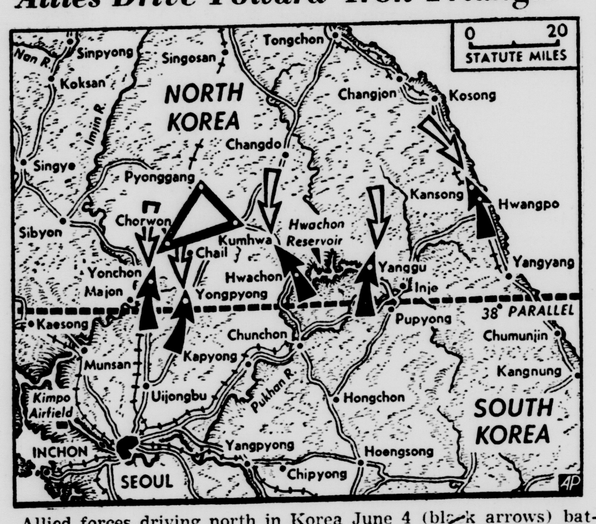

China's Red radio for the third straight day appealed to workers for funds to buy planes, armor and other heavy fighting equipment sorely needed by Chinese in Korea.

Chinese defending the "iron triangle" were supported by moderate amounts of artillery. But generally they depended on grenades, small arms and mortars—and their stubbornness.

Their determination was indicated by the fact only 300 prison-

Dewey Sees Apathy In Civil Defense Plans

Local Officials Must Take Action or Face Removal From Office

Albany, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Governor Dewey today put the heat on lagging local officials to set up effective civil defense systems or face possible removal from office.

The governor said there was widespread public apathy and failure to realize the need for civil defense in some communities. He added:

"This situation cannot be tolerated.

"The responsibility of establishing effective civil defense programs rests on the chief executives of our cities and counties.

"Most of them already have these programs under way, but those who have not must do so immediately."

Dewey's blast at alleged local inertia in setting civil defense wheels into swift motion came late yesterday, after the first meeting of the 23-member State Defense Council, of which he is chairman.

Dewey appointed Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, the administration's chief trouble shooter, as vice-chairman, apparently with orders to throw the C-D program into high gear.

Dewey's rap at C-D apathy, in which the council concurred, was based on a report by Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, chairman of the State Civil Defense Commission and a member of the Defense Council.

Both Dewey and Wilkinson contended that much of the general public apathy toward volunteering for C-D service would dissolve if local officials set up detailed operational plans and put together "sound, capable" staff nuclei.

Wilkinson wrote:

"There is reason to believe that evidence of real accomplishment in these respects will in itself serve to arouse public interest and participation in the civil defense organization."

Wilkinson said the State C-D Commission was "not at all satisfied with the progress made to date" in girding New York for an atomic blitz.

He added, however, that the resources of the state could be mobilized and employed more effectively in event of attack than would have been possible a year ago.

Terms It 'Shocking'

Dewey said it was "shocking" that three cities and three counties had not yet submitted civil defense organizational charts and that 25 cities and 32 counties had not produced operational plans for home-front defense.

"Others," he added, "have paper organizations which are a fraud on the people."

Dewey said the danger was great and was "intensified by unpreparedness."

"We cannot," he asserted, "afford to permit civil defense to lag in any community. It must be speeded up and placed in full operation throughout the state."

The governor served notice that if the unprepared localities did not set up effective C-D systems within 60 days they would be "publicly enumerated."

Reporters reminded Dewey that under the state's 1951 Defense Emergency Act he was em-

Death Verdict For Paonessa

Convicted of Killing 14-Year-Old Boy in Po'keepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A death chair verdict was reported by a jury last night against Joseph L. Paonessa in the "thought control" murder of a 14-year-old boy.

Paonessa, a 44-year-old mechanic, was convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of Robert E. Leonard last October in a shack on a farm at Milan, north of here.

After the Dutchess county jury brought in the verdict following five hours' deliberation, Judge John R. Schwartz said a date for sentencing would be fixed tomorrow.

When the verdict was announced, Paonessa put his arms around his wife in the court room and kissed her. "Well, I won't be seeing you any more," he said.

Paonessa told officials that Alfred Von Wolfersdorf, 66-year-old landlord of the Leonard family in Poughkeepsie, ruled his actions by "thought control."

Paonessa said Von Wolfersdorf was his master in a two-man "secret society."

The older man was accused with Paonessa in the murder, but was adjudged insane and was sent to a mental institution instead of being placed on trial. Paonessa was adjudged sane.

Paonessa, taking the stand in his own defense, denied firing the shot that killed the boy, and accused Von Wolfersdorf.

The prosecution presented testimony that Paonessa reenacted the crime for police, demonstrating how he shot the boy between the eyes as he pleaded for his life.

Before the trial, Paonessa told authorities that Von Wolfersdorf hated the Leonard boy because he slammed the doors and made other noises.

Community Pricing Program For Grocery Items Planned

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) plans to put into effect in another 30 days a community-by-community pricing program for some 15 to 20 grocery items.

Announcing this yesterday, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle did not say what the items will be, except to tell newsmen they will be processed foods. He said no rationing is contemplated.

Merchants will be required to post the ceiling prices as they did under the wartime OPA. The prices will be fixed by communities to allow for varying local conditions.

DiSalle disclosed the program to reporters after he had explained it to the United Labor Policy Committee, representing the CIO, AFL and railroad unions. The labor chiefs have been protesting that DiSalle's controls were not working.

DiSalle said he cautioned the labor leaders that wage increases in some cases would definitely push prices upward. He said he had not suggested to the unions that they forego all wage increases.

Later, AFL President William Green said DiSalle had not quite convinced the ULPC the controls program was working—but he said the rotund former Toledo mayor was "making the best of a tough situation."

Green had a date today (9 a. m., E.S.T.) to give the House Banking Committee the AFL's views on proposed extension beyond June 30 of the Defense Production Act, which authorizes wage-price controls. Both House and Senate Banking Committees are holding hearings currently on President Truman's request for a two-year extension, with some revisions.

Meanwhile, Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson was reported considering an early merger of the two big arms production agencies, National Production Authority (NPA) and Defense Production Administration (DPA).

Grand Jury Hands Up Its Report

In a partial report Monday afternoon, the grand jury reported eight open indictments and three sealed bills. Their work not yet completed County Judge John M. Cashin directed the body to continue its deliberations following their report.

Those named in the eight sealed indictments were arraigned and pleas of innocent were entered. One sealed indictment was opened and the defendant, Charles H. Van Leuven, was arraigned. Van Leuven and Robert Hertica were charged with an alleged attack upon a Beacon girl on April 19 on a back road near West Park and the grand jury returned charges of rape, first degree; rape, second degree, and also assault, second degree, against both Sleightsburgh youths. A second charge of rape, second degree, was also returned against Hertica. Hertica, 19, and Van Leuven, 21, were arrested following an investigation of a young Beacon girl who told police she had been attacked near West Park after she was forced into a car in Newburgh and driven to Ulster county. Robert Ortale appears for Van Leuven by assignment and N. LeVan Haver and Charles Gaffney appeared for Hertica. Both entered innocent pleas and bail continues in Van Leuven's case and Hertica was remanded to jail.

Dallas Walker, 64, of 153 Abeel street, Kingston, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of assault, second degree, alleged to have taken place in Kingston when it is charged he struck one, Jennie Robinson, with a wine bottle sending her to the hospital. Francis Martocci was assigned as counsel.

William Mills Copeland and Bernard V. Keyes of Marlborough were charged with robbery, first degree; grand larceny, first degree, and assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on May 3, in the town of Marlborough. Both entered pleas. Bernard A. Cullton was assigned to Copeland and John Larkin was assigned to Keys. The charge grows out of an alleged slugging of another farm laborer at the Milton hobo jungle, Edward Baker, 58, who charged he had been slugged and robbed of his savings amounting to about $800 which he has secreted on his person. Copeland, 43, was granted 20 days time and Keys, 44, was given 10 days to make further motions in regard to the indictment.

Francis Colton of Ellenville, entered a plea of innocent to a third degree burglary and unlawful entry charge arising out of an incident on April 23. Thomas Saccoman was assigned as counsel. James Thomas Wright entered a plea of innocent to a similar charge and James Plunket was assigned. Wright will be treated as a youthful offender.

William H. Robinson, 29, Kingston, was charged in two counts with grand larceny, first degree, for the alleged taking of the George Svirsky car on May 20, and wrecking it against a pole at Broadway and Delaware avenue. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered. Robinson had been employed at Esopus Lake Hotel. Twenty days was granted to make further motions.

Paul Bush of Highland was charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry. The charge arises out of an incident on April 20, last. Howard C. St. John was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered. Two weeks

Acheson Says United Nations Vetoed American Plan For 'Hot Pursuit' of Enemy to Manchuria

Tells Committee Last November the Other Nations Would Not Go Along

The Telegram

Administration Senator Expects Acheson Will Remain to Fall

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today told senators how other United Nations vetoed an American plan last November for "hot pursuit" of enemy planes across the Korean border into Manchuria.

He said the United States proposed only two or three minutes of air penetration of Manchuria but the other allied governments would not go along with the plan.

Acheson was testifying for the fourth day at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Acheson read a telegram sent under his signature on last Nov. 13 to American embassies in other United Nations. This simply advised that it "may become necessary" to put in the "hot pursuit" plan.

The approval of the other governments was not asked. There has been previous testimony from U. S. military leaders, however, that such strong objections were raised by other nations with troops in Korea that the plan was never put into effect.

Acheson's telegram said the "privileged sanctuary" of Manchuria—a term MacArthur often used—presented a "grave problem" to U.N. forces since "enemy aircraft (nationality not always known) operate from Manchurian fields, dash into Korea air space to strike U.N. air and ground forces and then fly to safety behind Manchurian border a very few minutes away."

"U. S. government is determined to do everything possible to localize conflict in Korea. This is illustrated by rigorous instructions to commanders as well as by efforts made to adjust accidental intrusion into Chinese territory by offering compensation for damages, et cetera. It is obvious, however, that the abuse of Manchuria by the enemy could easily impose an intolerable burden upon U.N. forces operating lawfully and properly on U.N. missions in Korea.

"Therefore U. S. government wishes to inform government to which you are accredited that it may become necessary at an early date to permit U.N. aircraft to defend themselves in the air space over the Yalu river to the extent of permitting hot pursuit of attacking enemy aircraft up to two or three minutes flying time into Manchurian air space.

"It is contemplated that U.N. aircraft would limit themselves to repelling enemy aircraft engaged in offensive missions into Korea.

"We believe this would be a minimum reaction to extreme provocation, would not itself affect adversely the attitude of the enemy toward Korean operations, would serve as a warning, and would add greatly to the morale of U.N. pilots who are now prevented from taking minimum defense measures and for whom in case of bomber pilots it is impossible un-

Sheriff in Battle For Life After Tedious Operation

Upstate Deputy Is Still Very Critical; Shot by Airmen Fleeing From Holdup

Canandaigua, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A deputy sheriff battled for his life today after a "life or death" operation for wounds suffered while trying to stop four airmen who, police claim, were fleeing from a holdup.

A spokesman at Thompson Memorial Hospital said Deputy Jack Fennell "remains in a very critical condition" after a tedious, three-hour operation last night.

Thomas Coucher, Ontario county district attorney, said if Fennell died, four soldiers from the Sampson Air Force Base, held in connection with the case, would be charged with first-degree murder.

High Court Says Activities of Reds Present Danger to the U. S.

By JACK ADAMS

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Widespread prosecutions of individual members of the U. S. Communist party for plotting violent overthrow of this government appeared certain today.

The Supreme Court opened the doors for an extensive program of such actions when it upheld yesterday the convictions of 11 top officials of the party charged with a conspiracy of force against constituted U. S. authority.

In an historic 6-2 decision delivered by Chief Justice Vinson, the court held constitutional the 1940 Smith Act outlawing plots of violence, and said the activities of the Communist leaders involved "a clear and present danger" to the United States.

In New York, U. S. Attorney Irving Saypol said soon after the decison was announced that evidence of subversive activities by other Communist party members already was in the hands of a grand jury. He said action would be forthcoming as a result of the high court ruling.

The 11 Communist officials, the court said, "intended to overthrow the government of the United States as speedily as the circumstances would permit."

Jail terms up to five years and fines of $10,000 assessed against the 11 in the New York Federal District Court in October, 1949, after a long and stormy trial, were affirmed.

This was the sort of decision on Communist designs which the Justice Department has been working for years to get from the highest tribunal. The court had never previously ruled directly on the issue.

Raymond P. Whearty, one of Attorney General McGrath's top assistants in the criminal division, told the House Appropriations Committee last year the department was marking time on "a program of extensive suits to prosecute members of the Communist party."

It was thought that prosecutions might be confined to less than 100 cases—Communists of at least local leadership stature—although Whearty said the Justice Department has 12,000 possible cases on file.

Attorney General McGrath declined to say at once when and how he will proceed. But he saluted his aides for their work on the case, and asserted:

"Now that it is known that the Smith Act is valid, the department is able to proceed to give additional protection against those who seek to overthrow the government by violence.

Bad Day for Conspirators

"This is a good day for loyal

Republicans Set County and City Convention Dates

Delegates Will Be Chosen on June 23 and 25; Offices This Year

The Republican County Convention has been scheduled for Saturday, June 30, at the municipal auditorium in Kingston. Delegates at the convention will designate candidates recommended for the offices of county clerk and coroner.

The party's city convention will follow on Monday evening, July 2, at the county court house to recommend candidates for mayor and alderman-at-large.

Dates for the Democratic convention and caucuses have not been determined, according to Thomas J. Plunket, Democratic county chairman.

The conventions held by the major parties are unofficial and serve to designate the delegates' recommended candidates for office. Nominations are made officially at the primary election to be held on August 21, at which time the enrolled voters of the political parties ballot upon candidates for office. The general election is scheduled for November 6.

Delegates to the Republican County Convention will be chosen at a caucus on Saturday, June 23. Committeemen for the next

Archbishop Murray Dies; Served Port Ewen Church

The Most Rev. Gerald C. Murray, C.Ss.R., D.D., Archbishop Coadjutor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Winnipeg, Canada, died of a heart ailment on June 3, at the age of 64. Archbishop Murray was a professor of philosophy and of moral theology at the seminary of Mount St. Alphonsus, from 1914 to 1924. During the last year of his tenure at the seminary, he also was assistant pastor of the Church of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin at Port Ewen. In May, 1949, he returned to the parish church to celebrate the Pontifical Mass commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the parish, and he administered the Sacrament of Confirmation on that occasion. The great affection and esteem in which he was held by the people of Port Ewen and Kingston was manifested clearly by the heartfelt reception he received at the jubilee banquet in Kingston.

Archbishop Murray, a native of Canada, became a Redemptorist in 1907, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1910. He pursued postgraduate studies in philosophy in the city of Rome, and after his return to this country, was assigned to the Esopus seminary.

MOST REV. G. C. MURRAY

In 1924, he became the first rector of the newly established minor seminary of the Canadian Province of Redemptorists, and later was designated Provincial Superior. From that post, in 1930, he was signally honored by elevation to the bishopric of Victoria, on the island of Vancouver. After another tenure of service as bishop of Saskatoon, in 1944 he was appointed Coadjutor Archbishop of Winnipeg and Apostolic Administrator of that diocese.

Price Wars Flame in Faraway Cities; Huge Sales in New York

New York, June 5 (AP)—The nation had new price battlegrounds today as merchants in several cities adopted the cut-rate tactics of warring New York city department stores.

There were no signs of a truce in the price war that started here a week ago today.

On the other hand, the war spread yesterday to Baltimore, Md., Newark, N. J., Omaha, Neb., and San Francisco.

As the battling bargain hunters stormed store counters, New York merchants were bringing up replacement items for goods that had been snapped up in the initial onslaughts last week.

Macy's made the boldest maneuver late yesterday when it slashed prices on Bulova watches. It reduced them from a range of $27.50-to-$195 to a range of $18.75-to-$121.88.

Gimbel's, Herald Square neighbor of Macy's, promptly met the reductions and also slashed Elgin watches from a $29.75-$104.17 range to a $23.87-$92.02 range.

Meanwhile, another price warrior, Bloomingdale's, said it would reduce phonograph records by 30 per cent starting today.

Brooklyn's Abraham and Straus said it would add a long list of Father's Day gifts to its price-slashed items. The holiday is June 17.

Gimbel's and Hearn's remained open last night until 8 p. m. (EST), a schedule normally reserved for Thursday nights and Christmas rushes.

In the Bronx, three persons were injured yesterday in a rush on the Rogers Department Store, where $89.95 Lewyt vacuum cleaners were offered for $49.99.

At other stores, 100 tablet bottles of aspirin sold for 17 cents. Normally selling for 59 cents, the aspirin had opened at 24 cents.

Despite the price slashes, New York department stores reported dollar sales for last week generally up 25 per cent over the Keyes of Marlborough were charged with robbery, first degree; grand larceny, first degree, and assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed on May 3, in the town of Marlborough. Both entered pleas. Bernard A. Cullton was assigned to Copeland and John Larkin was assigned to Keys. The charge grows out of an alleged slugging of another farm laborer at the Milton hobo jungle, Edward Baker, 58, who charged he had been slugged and robbed of his savings amounting to about $800 which he has secreted on his person. Copeland, 43, was granted 20 days time and Keys, 44, was given 10 days to make further motions in regard to the indictment.

Francis Colton of Ellenville, entered a plea of innocent to a third degree burglary and unlawful entry charge arising out of an incident on April 23. Thomas Saccoman was assigned as counsel. James Thomas Wright entered a plea of innocent to a similar charge and James Plunket was assigned. Wright will be treated as a youthful offender.

William H. Robinson, 29, Kingston, was charged in two counts with grand larceny, first degree, for the alleged taking of the George Svirsky car on May 20, and wrecking it against a pole at Broadway and Delaware avenue. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered. Robinson had been employed at Esopus Lake Hotel. Twenty days was granted to make further motions.

Paul Bush of Highland was charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry. The charge arises out of an incident on April 20, last. Howard C. St. John was assigned and a plea of innocent was entered. Two weeks

Acheson Says United Nations Vetoed American Plan For 'Hot Pursuit' of Enemy to Manchuria

Tells Committee Last November the Other Nations Would Not Go Along

The Telegram

Administration Senator Expects Acheson Will Remain to Fall

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today told senators how other United Nations vetoed an American plan last November for "hot pursuit" of enemy planes across the Korean border into Manchuria.

He said the United States proposed only two or three minutes of air penetration of Manchuria but the other allied governments would not go along with the plan.

Acheson was testifying for the fourth day at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Acheson read a telegram sent under his signature on last Nov. 13 to American embassies in other United Nations. This simply advised that it "may become necessary" to put in the "hot pursuit" plan.

The approval of the other governments was not asked. There has been previous testimony from U. S. military leaders, however, that such strong objections were raised by other nations with troops in Korea that the plan was never put into effect.

Acheson's telegram said the "privileged sanctuary" of Manchuria—a term MacArthur often used—presented a "grave problem" to U.N. forces since "enemy aircraft (nationality not always known) operate from Manchurian fields, dash into Korea air space to strike U.N. air and ground forces and then fly to safety behind Manchurian border a very few minutes away."

"U. S. government is determined to do everything possible to localize conflict in Korea. This is illustrated by rigorous instructions to commanders as well as by efforts made to adjust accidental intrusion into Chinese territory by offering compensation for damages, et cetera. It is obvious, however, that the abuse of Manchuria by the enemy could easily impose an intolerable burden upon U.N. forces operating lawfully and properly on U.N. missions in Korea.

"Therefore U. S. government wishes to inform government to which you are accredited that it may become necessary at an early date to permit U.N. aircraft to defend themselves in the air space over the Yalu river to the extent of permitting hot pursuit of attacking enemy aircraft up to two or three minutes flying time into Manchurian air space.

"It is contemplated that U.N. aircraft would limit themselves to repelling enemy aircraft engaged in offensive missions into Korea.

"We believe this would be a minimum reaction to extreme provocation, would not itself affect adversely the attitude of the enemy toward Korean operations, would serve as a warning, and would add greatly to the morale of U.N. pilots who are now prevented from taking minimum defense measures and for whom in case of bomber pilots it is impossible un-

Air Force Men Questioned

Anthony Cecere (left), Chief Ontario county detective, questions Pfc. Anthony Napoli, Sgt. Peter Gannon and Sgt. Joseph McCretton, all from Sampson Air Base, Geneva, N. Communist Prosecutions Seen in Historic Decision

Sheriff in Battle For Life After Tedious Operation

Upstate Deputy Is Still Very Critical; Shot by Airmen Fleeing From Holdup

Canandaigua, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A deputy sheriff battled for his life today after a "life or death" operation for wounds suffered while trying to stop four airmen who, police claim, were fleeing from a holdup.

A spokesman at Thompson Memorial Hospital said Deputy Jack Fennell "remains in a very critical condition" after a tedious, three-hour operation last night.

Thomas Coucher, Ontario county district attorney, said if Fennell died, four soldiers from the Sampson Air Force Base, held in connection with the case, would be charged with first-degree murder.

High Court Says Activities of Reds Present Danger to the U. S.

By JACK ADAMS

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Widespread prosecutions of individual members of the U. S. Communist party for plotting violent overthrow of this government appeared certain today.

The Supreme Court opened the doors for an extensive program of such actions when it upheld yesterday the convictions of 11 top officials of the party charged with a conspiracy of force against constituted U. S. authority.

In an historic 6-2 decision delivered by Chief Justice Vinson, the court held constitutional the 1940 Smith Act outlawing plots of violence, and said the activities of the Communist leaders involved "a clear and present danger" to the United States.

In New York, U. S. Attorney Irving Saypol said soon after the decison was announced that evidence of subversive activities by other Communist party members already was in the hands of a grand jury. He said action would be forthcoming as a result of the high court ruling.

The 11 Communist officials, the court said, "intended to overthrow the government of the United States as speedily as the circumstances would permit."

Jail terms up to five years and fines of $10,000 assessed against the 11 in the New York Federal District Court in October, 1949, after a long and stormy trial, were affirmed.

This was the sort of decision on Communist designs which the Justice Department has been working for years to get from the highest tribunal. The court had never previously ruled directly on the issue.

Raymond P. Whearty, one of Attorney General McGrath's top assistants in the criminal division, told the House Appropriations Committee last year the department was marking time on "a program of extensive suits to prosecute members of the Communist party."

It was thought that prosecutions might be confined to less than 100 cases—Communists of at least local leadership stature—although Whearty said the Justice Department has 12,000 possible cases on file.

Attorney General McGrath declined to say at once when and how he will proceed. But he saluted his aides for their work on the case, and asserted:

"Now that it is known that the Smith Act is valid, the department is able to proceed to give additional protection against those who seek to overthrow the government by violence.

Bad Day for Conspirators

"This is a good day for loyal

Republicans Set County and City Convention Dates

Delegates Will Be Chosen on June 23 and 25; Offices This Year

The Republican County Convention has been scheduled for Saturday, June 30, at the municipal auditorium in Kingston. Delegates at the convention will designate candidates recommended for the offices of county clerk and coroner.

The party's city convention will follow on Monday evening, July 2, at the county court house to recommend candidates for mayor and alderman-at-large.

Dates for the Democratic convention and caucuses have not been determined, according to Thomas J. Plunket, Democratic county chairman.

The conventions held, by the major parties are unofficial and serve to designate the delegates' recommended candidates for office. Nominations are made officially at the primary election to be held on August 21, at which time the enrolled voters of the political parties ballot upon candidates for office. The general election is scheduled for November 6.

Delegates to the Republican County Convention will be chosen at a caucus on Saturday, June 23. Committeemen for the next

Archbishop Murray Dies; Served Port Ewen Church

The Most Rev. Gerald C. Murray, C.Ss.R., D.D., Archbishop Coadjutor of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Winnipeg, Canada, died of a heart ailment on June 3, at the age of 64. Archbishop Murray was a professor of philosophy and of moral theology at the seminary of Mount St. Alphonsus, from 1914 to 1924. During the last year of his tenure at the seminary, he also was assistant pastor of the Church of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin at Port Ewen. In May, 1949, he returned to the parish church to celebrate the Pontifical Mass commemorating the 75th anniversary of the founding of the parish, and he administered the Sacrament of Confirmation on that occasion. The great affection and esteem in which he was held by the people of Port Ewen and Kingston was manifested clearly by the heartfelt reception he received at the jubilee banquet in Kingston.

Archbishop Murray, a native of Canada, became a Redemptorist in 1907, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1910. He pursued postgraduate studies in philosophy in the city of Rome, and after his return to this country, was assigned to the Esopus seminary.

MOST REV. G. C. MURRAY

In 1924, he became the first rector of the newly established minor seminary of the Canadian Province of Redemptorists, and later was designated Provincial Superior. From that post, in 1930, he was signally honored by elevation to the bishopric of Victoria, on the island of Vancouver. After another tenure of service as bishop of Saskatoon, in 1944 he was appointed Coadjutor Archbishop of Winnipeg and Apostolic Administrator of that diocese.

Price Wars Flame in Faraway Cities; Huge Sales in New York

New York, June 5 (AP)—The nation had new price battlegrounds today as merchants in several cities adopted the cut-rate tactics of warring New York city department stores.

There were no signs of a truce in the price war that started here a week ago today.

On the other hand, the war spread yesterday to Baltimore, Md., Newark, N. J., Omaha, Neb., and San Francisco.

As the battling bargain hunters stormed store counters, New York merchants were bringing up replacement items for goods that had been snapped up in the initial onslaughts last week.

Macy's made the boldest maneuver late yesterday when it slashed prices on Bulova watches. It reduced them from a range of $27.50-to-$195 to a range of $18.75-to-$121.88.

Gimbel's, Herald Square neighbor of Macy's, promptly met the reductions and also slashed Elgin watches from a $29.75-$104.17 range to a $23.87-$92.02 range.

Meanwhile, another price warrior, Bloomingdale's, said it would reduce phonograph records by 30 per cent starting today.

Brooklyn's Abraham and Straus said it would add a long list of Father's Day gifts to its price-slashed items. The holiday is June 17.

Gimbel's and Hearn's remained open last night until 8 p. m. (EST), a schedule normally reserved for Thursday nights and Christmas rushes.

In the Bronx, three persons were injured yesterday in a rush on the Rogers Department Store, where $89.95 Lewyt vacuum cleaners were offered for $49.99.

At other stores, 100 tablet bottles of aspirin sold for 17 cents. Normally selling for 59 cents, the aspirin had opened at 24 cents.

Despite the price slashes, New York department stores reported dollar sales for last week generally up 25 per cent over the

Papagos May Return

Athens, June 5 (AP)—Premier Sophocles Venizelos said today there was a "50-50 chance" that Field Marshal Alexander Papagos would resume command of Greece's armed forces—the post he quit last week. Venizelos made the statement to reporters after conferring with King Paul and U. S. Ambassador John F. Peurifoy twice today. Peurifoy has been playing a major role in the effort to get the marshal back at the head of the armed forces.

Red Reply Hurts Chances

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Russia's insistence on discussing the North Atlantic Treaty and American bases overseas apparently has all but killed off chances for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Washington. Diplomatic officials generally agreed today that is the effect of the Soviet reply yesterday to an American invitation for the British French and Russian ministers to meet here with Secretary Acheson July 23.

Arrested, Man Later Falls Ill on Street

Fred Roehr, 51, who said he lives at Albany, fell ill on Broadway near the city hall this morning minutes after he had been given a 30-day suspended sentence in city court on a public intoxication charge.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital by a W. N. Conner, Inc., ambulance. The only available condition report from the hospital this afternoon was that he was "responding nicely to treatment." The police report at 10 a. m. today indicated that Roehr suffered a serious attack of illness.

Roehr was arrested at 12:10 p. m. Monday on North Front street by Patrolmen Frank Sammons and James Burns. In city court this morning, he pleaded guilty to a public intoxication charge and was given a suspended 30-day sentence.

Suffers Brain Concussion

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Fire Chief William Wayand, 59, of Scotia, N. Y., was taken to Vassar Hospital early today suffering from concussion of the brain. Police said Chief Wayand was in the lobby of the Nelson House Hotel here when two firemen became involved in an argument. Wayand tried to quiet them, police said, and one of the firemen pushed him. Wayand fell and struck his head on a staircase.

Won by Slim Vote

Palermo, Sicily, June 5 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party scored a slim 21,376-vote margin—of 2,-133,378 votes cast—over Communist-led forces in Sunday's bitterly fought regional assembly elections, it was announced today. Complete but unofficial returns from the interior ministry's election bureau gave the premier's party 666,128 votes to 644,752 for the Communist-led peoples bloc.

About the Folks

Mrs. Margaret Carpino of East Kingston is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital where she underwent an operation yesterday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 5 (AP)—Low and slow described the stock market today.

Prices among leaders were down around a dollar a share at the most. Only a few traded unchanged. Plus signs were in the smallest fractional range.

The ticker tape was silent for measurable periods with volume moving at the slow rate of around a million shares a day.

The market started today much as it did yesterday—mixed and leaning lower. As the session wore on, the downside nature of the market became more pronounced without selling pressure of any kind. Buyers were not attracted by the lower prices.

Lower were Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Gulf Oil, Eastern Air Lines, International Telephone, Kennecott Copper, McIntyre-Porcupine, du Pont, American Woolen, International Paper, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, and Radio Corp.

Arrested, Man Later Falls Ill on Street

Fred Roehr, 51, who said he lives at Albany, fell ill on Broadway near the city hall this morning minutes after he had been given a 30-day suspended sentence in city court on a public intoxication charge.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital by a W. N. Conner, Inc., ambulance. The only available condition report from the hospital this afternoon was that he was "responding nicely to treatment." The police report at 10 a. m. today indicated that Roehr suffered a serious attack of illness.

Roehr was arrested at 12:10 p. m. Monday on North Front street by Patrolmen Frank Sammons and James Burns. In city court this morning, he pleaded guilty to a public intoxication charge and was given a suspended 30-day sentence.

Suffers Brain Concussion

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Fire Chief William Wayand, 59, of Scotia, N. Y., was taken to Vassar Hospital early today suffering from concussion of the brain. Police said Chief Wayand was in the lobby of the Nelson House Hotel here when two firemen became involved in an argument. Wayand tried to quiet them, police said, and one of the firemen pushed him. Wayand fell and struck his head on a staircase.

Won by Slim Vote

Palermo, Sicily, June 5 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party scored a slim 21,376-vote margin—of 2,133,378 votes cast—over Communist-led forces in Sunday's bitterly fought regional assembly elections, it was announced today. Complete but unofficial returns from the interior ministry's election bureau gave the premier's party 666,128 votes to 644,752 for the Communist-led peoples bloc.

NamedDeputyCommander

Buffalo, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Kenneth C. Dolbearb of Garden City was elected deputy grand commander of the New York State Knights Templar at the 138th annual convention yesterday. Stanley W. Wakefield, Yonkers, was elected grand senior warden. Walter A. De Lamater, Rhinebeck, was reelected grand recorder. Knights Templar state membership totals more than 16,000.

Mrs. Margaret Carpino of East Kingston is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital where she underwent an operation yesterday.

Red Reply Hurts Chances

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Russia's insistence on discussing the North Atlantic Treaty and American bases overseas apparently has all but killed off chances for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Washington. Diplomatic officials generally agreed today that is the effect of the Soviet reply yesterday to an American invitation for the British French and Russian ministers to meet here with Secretary Acheson July 23.

Papagos May Return

Athens, June 5 (AP)—Premier Sophocles Venizelos said today there was a "50-50 chance" that Field Marshal Alexander Papagos would resume command of Greece's armed forces—the post he quit last week. Venizelos made the statement to reporters after conferring with King Paul and U. S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy twice today. Peurifoy has been playing a major role in the effort to get the marshal back at the head of the armed forces.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 5 (AP)—Low and slow described the stock market today.

Prices among leaders were down around a dollar a share at the most. Only a few traded unchanged. Plus signs were in the smallest fractional range.

The ticker tape was silent for measurable periods with volume moving at the slow rate of around a million shares a day.

The market started today much as it did yesterday—mixed and leaning lower. As the session wore on, the downside nature of the market became more pronounced without selling pressure of any kind. Buyers were not attracted by the lower prices.

Lower were Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Gulf Oil, Eastern Air Lines, International Telephone, Kennecott Copper, McIntyre-Porcupine, du Pont, American Woolen, International Paper, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, and Radio Corp.

Bill Reaches House

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5 (AP)—A bill authorizing the Commonwealth to enter into a compact with New Jersey to construct a bridge across the Delaware river for the Pennsylvania Turnpike reached the House today. The measure was unanimously approved by the Senate last night. It would permit the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to act either alone or in conjunction with the New Jersey Turnpike Authority to build and operate the bridge connecting the two state toll roads.

Conductor Dead

Boston, June 5 (AP)—Serge A. Koussevitzky, who rose from humble Russian beginnings to world fame as conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, died last night at the age of 77.

He had been in poor health since he was stricken with a virus infection in Phoenix, Ariz., last winter, forcing him to cancel a planned tour through Europe as guest conductor.

But until he had to be removed to the New England Medical Center recently he was collaborating with Boris Goldovsky, a Boston composer and conductor, on an opera, "Pique Dame."

Koussevitzky was admitted to the hospital last Wednesday night two days after he fell in his Brookline home and cut his forehead. Death was reported due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

The daring and colorful Koussevitzky laid down his brilliant baton as the Boston Symphony's conductor at the close of the 1948-1949 season after serving in that capacity for 25 years—the longest any leader served in the orchestra's history.

Will Make Report

New Delhi, India, June 5 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Loy Henderson will fly to Washington June 12 to report on Indian-American relations, it was announced today. It will be the veteran diplomat's first visit since India requested 2,000,000 tons of wheat from the United States. He is expected to return here within six weeks.

Plan Spy Hunt

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A spy hunt through the nation's defense plants is being planned by the House Un-American Activities Committee. In advance of a closed session to determine future plans, several members indicated today that the committee is about to turn its attention to plants holding defense contracts. Among organizations likely to be investigated are a group of unions ousted from the CIO in the last year or so on grounds they followed the Communist party line. The committee is concluding an investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood and may send a subcommittee to Los Angeles later to wind up that inquiry.

Aptitude Tests

Princeton, N. J., June 5 (AP)—An estimated 375,000 college students all over the nation have applied to take Selective Service aptitude tests. The figure was announced yesterday by the educational testing service, now busily correcting exams taken May 26, the first of three scheduled test days. A spokesman at the testing service, which is administering the exams, said 121,911 students have signed up for the next test June 16. The third test will be given June 30. The exams are to help Selective Service officials determine whether a student should go for his diploma or be subject to the draft.

Superior Jet Started

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Production of a jet fighter superior to the Russian-designed MIG 15 being used by the Communists in Korea has started, Maj. Gen. D. L. Putt said last night. Putt, director of research and development for the air force, said on a television show the new model is not yet in combat because it is not available in sufficient quantity. He added that "we're doing everything possible to get it in action." He did not identify the fighter, but apparently it is a new model of the F86 Sabre jet.

Dental Hygienist Position Is Open

An open competitive examination for dental hygienist with the Ulster County Department of Health has been called by the Ulster County Civil Service Commission. The last date for filing applications is June 25. No written examination will be required but the candidates will be rated on their training and experience relating to the duties of and the requirements of the position.

There now exists one vacancy. The salary is $2630. Candidates must be licensed to practice as dental hygienists in the state or be eligible to enter the examination for such license.

Applications may be secured from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 32 Main street.

An open competitive examination has been called for sanitary inspector. The last day for filing applications is June 25 and the examination will be held on July 14. The salary range for this position is $2640 to $2880. At present two vacancies exist. There will be a written examination on knowledge and ability and the candidates will also be evaluated on training experience.

Engineering Is Put Aside

French Lick, Ind., June 4 (AP)—The 1952 model automobiles will come out as scheduled but some engineering advances may have to be delayed. Next year's models came in for considerable informal discussion as the Society of Automotive Engineers' summer meeting opened here today. Generally, the engineers are looking much farther ahead than 1952 model cars, but they admit several V-8 type of engineers planned by some car makers for 1952 will not be ready on time. Undoubtedly this is due to the demands the defense program has made upon the tool and die industry.

To Train New Bankers

Pittsburgh, June 5 (AP)—The nation's banks will spend about $50,000,000 in the coming year to train new employes, delegates to the 49th convention of the American Institute of Banking were told yesterday. Dr. Leroy Lewis, A.I.B. educational director, said 100,000 persons enter the banking field each year, presenting "a terrifically expensive and back-breaking burden to bank management."

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, June 5—The auxiliary police of the town will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m., in the Town of Esopus auditorium. All members are requested to attend.

The annual picnic of School 13 will be held at Forsyth Park Wednesday. All mothers of school children are invited. In the event of rain, the picnic will be held Monday, June 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvine Ransom and son, Bruce of Johnson City, were guests of their cousins, the Robert Hornbecks last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hornbeck spent Memorial Day in Grahamsville with their mother, Mrs. Hornbeck.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Larsen of Brooklyn called on Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Abrahamsen Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Wood of Wallkill spent a few days last week with Mrs. Wood's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Thornblade. While there they celebrated their third wedding anniversary.

Amos Stokes has improved enough to return home this week-end from the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Kleeck spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marion of Highland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams and son, Donald of Brooklyn, spent the week-end with Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Livingston and Mrs. Paul Rogers of Beacon visited Mrs. Livingston's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Barrett Saturday.

High Falls School announces the list of pupils who were neither absent nor tardy for the month of May: Leonard O'Hara, Jeffrey Rask, Arnold Smith, Floyd Turner, Virginia Lamendola, Jane Sarr, Valerie Smith, Carol Andersen, Barry Ayers, Robert Booth, Kenneth Countryman, Wallace Wayne Fulford, William Lambertson, Thomas Nilsen, Edmund O'Hara, Joan Ayers, Florence Schleede, Dawn Turner, Fay Williams, Marie Wallevik, George Smith, Victor Stella, Donald Andersen, Robert Andersen and Donald Scully.

Honor students for grade one—Jane Sarr and Sandra Cudney; grade two, Anne Marie Winchell; grade three, Jeffrey Rask; grade four, Edmund O'Hara; grade five, Donna Homfeld and Betty Jane Hutchins.

Fifty-four parents and children and teachers spent last Monday at West Point. They traveled by chartered bus.

Plans are underway for the annual commencement. This year will be the first one to be held as a part of the Marbletown Central District No. 3. The exercises will be held Thursday evening, June 21, in the Stone Ridge Grange Hall. The Rev. Dean Dykstra of Kingston will be the guest speaker. Achievement tests will be given Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8 and Regents, June 18, 19 and 20.

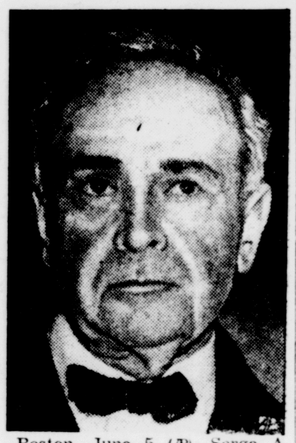

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Auchmoody of Kyserike were callers at Hillcrest Thursday.

William Flanagan and sister, Miss Margaret Flanagan of Ozone Park, are at their summer home here now.

Will Make Report

New Delhi, India, June 5 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Loy Henderson will fly to Washington June 12 to report on Indian-American relations, it was announced today. It will be the veteran diplomat's first visit since India requested 2,000,000 tons of wheat from the United States. He is expected to return here within six weeks.

Conductor Dead

Boston, June 5 (AP)—Serge A. Koussevitzky, who rose from humble Russian beginnings to world fame as conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, died last night at the age of 77.

He had been in poor health since he was stricken with a virus infection in Phoenix, Ariz., last winter, forcing him to cancel a planned tour through Europe as guest conductor.

But until he had to be removed to the New England Medical Center recently he was collaborating with Boris Goldovsky, a Boston composer and conductor, on an opera, "Pique Dame."

Koussevitzky was admitted to the hospital last Wednesday night two days after he fell in his Brookline home and cut his forehead. Death was reported due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

The daring and colorful Koussevitzky laid down his brilliant baton as the Boston Symphony's conductor at the close of the 1948-1949 season after serving in that capacity for 25 years—the longest any leader served in the orchestra's history.

Plan Spy Hunt

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A spy hunt through the nation's defense plants is being planned by the House Un-American Activities Committee. In advance of a closed session to determine future plans, several members indicated today that the committee is about to turn its attention to plants holding defense contracts. Among organizations likely to be investigated are a group of unions ousted from the CIO in the last year or so on grounds they followed the Communist party line. The committee is concluding an investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood and may send a subcommittee to Los Angeles later to wind up that inquiry.

Aptitude Tests

Princeton, N. J., June 5 (AP)—An estimated 375,000 college students all over the nation have applied to take Selective Service aptitude tests. The figure was announced yesterday by the educational testing service, now busily correcting exams taken May 26, the first of three scheduled test days. A spokesman at the testing service, which is administering the exams, said 121,911 students have signed up for the next test June 16. The third test will be given June 30. The exams are to help Selective Service officials determine whether a student should go for his diploma or be subject to the draft.

Superior Jet Started

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Production of a jet fighter superior to the Russian-designed MIG 15 being used by the Communists in Korea has started, Maj. Gen. D. L. Putt said last night. Putt, director of research and development for the air force, said on a television show the new model is not yet in combat because it is not available in sufficient quantity. He added that "we're doing everything possible to get it in action." He did not identify the fighter, but apparently it is a new model of the F86 Sabre jet.

Dental Hygienist Position Is Open

An open competitive examination for dental hygienist with the Ulster County Department of Health has been called by the Ulster County Civil Service Commission. The last date for filing applications is June 25. No written examination will be required but the candidates will be rated on their training and experience relating to the duties of and the requirements of the position.

There now exists one vacancy. The salary is $2630. Candidates must be licensed to practice as dental hygienists in the state or be eligible to enter the examination for such license.

Applications may be secured from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, 32 Main street.

An open competitive examination has been called for sanitary inspector. The last day for filing applications is June 25 and the examination will be held on July 14. The salary range for this position is $2640 to $2880. At present two vacanies exist. There will be a written examination on knowledge and ability and the candidates will also be evaluated on training experience.

Engineering Is Put Aside

French Lick, Ind., June 4 (AP)—The 1952 model automobiles will come out as scheduled but some engineering advances may have to be delayed. Next year's models came in for considerable informal discussion as the Society of Automotive Engineers' summer meeting opened here today. Generally, the engineers are looking much farther ahead than 1952 model cars, but they admit several V-8 type of engineers planned by some car makers for 1952 will not be ready on time. Undoubtedly this is due to the demands the defense program has made upon the tool and die industry.

To Train New Bankers

Pittsburgh, June 5 (AP)—The nation's banks will spend about $50,000,000 in the coming year to train new employes, delegates to the 49th convention of the American Institute of Banking were told yesterday. Dr. Leroy Lewis, A.I.B. educational director, said 100,000 persons enter the banking field each year, presenting "a terrifically expensive and back-breaking burden to bank management."

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, June 5—The auxiliary police of the town will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m., in the Town of Esopus auditorium. All members are requested to attend.

The annual picnic of School 13 will be held at Forsyth Park Wednesday. All mothers of school children are invited. In the event of rain, the picnic will be held Monday, June 14.

The automobile has changed American life in many and varied ways. One of the strangest of its effects is on ordinary standards of courtesy as applied to the casual contacts of daily living. The rules of courtesy seem to work in reverse, to an astonishing extent, among individuals with steering wheels in their hands.

When two persons arrive at a doorway at the same time, the natural inclination of each is to wait for the other to pass through first. This often leads to an awkward moment as both wait, and then another awkward moment as both acknowledge the courtesy and then start forward. But the matter clears up and each has his heart warmed by the courtesy of the other. When two motorists arrive at an intersection at the same time, all too frequently each seems to be bent on darting ahead of the other. This can lead to an awkward moment, too, but the temper rather than the heart is apt to be warmed.

BALD-HEADED DIGNITY

It is time for someone to say a kind word in defense of bald-headed men. They have been mocked by cartoonists and humorists, victimized by quacks and embarrassed by slipping toupees. Even in the Old Testament there is the tale of the three young boys who mocked a bald-headed prophet. The bald-headed are a long-suffering lot.

With the present price of haircuts already high and rising steadily, the bald-headed men would be justified in gloating a bit over the plight of their more hairy brethren. Most of the bald ones, however, approach the matter with a sense of humor and dignity which turn any ridicule back on its source. It is fitting that our dignified national symbol is the bald eagle.

MARINE MUSTACHES

United States Marines fighting in Korea have revived the old facial adornment, the mustache. Reports from the battlefront say that some of the Leathernecks have cultivated mustaches which would have done credit to the old cavalrymen of history.

The growing of beards and mustaches has dwindled in popularity in recent years, although there are still members of the government and other public figures who have cultivated them. No special reason was given for the sudden popularity of the mustache with the Marines. It was noted, however, that the long bushy type with waxed and twisted ends was most popular with the men. Perhaps the Marines decided that if Communist propaganda was going to persist in calling them villains they might as well look the part.

CRYSTAL BALL NEEDED

The 1952 Democratic convention is slated for July 21. That leaves the nation's press corps only 14 more months to try trapping President Truman into disclosure of his intentions.

In that time, every phrase he utters concerning the period from 1953 on will be scrutinized by the finest reportorial microscopes. Virtually every press conference will witness brisk sparring with newsmen trained to catch the unwary.

But Mr. Truman won't be easy prey. Lots of harsh things are said about him, but few argue that he doesn't know his business as a politician. And it wouldn't be politic to give away this secret. If his answer were "no," the next day he'd have only the Secret Service following him.

ADVANCED DESTRUCTION

The world still trembles at thought of the destruction which might have been wrought by the big V-2 rockets invented by the Germans, if the weapon had been brought to perfection in time to be useful in World War II. Now Time magazine predicts that the rocket of the future will be infinitely more terrible—big enough to carry an atomic bomb and fitted with remote controls and television "eyes" by which it can be guided by to a chosen target.

Men working on these new missiles are quoted as saying that a war fought with atomic missiles would be followed by a war fought with clubs. This is a thought which should be digested well.

'These Days'

THE AVOIDANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY

David Lawrence has altogether correctly called attention to a faisificatoin of the impression, if not actually of the news, in the instance of a Pentagon press release to the effect that the joint chiefs of staff had initiated the General MacArthur dismissal. This was aimed to counter MacArthur's speech before Congress.

We now know from the testimony of Generals Bradley, Collins and Vandenberg that the joint chiefs not only had not initiated the dismissal but that they were not consulted until after the decision was taken. The conference on the decision consisted of President Truman, General Marshall, Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman and General Bradley. Absent from the conference were the joint chiefs of staff, General Collins, Admiral Sherman and General Vandenberg. General Bradley is an impartial chairman of this body without vote and without actual chief of staff functions.

No member of the chiefs of staff will say that he gave out the false statement or that he knows who did. It was done by a Pentagon spokesman.

This is a device of American journalism that should be abandoned because it increases the possibility of falsehood in the news. What is a Pentagon spokesman, or a White House spokesman or any other kind of spokesman? He is a person with a name, address, birth certificate and probably a driver's license. He can be identified. He is known to the reporters who accept from his hand a mimeographed statement. He should be identified to the readers by name.

Men who have to stand by what they say tend to be more careful of the facts, although this generalization includes numerous exceptions, politicians, in particular, being assured by experience that the public memory is short On the other hand, the record is long and available and men are often confronted by their errors of judgment and commission at the wrong time in their careers. The record should be kept straight, particularly as regards public issues.

The President and the secretary of state have established the rule that they may not be quoted directly without their consent. This is an unfortunate rule because the paraphrased reports of what they do say at press conferences are often confusing and contradictory.

I have never attended a press conference because I have no desire to hear from officials in office anything which I cannot use, giving full responsibility to the provider of the information. Sometimes I am told that the quotations in this column are too long and too numerous. Yet, I feel that a quotation is better journalism than a paraphrase because it is more accurate. Also there are other men who are as wise as this columnist and their ideas might be even better phrased and often are.

Similarly when a press agent sends a yarn, I like to give his name. He is the source. If I choose to use such a source, I feel that the reader should know it. The reader alone ought to count in the journalism of a free people. Protecting politicians by the device of the "spokesman" is not providing the reader with an essential and accurate fact, the source of the news.

As David Lawrence wrote:

"Sometimes it takes a month or more to catch up with official propaganda and demonstrate some of its untruth. By that time impressions and prejudices have been formed and the propaganda has taken effect. Yet, in the interest of truthful reporting, the inaccuracies and misleading statements have to be exposed, no matter when the facts become available."

Sometimes it takes years to catch up. For instance, the State Department propaganda that the Chinese Communists were not Communists but were agrarian reformers was a lie perpetrated from sometime around the end of 1943 to about 1949 (the terminals cannot be pinpointed). Yet General Marshall testified that he knew they were Communists in 1946 because they told him so. I knew they were Communists in 1922. I wrote the chapters in the "China Year Book" in the 1920's concerning their progress. I helped to write and I read reports American officials in China wrote from 1923 to 1931 on this subject, which should be in the files of the State Department.

Yet, I know well-disposed men who have accepted the State Department view because it came from such a source. This inevitable acceptance of authority places upon public officials the responsibility for what they say. But a "spokesman" is not responsible. He is often a press agent who does not even understand the purport of what he hands out.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

UNDERACTIVE THYROID

As we think of the human body, most of us naturally have in mind the underlying bones which form the framework, the hundreds of muscles over the framework, then the various organs which handle our digestion, our breathing and circulation of the blood, and, finally, the brain and nerves.

What many of us forget as we think of the body are the various glands which regulate the processes of the body: the thyroid gland in the neck speeding up the various processes and the adrenal glands in the small of back, one above each kidney, which slow down and steady the rate at which the body processes work. There is the pituitary, lying on the floor of the skull, which has much to do with regulating the handling of starch foods by the digestive organs and also glands supplying other organs.

While we know about the overactivity of the thyroid gland (goiter) and how it makes the various organs and processes work faster, many of us do not know as much about the underactivity of this gland which slows up all mental and physical activity. In severe cases, the condition is called myxedema and the individual is called a cretin.

As one of the outstanding symptoms of underactivity of the thyroid gland is fatigue or tiredness, Dr. H. E. Christman, in Ohio State Medical Journal, states that of the many patients who consult their physicians with a complaint of fatigue, only a small number have heart and blood vessel diease, anemia, diabetes or tuberculosis. "Life situations are a little too difficult for some and in others the fatigue can be accounted for by poor living habits." Therefore, Dr. Christman believes that mild hyperthyroidism (underactivity of the thyroid gland) is present in many patients who complain of fatigue. There were 138 patients with this condition among 1,000 consecutive cases of unselected patients seen in his office within a period of four years. The most frequent sign seen in these patients was a below normal rate (metabolism rate) at which the body processes were working. Fatigue was a symptom in all the patients with hyperthryoidism. Dry skin and hair, brittle nails, poor tolerance to cold, dyspepsia, swelling of hands and feet, low blood pressure and constipation were other signs of hyperthyroidism.

Fortunately, all these cases suffering with lack of thyroid extract are helped immediately by use of thyroid extract daily.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The question of whether "Drew Pearson should go to jail" following publication of the minutes and a suppressed report of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee was threshed out before a stormy two-hour secret session of that committee last week.

Chief promoter of "stripes for Pearson" was Indiana's Senator Homer Capehart, the music-box king, who strongly objected to this column's publication of excerpts from the Senate Committee's investigation of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the RFC.

Capeheart had first demanded that Chairman Maybank of South Carolina interrupt the Banking and Currency Committee's important hearings on price controls and hold a special meeting to find out where Pearson got his story. Maybank called the committee together 45 minutes early. But the Indiana Senator didn't finish his rampage in 45 minutes and tied up the Senators all morning.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense Marshall waited half a day to testify.

"Here is a situation where the secret minutes of this committee have been stolen," Capehart raged. "I want to know how Pearson got them. I want to put him under subpoena. I want to call him before this committee, and if he refuses to answer I propose that we put him in jail."

Senator Capeheart was referring to this column's revelation that the B & O had cooked up a "fictitious" bankruptcy with the collusion of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and thus was able to postpone repayment of an $87,000,000 government loan until 1965. This also froze control of the railroad in the hands of Jesse Jones' RFC henchmen at salaries two or three times what they got with the RFC.

$1 Million of Publicity

While Senator Tobey, then chairman of the committee, was in New Hampshire at the bedside of his dying wife, this column further reported, Capehart had called a committee meeting and after only 18 minutes debate, the committee had voted to pigeonhole Tobey's report.

As a result, the uncovering of scandals inside the RFC was postponed four years. If they had been exposed at that time—1947—the taxpayers would have been saved a lot of money later.

Ten or twelve times during the secret committee meeting last week, Capehart repeated: "I want Pearson put under subpoena. I want him put on the stand. I want him jailed for contempt."

However, other senators did not agree.

"It would give Pearson a million dollars worth of publicity," remonstrated Senator Benton of Connecticut, who made a million dollars himself with the New York advertising firm of Benton and Bowles.

"I'm a newspaperman," said Senator Blair Moody of Michigan who was formerly with the Detroit News, "and I can tell you that Pearson would simply refuse to reveal his source. Then where would we be?"

"If you do subpoena Pearson," drawled Fulbright of Arkansas mischievously, "I want to be sure that we subpoena Walter Trohan, too." He referred to the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who has been suspected of getting leaks from the Tribune's close friend, Capehart.

"You would only pour gasoline on the fire," admonished Senator Bricker of Ohio, a Republican close to Capehart. "In Ohio we have a law giving a newspaperman the privilege of refusing to reveal his sources. Why don't you forget it, Homer? Or make a speech about Pearson on the Senate floor?"

Vote of Confidence

Capehart, however, kept insisting that Pearson be subpoenaed. Finally, when he could get no support from any senator except Robertson of Virginia, who claimed Pearson had been critical of his colleague Senator Byrd, Capehart switched his strategy. He proposed that the committee "invite" Pearson to testify in executive session rather than issuing a subpoena. This, however, was also turned down.

Then the Indiana senator demanded a vote of confidence from the committee in refutation of this column's charge that Capehart had "suppressed" the B & O report. But even this was brushed aside.

"Now, Homer," remonstrated kindly Senator Douglas of Illinois, "the minutes say that you did order the B & O report placed under lock and key and that you did specify that no word be given to the press. Of course, I don't think you did anything wrong, but I'd want to read the record before I voted on a motion like that."

However, the Indiana senator persisted. "I want a vote of confidence in my honesty," he kept repeating.

But the vote was not taken. Instead, several senators said they had full confidence in him. In the end, however, the meeting which was called to investigate Pearson ended up by investigating the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the suppressed report of its dealings with the RFC.

Tobey Accuses

This turn of affairs came after Schoeppel of Kansas demanded that ex-chairman Tobey, author of the suppressed report, be called before the committee. It is somewhat irregular for a fellow senator to be subjected to cross examination. However, Tobey not only stoutly denied giving out the minutes, but claimed he didn't even know they existed.

Then, flushing with indignation, he went on to denounce the RFC-B. & O. loan as a "scandal."

"This affair smells unto heaven," Tobey shouted. "Some committee members didn't want the report published and they put it under lock and key."

Then looking straight at his fellow Republican Capehart, who sat stiff as a ramrod, Tobey charged that "B. & O. officials even passed notes to committee members." He referred to the fact that Capehart had admitted asking questions on behalf of B. & O. lawyers who sat behind him.

After Tobey's fiery testimony, Michigan's Senator Moody, a Democrat, suggested: "In view of what the senator from New Hampshire has said, I move that the whole case be investigated."

Douglas of Illinois agreed, and Chairman Maybank rapped: "It is so ruled."

Note — Every member of the committee staff was brought in, put under oath, and asked whether he had given either the secret minutes or the suppressed report to Pearson. All swore in the negative. A careful check also showed that every copy of the report had been returned to the committee's safe except one — which remained in the hands of the chairman, Senator Maybank. He got slightly red when all eyes focused on him but stoutly claimed he had not given his copy to Pearson—which was true.

Legalisms in Sharp Conflict With Realism During Acheson Questioning

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 5—Legalism, which is the habit of looking at things in a technical and legalistic way, came into sharp conflict with realism—the habit of looking at facts as they actually are—when Secretary of State Acheson was interrogated by Senator Morse of Oregon at the Senate hearings.

The phrase "international law" was brought into the discussion—as if there is any respect nowadays for its doctrines by Russian or by Chinese Communists. In fact, the American government itself doesn't appear to be interested in taking advantage of the precedents of international law in the Korean situation. The following is from the testimony on Monday:

"Senator Morse: Mr. Secretary, what is your interpretation of the Russian-Chinese Mutual Aid Security Compact? Is it your interpretation that in view of existing conditions in Asia as of today, an extension of the war onto the mainland of China by the United Nations forces would place Russia in a position, as far as international law is concerned, to justify intervention on her part in the name of the Russian-Chinese Treaty?

"Secretary Acheson: Yes, Senator Morse, I believe that the treaty is of such a nature that it would give the Russians the opportunity and it would also give the Chinese a very considerable lever to demand that the Russians do that."

It seems incredible that such an issue should be raised in matters related to the Korean War. For everybody knows that international law has not been in the slightest degree enforced by the United States against the true enemy in Korea nor has this country sought to secure respect for international law among its own allies. Here are some of the facts of realism which make the mention of "international law" at the Senate hearings seem rather ironical today:

1. The United States is blockading the island of Formosa as against invasion by the forces of Communist China and at no time has the United States declared a state of war against the Communist Chinese authority.

2. The Russian government is furnishing munitions and supplies to the Communist troops fighting against the forces of the United States and its allies. This is in direct violation of all the historic principles of international law which forbid neutral territory to be used as a base of direct supply to military forces of either side in a war.

3. The United Nations has declared Red China an aggressor as the term is used in international law, but Great Britain and several other governments supposedly allied with us in Korea have failed to withdraw recognition from the aggressor government. Under international law trade carried on with an enemy by any co-belligerent or ally is tantamount to assistance. There are plenty of precedents under international law to justify a naval blockade of the China coast because the Communist Chinese are actually engaged in war against the U.N. forces. But it is common knowledge that most of the U.N. members, and primarily Great Britain, oppose the imposition of such a blockade, thus ignoring one of the fundamental principles of international comity.

4. The U.N. has failed to recognize the existence of a state of war between Red China and the members of the U.N. The United States has refrained from proclaiming a state of war against Red China as covered by the numerous precedents of international law. When a conflict lasts for nearly a year and involves 1,000,000 casualties, it is neither a "police action" nor a skirmish under international law. All the high officials of the government here now use the term "limited war" but this term has no standing in international law. It means in the minds of the users of the phrase that the territorial area in which the war is fought may be limited for mutually acceptable reasons. But the nature of the conflict is war and the intensity of it is war. Unwillingness to formalize the existence of a state of war is, therefore, an indifference to international law. It will some day rise up to plague us, especially in the settlement of claims and in establishing the ultimate rights of our troops who have fought in this self-same war. It has already deprived us of the legal right of a naval blockade.

It would be realistic to say that the American government is afraid of an increase in the amount and character of Russia's intervention in the Korean war, but it is wholly unrealistic to claim that the American government is afraid to bomb Manchurian bases because Russia may have an allegedly superior right under international law. The doctrine of "hot pursuit" and the doctrine of attacking so-called neutral territory when it is used as a base of military operations are too well established in international law to say now that Russia would have any legal right whatsoever in the realm of international law to put its troops into action in Manchuria if the Chinese bases there were bombed.

It's strange how all the emphasis of some of the pro-administration senators at the hearings is on Russia's rights, and scarcely a whisper is heard about American rights under international law.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The recall of General MacArthur and the great patriotic acclaim which greeted him, touched off a revival of the lies with which Eleanor Roosevelt and other members of that cult had tried to injure him in times past. Drew Pearson circulated the lying statement that MacArthur put on his full-dress uniform ere he took to the street in compliance with a military order from the secretary of war to put down a violent insurrection against the government in the shadow of the Capitol.

The empress made the mistake of elaborating the lies about the roles of President Hoover and General MacArthur and presenting them in the official version of this cult soon after she took her pitch over to McCall's magazine in 1949. When General Pat Hurley, who had been President Hoover's secretary of war, jammed her lie down her throat in a statement which McCall's felt obliged to print, La Boca Grande still hadn't the decency to admit that she had lied and to apologize. In dealing with such people it is not necessary to affect an artificial deference, but Hurley did couch his devastating denial in sarcastic flounces which, to some readers, May have seemed sincere. She, herself, could not have been deceived however, for she knows his true opinion of her.

She accused both Hoover and MacArthur of cowardly fear and was, as usual, unmoved by the criminal violence of mobs incited and directed by Communist traitors.

"I shall never forget my feeling of horror when I realized that the Army had actually been ordered to fire on the veterans," she wrote in McCall's. "This one incident shows what fear can make people do. Mr. Hoover was a Quaker; and General MacArthur, his chief of staff, must have known how many veterans would resent the order and never forget it." Later, in the book version, she withdrew the lie about the order to the troops to shoot.

Hurley said her lies were "erroneous statements" which he could not ignore because they did a grave injustice to Hoover and MacArthur. He noted that the world was then in economic panic, that the Hoover-Roosevelt presidential campaign was on and that "The Democratic National Committee, as well as the Soviet Comintern and some of the veterans, declined to accept as true the facts pertaining to the marchers' riot."

In plainer words, this vicious lie was widely exploited by Charlie Michelson, the chief press agent of the Democratic national committee and originator of the smear technique which this old woman now abhors when her personal friends, such as Alger Hiss, are shown up as traitors.

Michelson later got a latch-key to the White House and hung around Roosevelt's private office during a period when he was in the fee of the Crosley Radio Company, of Cincinnati, at $20,000 a year. Crosley was after a 50,000 license from the Federal Communications Commission. Michelson was its lobbyist with a desk in the White House and the favor was granted.

"No order was given by anyone to the soldiers to fire on the veterans," Hurley continued. "The riot was stopped by the Army personnel without firing a shot. Not one person was seriously injured after the arrival of the Army troops."

The automobile has changed American life in many and varied ways. One of the strangest of its effects is on ordinary standards of courtesy as applied to the casual contacts of daily living. The rules of courtesy seem to work in reverse, to an astonishing extent, among individuals with steering wheels in their hands.

When two persons arrive at a doorway at the same time, the natural inclination of each is to wait for the other to pass through first. This often leads to an awkward moment as both wait, and then another awkward moment as both acknowledge the courtesy and then start forward. But the matter clears up and each has his heart warmed by the courtesy of the other. When two motorists arrive at an intersection at the same time, all too frequently each seems to be bent on darting ahead of the other. This can lead to an awkward moment, too, but the temper rather than the heart is apt to be warmed.

BALD-HEADED DIGNITY

It is time for someone to say a kind word in defense of bald-headed men. They have been mocked by cartoonists and humorists, victimized by quacks and embarrassed by slipping toupees. Even in the Old Testament there is the tale of the three young boys who mocked a bald-headed prophet. The bald-headed are a long-suffering lot.

With the present price of haircuts already high and rising steadily, the bald-headed men would be justified in gloating a bit over the plight of their more hairy brethren. Most of the bald ones, however, approach the matter with a sense of humor and dignity which turn any ridicule back on its source. It is fitting that our dignified national symbol is the bald eagle.

MARINE MUSTACHES

United States Marines fighting in Korea have revived the old facial adornment, the mustache. Reports from the battlefront say that some of the Leathernecks have cultivated mustaches which would have done credit to the old cavalrymen of history.

The growing of beards and mustaches has dwindled in popularity in recent years, although there are still members of the government and other public figures who have cultivated them. No special reason was given for the sudden popularity of the mustache with the Marines. It was noted, however, that the long bushy type with waxed and twisted ends was most popular with the men. Perhaps the Marines decided that if Communist propaganda was going to persist in calling them villains they might as well look the part.

CRYSTAL BALL NEEDED

The 1952 Democratic convention is slated for July 21. That leaves the nation's press corps only 14 more months to try trapping President Truman into disclosure of his intentions.

In that time, every phrase he utters concerning the period from 1953 on will be scrutinized by the finest reportorial microscopes. Virtually every press conference will witness brisk sparring with newsmen trained to catch the unwary.

But Mr. Truman won't be easy prey. Lots of harsh things are said about him, but few argue that he doesn't know his business as a politician. And it wouldn't be politic to give away this secret. If his answer were "no," the next day he'd have only the Secret Service following him.

ADVANCED DESTRUCTION

The world still trembles at thought of the destruction which might have been wrought by the big V-2 rockets invented by the Germans, if the weapon had been brought to perfection in time to be useful in World War II. Now Time magazine predicts that the rocket of the future will be infinitely more terrible—big enough to carry an atomic bomb and fitted with remote controls and television "eyes" by which it can be guided by to a chosen target.

Men working on these new missiles are quoted as saying that a war fought with atomic missiles would be followed by a war fought with clubs. This is a thought which should be digested well.

'These Days'

THE AVOIDANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY

David Lawrence has altogether correctly called attention to a faisificatoin of the impression, if not actually of the news, in the instance of a Pentagon press release to the effect that the joint chiefs of staff had initiated the General MacArthur dismissal. This was aimed to counter MacArthur's speech before Congress.

We now know from the testimony of Generals Bradley, Collins and Vandenberg that the joint chiefs not only had not initiated the dismissal but that they were not consulted until after the decision was taken. The conference on the decision consisted of President Truman, General Marshall, Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman and General Bradley. Absent from the conference were the joint chiefs of staff, General Collins, Admiral Sherman and General Vandenberg. General Bradley is an impartial chairman of this body without vote and without actual chief of staff functions.

No member of the chiefs of staff will say that he gave out the false statement or that he knows who did. It was done by a Pentagon spokesman.

This is a device of American journalism that should be abandoned because it increases the possibility of falsehood in the news. What is a Pentagon spokesman, or a White House spokesman or any other kind of spokesman? He is a person with a name, address, birth certificate and probably a driver's license. He can be identified. He is known to the reporters who accept from his hand a mimeographed statement. He should be identified to the readers by name.

Men who have to stand by what they say tend to be more careful of the facts, although this generalization includes numerous exceptions, politicians, in particular, being assured by experience that the public memory is short. On the other hand, the record is long and available and men are often confronted by their errors of judgment and commission at the wrong time in their careers. The record should be kept straight, particularly as regards public issues.

The President and the secretary of state have established the rule that they may not be quoted directly without their consent. This is an unfortunate rule because the paraphrased reports of what they do say at press conferences are often confusing and contradictory.

I have never attended a press conference because I have no desire to hear from officials in office anything which I cannot use, giving full responsibility to the provider of the information. Sometimes I am told that the quotations in this column are too long and too numerous. Yet, I feel that a quotation is better journalism than a paraphrase because it is more accurate. Also there are other men who are as wise as this columnist and their ideas might be even better phrased and often are.

Similarly when a press agent sends a yarn, I like to give his name. He is the source. If I choose to use such a source, I feel that the reader should know it. The reader alone ought to count in the journalism of a free people. Protecting politicians by the device of the "spokesman" is not providing the reader with an essential and accurate fact, the source of the news.

As David Lawrence wrote:

"Sometimes it takes a month or more to catch up with official propaganda and demonstrate some of its untruth. By that time impressions and prejudices have been formed and the propaganda has taken effect. Yet, in the interest of truthful reporting, the inaccuracies and misleading statements have to be exposed, no matter when the facts become available."

Sometimes it takes years to catch up. For instance, the State Department propaganda that the Chinese Communists were not Communists but were agrarian reformers was a lie perpetrated from sometime around the end of 1943 to about 1949 (the terminals cannot be pinpointed). Yet General Marshall testified that he knew they were Communists in 1946 because they told him so. I knew they were Communists in 1922. I wrote the chapters in the "China Year Book" in the 1920's concerning their progress. I helped to write and I read reports American officials in China wrote from 1923 to 1931 on this subject, which should be in the files of the State Department.

Yet, I know well-disposed men who have accepted the State Department view because it came from such a source. This inevitable acceptance of authority places upon public officials the responsibility for what they say. But a "spokesman" is not responsible. He is often a press agent who does not even understand the purport of what he hands out.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

UNDERACTIVE THYROID

As we think of the human body, most of us naturally have in mind the underlying bones which form the framework, the hundreds of muscles over the framework, then the various organs which handle our digestion, our breathing and circulation of the blood, and, finally, the brain and nerves.

What many of us forget as we think of the body are the various glands which regulate the processes of the body: the thyroid gland in the neck speeding up the various processes and the adrenal glands in the small of back, one above each kidney, which slow down and steady the rate at which the body processes work. There is the pituitary, lying on the floor of the skull, which has much to do with regulating the handling of starch foods by the digestive organs and also glands supplying other organs.

While we know about the overactivity of the thyroid gland (goiter) and how it makes the various organs and processes work faster, many of us do not know as much about the underactivity of this gland which slows up all mental and physical activity. In severe cases, the condition is called myxedema and the individual is called a cretin.

As one of the outstanding symptoms of underactivity of the thyroid gland is fatigue or tiredness, Dr. H. E. Christman, in Ohio State Medical Journal, states that of the many patients who consult their physicians with a complaint of fatigue, only a small number have heart and blood vessel disease, anemia, diabetes or tuberculosis. "Life situations are a little too difficult for some and in others the fatigue can be accounted for by poor living habits." Therefore, Dr. Christman believes that mild hyperthyroidism (underactivity of the thyroid gland) is present in many patients who complain of fatigue. There were 138 patients with this condition among 1,000 consecutive cases of unselected patients seen in his office within a period of four years. The most frequent sign seen in these patients was a below normal rate (metabolism rate) at which the body processes were working. Fatigue was a symptom in all the patients with hyperthryoidism. Dry skin and hair, brittle nails, poor tolerance to cold, dyspepsia, swelling of hands and feet, low blood pressure and constipation were other signs of hyperthyroidism.

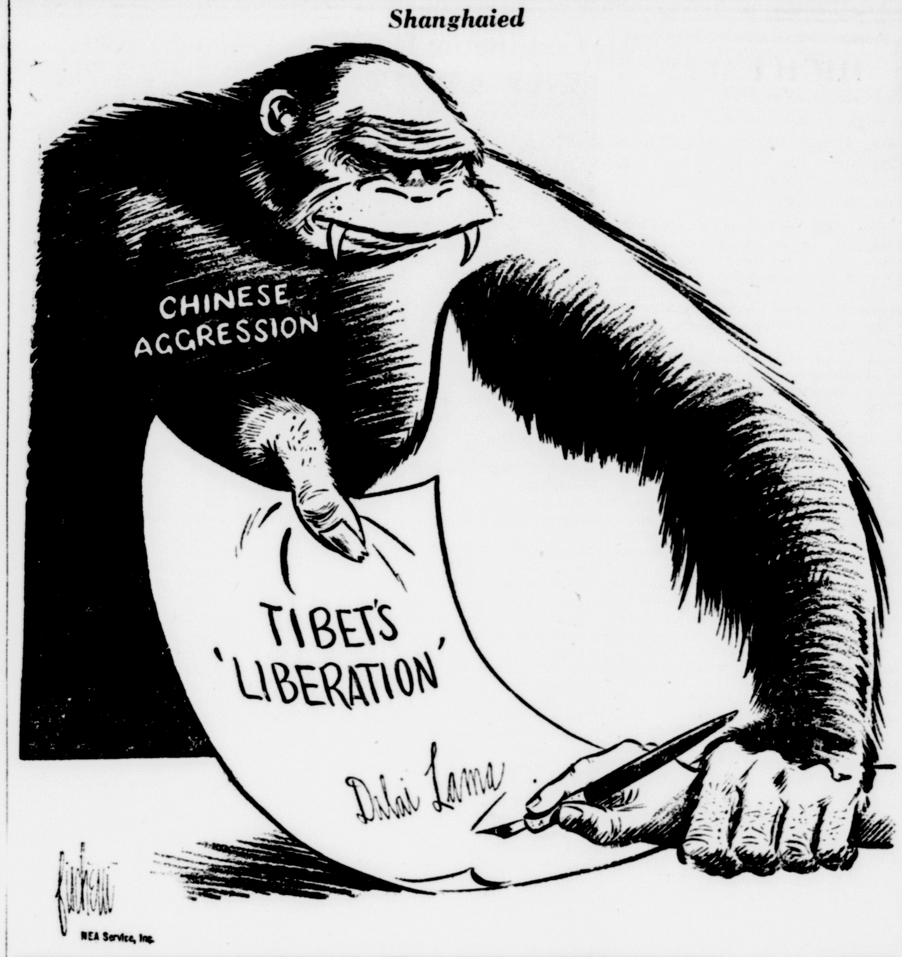

Fortunately, all these cases suffering with lack of thyroid extract are helped immediately by use of thyroid extract daily.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The question of whether "Drew Pearson should go to jail" following publication of the minutes and a suppressed report of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee was threshed out before a stormy two-hour secret session of that committee last week.

Chief promoter of "stripes for Pearson" was Indiana's Senator Homer Capehart, the music-box king, who strongly objected to this column's publication of excerpts from the Senate Committee's investigation of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the RFC.

Capeheart had first demanded that Chairman Maybank of South Carolina interrupt the Banking and Currency Committee's important hearings on price controls and hold a special meeting to find out where Pearson got his story. Maybank called the committee together 45 minutes early. But the Indiana Senator didn't finish his rampage in 45 minutes and tied up the Senators all morning.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense Marshall waited half a day to testify.

"Here is a situation where the secret minutes of this committee have been stolen," Capehart raged. "I want to know how Pearson got them. I want to put him under subpoena. I want to call him before this committee, and if he refuses to answer I propose that we put him in jail."

Senator Capeheart was referring to this column's revelation that the B & O had cooked up a "fictitious" bankruptcy with the collusion of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and thus was able to postpone repayment of an $87,000,000 government loan until 1965. This also froze control of the railroad in the hands of Jesse Jones' RFC henchmen at salaries two or three times what they got with the RFC.

$1 Million of Publicity

While Senator Tobey, then chairman of the committee, was in New Hampshire at the bedside of his dying wife, this column further reported, Capehart had called a committee meeting and after only 18 minutes debate, the committee had voted to pigeonhole Tobey's report.

As a result, the uncovering of scandals inside the RFC was postponed four years. If they had been exposed at that time—1947—the taxpayers would have been saved a lot of money later.

Ten or twelve times during the secret committee meeting last week, Capehart repeated: "I want Pearson put under subpoena. I want him put on the stand. I want him jailed for contempt."

However, other senators did not agree.

"It would give Pearson a million dollars worth of publicity," remonstrated Senator Benton of Connecticut, who made a million dollars himself with the New York advertising firm of Benton and Bowles.

"I'm a newspaperman," said Senator Blair Moody of Michigan who was formerly with the Detroit News, "and I can tell you that Pearson would simply refuse to reveal his source. Then where would we be?"

"If you do subpoena Pearson," drawled Fulbright of Arkansas mischievously, "I want to be sure that we subpoena Walter Trohan, too." He referred to the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who has been suspected of getting leaks from the Tribune's close friend, Capehart.

"You would only pour gasoline on the fire," admonished Senator Bricker of Ohio, a Republican close to Capehart. "In Ohio we have a law giving a newspaperman the privilege of refusing to reveal his sources. Why don't you forget it, Homer? Or make a speech about Pearson on the Senate floor?"

Vote of Confidence

Capehart, however, kept insisting that Pearson be subpoenaed. Finally, when he could get no support from any senator except Robertson of Virginia, who claimed Pearson had been critical of his colleague Senator Byrd, Capehart switched his strategy. He proposed that the committee "invite" Pearson to testify in executive session rather than issuing a subpoena. This, however, was also turned down.

Then the Indiana senator demanded a vote of confidence from the committee in refutation of this column's charge that Capehart had "suppressed" the B & O report. But even this was brushed aside.

"Now, Homer," remonstrated kindly Senator Douglas of Illinois, "the minutes say that you did order the B & O report placed under lock and key and that you did specify that no word be given to the press. Of course, I don't think you did anything wrong, but I'd want to read the record before I voted on a motion like that."

However, the Indiana senator persisted. "I want a vote of confidence in my honesty," he kept repeating.

But the vote was not taken. Instead, several senators said they had full confidence in him. In the end, however, the meeting which was called to investigate Pearson ended up by investigating the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the suppressed report of its dealings with the RFC.

Tobey Accuses

This turn of affairs came after Schoeppel of Kansas demanded that ex-chairman Tobey, author of the suppressed report, be called before the committee. It is somewhat irregular for a fellow senator to be subjected to cross examination. However, Tobey not only stoutly denied giving out the minutes, but claimed he didn't even know they existed.

Then, flushing with indignation, he went on to denounce the RFC-B. & O. loan as a "scandal."

"This affair smells unto heaven," Tobey shouted. "Some committee members didn't want the report published and they put it under lock and key."

Then looking straight at his fellow Republican Capehart, who sat stiff as a ramrod, Tobey charged that "B. & O. officials even passed notes to committee members." He referred to the fact that Capehart had admitted asking questions on behalf of B. & O. lawyers who sat behind him.

After Tobey's fiery testimony, Michigan's Senator Moody, a Democrat, suggested: "In view of what the senator from New Hampshire has said, I move that the whole case be investigated."

Douglas of Illinois agreed, and Chairman Maybank rapped: "It is so ruled."

Note — Every member of the committee staff was brought in, put under oath, and asked whether he had given either the secret minutes or the suppressed report to Pearson. All swore in the negative. A careful check also showed that every copy of the report had been returned to the committee's safe except one — which remained in the hands of the chairman, Senator Maybank. He got slightly red when all eyes focused on him but stoutly claimed he had not given his copy to Pearson—which was true.

Legalisms in Sharp Conflict With Realism During Acheson Questioning

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 5—Legalism, which is the habit of looking at things in a technical and legalistic way, came into sharp conflict with realism—the habit of looking at facts as they actually are—when Secretary of State Acheson was interrogated by Senator Morse of Oregon at the Senate hearings.

The phrase "international law" was brought into the discussion—as if there is any respect nowadays for its doctrines by Russian or by Chinese Communists. In fact, the American government itself doesn't appear to be interested in taking advantage of the precedents of international law in the Korean situation. The following is from the testimony on Monday:

"Senator Morse: Mr. Secretary, what is your interpretation of the Russian-Chinese Mutual Aid Security Compact? Is it your interpretation that in view of existing conditions in Asia as of today, an extension of the war onto the mainland of China by the United Nations forces would place Russia in a position, as far as international law is concerned, to justify intervention on her part in the name of the Russian-Chinese Treaty?

"Secretary Acheson: Yes, Senator Morse, I believe that the treaty is of such a nature that it would give the Russians the opportunity and it would also give the Chinese a very considerable lever to demand that the Russians do that."

It seems incredible that such an issue should be raised in matters related to the Korean War. For everybody knows that international law has not been in the slightest degree enforced by the United States against the true enemy in Korea nor has this country sought to secure respect for international law among its own allies. Here are some of the facts of realism which make the mention of "international law" at the Senate hearings seem rather ironical today:

1. The United States is blockading the island of Formosa as against invasion by the forces of Communist China and at no time has the United States declared a state of war against the Communist Chinese authority.

2. The Russian government is furnishing munitions and supplies to the Communist troops fighting against the forces of the United States and its allies. This is in direct violation of all the historic principles of international law which forbid neutral territory to be used as a base of direct supply to military forces of either side in a war.

3. The United Nations has declared Red China an aggressor as the term is used in international law, but Great Britain and several other governments supposedly allied with us in Korea have failed to withdraw recognition from the aggressor government. Under international law trade carried on with an enemy by any co-belligerent or ally is tantamount to assistance. There are plenty of precedents under international law to justify a naval blockade of the China coast because the Communist Chinese are actually engaged in war against the U.N. forces. But it is common knowledge that most of the U.N. members, and primarily Great Britain, oppose the imposition of such a blockade, thus ignoring one of the fundamental principles of international comity.

4. The U.N. has failed to recognize the existence of a state of war between Red China and the members of the U.N. The United States has refrained from proclaiming a state of war against Red China as covered by the numerous precedents of international law. When a conflict lasts for nearly a year and involves 1,000,000 casualties, it is neither a "police action" nor a skirmish under international law. All the high officials of the government here now use the term "limited war" but this term has no standing in international law. It means in the minds of the users of the phrase that the territorial area in which the war is fought may be limited for mutually acceptable reasons. But the nature of the conflict is war and the intensity of it is war. Unwillingness to formalize the existence of a state of war is, therefore, an indifference to international law. It will some day rise up to plague us, especially in the settlement of claims and in establishing the ultimate rights of our troops who have fought in this self-same war. It has already deprived us of the legal right of a naval blockade.

It would be realistic to say that the American government is afraid of an increase in the amount and character of Russia's intervention in the Korean war, but it is wholly unrealistic to claim that the American government is afraid to bomb Manchurian bases because Russia may have an allegedly superior right under international law. The doctrine of "hot pursuit" and the doctrine of attacking so-called neutral territory when it is used as a base of military operations are too well established in international law to say now that Russia would have any legal right whatsoever in the realm of international law to put its troops into action in Manchuria if the Chinese bases there were bombed.

It's strange how all the emphasis of some of the pro-administration senators at the hearings is on Russia's rights, and scarcely a whisper is heard about American rights under international law.

Education Costs Held as Bulwark Against Russia

A public school system such as Kingston's is a big business.

Operating expenses of the Kingston school system averages more than $6,000 a day, every day that school is in session.

The system has 273 employes who are paid a total of $89,000 a month.

There are 5,035 pupils registered in the local school system, from kindergarten through high school. Cost per pupil per year figures out to $257.86 for current operating expenses only, exclusive of capital outlay for new construction.

In addition to the more than 5,000 pupils registered for regular work, there were 423 registered for summer school and 450 registered in adult education courses.

Budget Over Million

Total school budget for the current year amounted to $1,407,416.04, of which a little more than 34 per cent is paid by the city. The remaining 65.7 per cent comes from state aid and non-resident tuition.

These statistics and others were prepared by Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, and were included in a talk given by him at the Kingston Lions Club May 29.

In discussing the cost of public schools, Laidlaw stressed the value of education as a bulwark against communism, and the comparative cost of war.

"The greatest, if not the only bulwark against the Communistic philosophy is an understanding, informed and educated people," he said. The strongest opposition to the followers of Stalin is found in the countries where there are good systems of public education, he said, naming as examples Canada, England, Australia, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Switzerland and the United States.

"To protect our way of life the system of free public education must never be placed in jeopardy," Laidlaw said.

Lower Than War Price

Contending that the cost of maintaining our schools is small compared to the cost of fighting a war, the speaker pointed out that the cost of the Korean war for the first eight months was $30,000,000. The cost per year for maintaining public schools for the training of over 30 million children is about $7 billion, he said.

Speaking of the type of courses offered in Kingston, Superintendent Laidlaw branded as "untrue and quite groundless" statements sometimes heard to the effect that our schools fail to meet the needs of our students. He listed classes for mentally retarded children in three schools, the kindergartens which provide pre-school training to bridge the gap between the home and the formal teaching in the first grades, the increasing use of visual aids and the broad educational program in the MJM and high schools, including not only academic but also music, physical education, art, industrial arts and homemaking.

In the high school, he pointed out, there are 16 different courses, each leading to a high school diploma. There are four college preparatory courses, five business and commercial, four industrial, one agricultural, one homemaking and one art course.

Of 380 students in this year's graduating class, 101 have been accepted for admission to colleges and an additional 26 applications are still pending. This total of 127 who will enter higher institutions of learning represents 33.4 per cent of the members of the graduating class, "a record well above the state and national average," Laidlaw said.

Of the 1951 class at Kingston High School, 118 persons are majoring in business; 68 in shop; 67 in science; 41 in language; 38 in math; 17 in music; 25 in homemaking; 15 in agriculture; 12 in art, and four in needle trades. Twenty-three of the students have double majors.

Sees Rgistration Boost

Speaking of future needs, Laidlaw cited figures from the Bureau of Vital Statistics showing that live births in Kingston in 1947 totalled 648, a 65 per cent increase over 1940. Births in 1950 totalled 549, which is 40 per cent over 1940. This leads to the expectation that at least 400 children will register in kindergarten in September, 1951, an increase of 25 per cent over the 1950 registration.

"Such an increase will have a serious impact upon our schools," he said. "The new Washington Elementary School which we hope will open sometime this fall will only partially solve this problem. The new building has 21 classrooms, three kindergartens, special rooms for a special class, music, art, homemaking, physical education, library, cafeteria and others," Laidlaw said.

He concluded, "The progress in a community depends upon the progress made in the schools, for here are trained tomorrow's leaders. Let's make certain that tomorrow is properly cared for."

deputy was shot in the neck and abdomen. He was paralyzed from the chest down by a bullet that struck his spinal cord.

The operation was on Fennell's spinal cord. It was performed by Dr. Frederick W. Geib, a neurosurgeon on the University of Rochester School of Medicine faculty, and Dr. Charles J. Bobeck of Canandaigua.

Bobeck said the operation was "a life or death matter."

Meanwhile, three of the airmen were in jail here on charges of armed robbery in connection with the holdup and the shooting.

One in Hospital

A fourth, Sgt. Stephen Cohn, 21, of New York city, was under an armed guard at a hospital in Geneva. He was suffering from a bullet wound in the stomach. His condition was reported as fair.

The four were charged yesterday. Three of the airmen—Sgt. Peter Gannon, 19, of Woodstock, N. Y., Cpl. Joseph McCretton, 22, of North Attleboro, Mass., and Pfc. Anthony Napoli, 20, of Philadelphia—waived examination before City Judge Edward J. Colmey.

They were captured yesterday in Geneva after an exchange of fire with police at a roadblock.

The airmen are charged with robbing $250 from Converse McMillan, 63, a service station attendant.

Geneva police said McCretton had admitted in an oral statement that he shot Fennell when the deputy forced the getaway car to halt just east of here on Route 20.

der existing conditions to provide adequate air cover."

The telegram asked the embassies to advise the reaction of the other governments but said the United States was not asking "concurrence" because the "hot pursuit" doctrine "would turn upon military necessity and elementary principles of self-defense."

Says Acheson Out in Fall

An administration senator said today he expects Secretary of State Acheson, currently under Republicans' fire in the MacArthur inquiry, to remain in the Truman cabinet until sometime this fall.

The Democratic senator, who didn't want to be quoted by name, supports the administration's foreign policies in the clash over President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander.

But he said he and some other Democrats who also support Truman foreign policies believe Acheson is a political liability and must be replaced before the next presidential election.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said last Saturday in Providence, R. I., Acheson "may eventually conclude that courageous public service exacts a price that is not worth paying."

McGrath said he could not elaborate on that statement, made in an interview with the Providence Journal-Bulletin.

Communist Prosections . . .

citizens, and a bad day for the conspirators," he said.

In New York, Eugene Dennis, secretary general of the Communist party of the United States, branded the decision upholding his conviction and that of his fellow Communist leaders as "thought-control." He said the party leaders will ask the Supreme Court for a re-hearing.

Like the others, Dennis is free in bail. The statement said:

"In an atmosphere of war hysteria, the Truman court majority voted to substitute the Smith Thought-Control Act for ... free speech, press, assembly, worship.

"We warn the American people that reaction here, as in Nazi Germany, will not stop with the Communists. Reaction will try to ... smash the trade unions, sharpen the terror against the Negro people and stifle the growing peace movement."

The statement declared that the party "does not now advocate and never has advocated forcible overthrow of the government."

McGrath has asserted that the current case, brought against individuals, cannot be construed as outlawing the Communist party.

According to the FBI, the party currently has about 42,000 dues-paying members in the United States. A year ago the estimate was 50,000. Officials associate the drop with a continuing trend toward underground operation.

The group whose convictions were affirmed in the Supreme Court consisted, besides Dennis, of Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., Gilbert Green, Robert G. Thompson, John Gates, John B. Williamson, Carl Winter, Gus Hall, Jacob Stachel, Henry Winston and Irving Potash. All got five-year sentences except Thompson, given only three years in recognition of army service during World War 2.

A twelfth top official, William Z. Foster, was indicted with the group but was excused from trial with them because of illness. The Justice Department said today he will be tried separately.

The convicted 11 have 15 days in which to ask the high court for another hearing. Since the tribunal has now started its summer recess, their attorneys would have to get some member of the court to issue a stay of proceedings. In the absence of a stay, they would normally begin serving time in about 25 days.

The defendants are free on bail totaling $260,000. Dennis recently completed a one year sentence for contempt of Congress.

Dissenters from the court majority were Justices Black and Douglas, who cited the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech. Justice Clark, who was attorney general when the group was indicted, did not participate in the outcome.

400 Scouts Attend Council Camporee

More than 400 Boy Scouts and Explorers participated in the annual Rip Van Winkle Council Camporee at Camp Tri-Mount at East Jewett last week-end.

Activities of 25 troops from Ulster and Greene counties were supervised by 54 adult leaders.

Highlight of the camping week-end was the "adventure Trail" which started 10 a. m. Saturday and lasted until 4 p. m. Frank Bourke, district commissioner of the Kingston District, and Alfred O'Bryan, Mountain District commissioner, conducted the series of events, which included first aid, tracking, nature lore, rope rescue, compass work, trail signs, signaling, physical skills and judging. The final event was "Scout Spirit and Participation," in which each patrol was judged by its own scoutmaster.

First place in the "Adventure Trail" was earned by Troop 44, sponsored by the Catskill VFW Post under direction of Scoutmaster Louis Frani. Second place went to Troop 15, Church of the Comforter, Kingston, under Wilson Wright, scoutmaster; third place to Troop 8, First Presbyterian Church, Kingston, John Clark, scoutmaster. Awards were presented at the closing ceremony by the council commissioner, Val Morrow of Maplecrest.

A surprise was given the Scouts when William Kobelt, scoutmaster of Troop 76 Wallkill, flew his plane over the camping area and dropped marshmallows for all the troops.

The Saturday evening council campfire was conducted by William Daum, scoutmaster of Troop 9 of Kingston. The woods and hills echoed and re-echoed to the songs, cheers and yells as the huge crowd of Scouts united their voices. Troop 72 of Marlborough, Troop 12 of Kingston and Troop 8 of Kingston presented stunts and skits. Robert Tremper, scoutmaster of Troop 11, led the singing. At the close of the campfire all present rededicated themselves to the Scout Oath in an impressively quiet ceremony.

Williamson, Carl Winter, Gus Hall, Jacob Stachel, Henry Winston and Irving Potash. All got five-year sentences except Thompson, given only three years in recognition of army service during World War 2.

A twelfth top official, William Z. Foster, was indicted with the group but was excused from trial with them because of illness. The Justice Department said today he will be tried separately.

The convicted 11 have 15 days in which to ask the high court for another hearing. Since the tribunal has now started its summer recess, their attorneys would have to get some member of the court to issue a stay of proceedings. In the absence of a stay, they would normally begin serving time in about 25 days.

The defendants are free on bail totaling $260,000. Dennis recently completed a one year sentence for contempt of Congress.

Dissenters from the court majority were Justices Black and Douglas, who cited the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech. Justice Clark, who was attorney general when the group was indicted, did not participate in the outcome.

Second Newsprint Boost

Montreal, June 5 (AP)—Higher newsprint prices have been announced by a second major Canadian producer. Consolidated Paper Corp. Ltd. boosted its price $10 a ton, following a similar move by Abitibi Paper & Power Co. last week. The price in New York city will be $116 a ton, effective July 1.

Newspaper Is Robbed

Rockville Centre, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—The circulation office of the Nassau Daily Review-Star was held up last night by two bandits who escaped with $2,500. As three men and three women employes were held at bay, the robbers seized currency and coin rolls from the tops of two desks. They missed $1,300 in a desk drawer.

400 Scouts Attend Council Camporee

More than 400 Boy Scouts and Explorers participated in the annual Rip Van Winkle Council Camporee at Camp Tri-Mount at East Jewett last week-end.

Activities of 25 troops from Ulster and Greene counties were supervised by 54 adult leaders.

Highlight of the camping weekend was the "adventure Trail" which started 10 a. m. Saturday and lasted until 4 p. m. Frank Bourke, district commissioner of the Kingston District, and Alfred O'Bryan, Mountain District commissioner, conducted the series of events, which included first aid, tracking, nature lore, rope rescue, compass work, trail signs, signaling, physical skills and judging. The final event was "Scout Spirit and Participation," in which each patrol was judged by its own scoutmaster.

First place in the "Adventure Trail" was earned by Troop 44, sponsored by the Catskill VFW Post under direction of Scoutmaster Louis Frani. Second place went to Troop 15, Church of the Comforter, Kingston, under Wilson Wright, scoutmaster; third place to Troop 8, First Presbyterian Church, Kingston, John Clark, scoutmaster. Awards were presented at the closing ceremony by the council commissioner, Val Morrow of Maplecrest.

A surprise was given the Scouts when William Kobelt, scoutmaster of Troop 76 Wallkill, flew his plane over the camping area and dropped marshmallows for all the troops.

The Saturday evening council campfire was conducted by William Daum, scoutmaster of Troop 9 of Kingston. The woods and hills echoed and re-echoed to the songs, cheers and yells as the huge crowd of Scouts united their voices. Troop 72 of Marlborough, Troop 12 of Kingston and Troop 8 of Kingston presented stunts and skits. Robert Tremper, scoutmaster of Troop 11, led the singing. At the close of the campfire all present rededicated themselves to the Scout Oath in an impressively quiet ceremony.

Allies Push on . . .

ers were captured Monday, AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters. In contrast, thousands had surrendered at the start of the UN counteroffensive.

"The enemy is fighting a defensive campaign along the main routes to Chorwon and Kumhwa," an Eighth Army briefing officer said, "while they are fighting delaying actions in the east around Inje."

American warships led by the battleship New Jersey put on a big bombardment display for top commanders.

The New Jersey and supporting ships fired 1,100 rounds at transport targets around the port of Wonsan Monday morning. Helicopters directed fire of the one-ton shells from the battleship's 16 inch guns.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, and Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, commander of naval forces, Far East, watched from the New Jersey's bridge.

Pittsfield Rallies in Ninth To Nose Out Colonials, 6-5

Locals Return Home Wednesday

The Colonials close out their Pittsfield series tonight and then head home to launch a four-night stand against the Amsterdam Rugmakers, Wednesday night at municipal stadium.

Manager Joel Kern's tossers dropped a 6-5 squeaker to the Electrics last night in the Bay State, the home forces rallying with four runs in the last two innings.

Kingston led 5-4 when the Electrics came to bat in the last of the seventh and developments came quickly.

Jack Ormiston, who pitched brilliantly until the eighth, walked Jack Seltenreich and Palmisiano sliced a single to left. When Charlie Ruddock attempted to sacrifice, Ormiston bobbled his tap in front of the mound and all hands were safe. Dick Connors relieved Ormiston at this point and was greeted by Bill Pope's single to left center scoring Seltenreich and Palmisiano with the tying and winning markers.

Three Run Third

In those fleeting moments a hard, uphill battle by the Colonials was undone. The Kernels had scored thrice in the third on singles by Walt Bremer and Lou Kramberg, Dennis Healey's walk and a couple of timely Pittsfield miscues. Bob Oliner scored on a force play in the sixth and, after the Electrics knotted the count 4-4 in the eighth, the Colonials moved ahead 5-4 in their half of the ninth.

Bremer led off with a single in the ninth and completed the circuit on a passed ball, infield out and Joe Niro's loft to center.

Big Sam Piacentino made his debut in left field for the Colonials and collected two singles. Joel Kern, Lou Kramberg and Bob Oliner also had two hits.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto—Arthur King, 137½, England, outpointed Armand Savoie, 133, Montreal, (10).

New Orleans—Chuck Davey, 125½, Lansing Mich., knocked out Tommy Ciarlo, 146¼, Waterbury, Conn., (4).

Know Your Colonials.....

Jack Allen, the first string Colonial catcher, is a 25-year-old veteran, who is now serving in his sixth minor league.

Allen stands 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 185 pounds, a good all-round build for a catcher and the kind of physique required to carry a man through a gruelling minor league campaign.

A native of Milford, Mass., where he now resides in the off season and works as a drill press operator, Allen went into organized ball from Natick, Mass., High School. He was a three-letter man at Natick High, winning varsity letters in baseball, football and basketball.

Allen's first stop was Auburn, N. Y., in the Border League. Then came stints with Eau Claire, Wis., in the Northern League; Pawtucket, R. I., in the New England circuit; Evansville, Indiana, of the Three-Eye League; and Hagerstown, Md., in the Interstate loop.

Hank Camelli, former manager of the Colonials, signed Allen as a free agent at the start of the 1951 season. His best batting average was .286 with Eau Claire in the Northern League in 1948.

Jack served three years with the U. S. Marines and saw duty in the South Pacific. Married, he is the father of two children.

Allen's bat has been more potent in recent games, after a slow start. He now holds down the important No. 5 spot in the batting order after Lou Kramberg.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Amsterdam Rugmakers are counting heavily on righthander Lou Paz in their nip-and-tuck battle with the Pittsfield Electrics for second place in the Canadian-American League.

Paz racked up his third victory against no defeats last night as the Ruggers swamped Gloversville, 13-2. The pitcher also batted in four runs with three singles and a sacrifice.

The victory kept Amsterdam in third place—a game and a half behind the first-place Oneonta Red Sox. Pittsfield is a game behind the leaders.

Game Postponed

The City League game between Old Capital Motors and Wiltwyck Motors was rained out yesterday. The schedule resumes this evening with Jones Dairy meeting Boulevard Gulf.

New First Night High at Saratoga

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—An opening-night record of $165,396 was bet at the pari-mutuel windows last night when the Saratoga Raceway's 72-night meeting got underway.

The previous first-night mark was $161,183, set in 1949.

Syndicator, a converted pacer, and Coleman, an outsider, won the $2,760 Kuno feature, raced in two divisions.

Garland Garnsey drove Syndicator, six-year-old son of Spencer Scott, to his sixth straight trotting victory in a two-year period. He was timed in 2:10 2/5. Peggy Laird was second and Lew Hanover, third.

Coleman, a six-year-old gelding owned by David Chambers of Unadilla, was driven by Henry Lowe in 2:15, Colonel Bostwick, a Hambletonian hopeful, was second and Miss Hobby, third.

The Hut Defeats High Falls, 10 to 4

The Hut softballers led all the way and scored in five of six innings to defeat High Falls, 10 to 4, on the High Falls diamond on Sunday.

Johnny Letus scattered seven High Falls hits while Form Coughlin's triple in the fourth inning was the longest blow of the game. The winners collected 11 hits off J. Williams and B. Williams.

The Hut	312	310	—10 11 1
High Falls	100	201	— 4 7 4

J. Letus and J. Kennedy; J. Williams, B. Williams and Felipe.

Ski Club Plans For Next Season

Unmindful of the humidity and barometric readings of the moment, the newly-organized Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston has elected officers and is already making plans for the 1951-52 season.

The officers are: Daniel Morehouse, president; Harry Kapelian, vice-president; Naomi Van Steenburgh, secretary, and Joan Ballard, treasurer.

The club will keep busy with hikes and picnics during the summer season. The next meeting is scheduled on June 7 at 8 p. m. at the Cerasaro sporting goods store in Kingston.

By BYRON NELSON

Former U. S. Open Champion

Like many good golfers, I developed peculiarities in my game which suit the way I play, but might not prove most effective for others.

Of course, you know that we ourselves don't know actually how we play.

Whenever you make a change it seems unnatural, whether you change from right to wrong or wrong to right That's why we get into arguments with persons teaching us.

We may be changing from a very bad grip to a perfect one, but until we become used to the grip it doesn't feel natural.

A lot of people say I sway. It has been argued pro and con. I don't know if I do.

I do know that the lower part of my body, from my hips down, sways when I start my swing.

When I stand at the ball, I have a decided amount of weight on my left foot. Not 80 per cent but more than a majority.

When I start the backswing, I can feel the weight transfer to my right foot, giving me the freedom I need for the lateral shift I have.

When I start back, my hips, hands, club and shoulders start at once.

The more you can start everything together, the easier it is to keep everything timed together throughout the swing.

If you start with the clubhead first, everything must follow the clubhead all the way around.

If your body and hands start first you'll get a lash at the top of the swing.

As I told a roomful of experts at the PGA convention in Chicago, one day that will work perfectly and the next it won't be so good.

It is essential that a person waggle the club in the same line that he expects to carry the club through during the entire swing.

Next: Jimmy Demaret says the professional's real pay-off is the grin of the duffer who suddenly hits the pin because he swung exactly as he was told.

ALL TOGETHER—"The more you can start everything together, the easier it is to keep everything timed together throughout the swing," stresses Byron Nelson. (NEA)

Lee Mackey to Resume Quest of Open; Vines Counted Among Darkhorses

New York, June 5 (AP)—If you look hard enough today at the small type carrying qualifiers for the 51st U. S. Open golf championship you'll run across these names:

Lee Mackey, Jr., Birmingham, Ala., 73-73—146.

Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, 70-68—138.

They are two of the 126 who survived sectional trials yesterday for the national tournament June 14-16 over the heavily-trapped Oakland Hills course at Birmingham, Mich.

Mackey is the unknown who startled the golf world by shooting a record-shattering 64 in the first round of the golden jubilee open a year ago at Philadelphia's Merion.

It was the greatest round of golf ever fashioned in a major competition, excelling the best efforts of such links titans as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Ben Hogan.

Quick Exit

The next day the young unemployed pro skied to an 81 and when they presented the championship trophy to Hogan four days later he was too far back to be recognized with binoculars.

But he's back. What will he do in' 51?

Vines is the long-legged, bespectacled Californian who ruled amateur tennis in the thirties and later became king of the pros. No man has ever won national titles in both tennis and golf, but here's a man capable of bridging the "impossible" chasm.

At 39, Vines is rated one of the best shotmakers in golf—winner of numerous tournaments on the pro circuit, one of the leading money winners in past years.

Does his excellent qualifying rounds of 70-68 mean that he'll be ready for his strongest open golf bid?

Texan Leads

It's another of the intriguing questions of the Oakland Hills Open.

Qualifying tests, in which more than 1,400 competed at 29 sectional centers, followed a familiar pattern.

A Texan—Jack Harden of El Paso—led the national tryouts with a six-under-par 68-66—134 over the par 70 Amarillo Country Club. Harvie Wardl, the former National Intercollegiate champ from Southern Pines, N. C., had the best score of the amateurs—71-69—140—at Greensboro, N. C.

The new British amateur titlist, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., didn't try. A fellow member of the Walker Cup team, Bill Campbell of Huntington, West Va., missed out when he scrambled around in 77-78—155 in the New York Metropolitan competition.

These fast trials also cut down two of the famous Turnesa brothers—Jim, who shot 153, and Mike, who fired 150.

The 16 qualifiers from the New York Metropolitan district are:

Herman Barron, Scarsdale, N. Y., 67-74—141.

Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. Car. 73-68—141.

Douglas Ford, Harrison, N. Y. 72-70—142.

Claude Harmon, Rye, N. Y., 72-70—143.

Pat Mucci, Paterson, N. J. 74-74—144.

Edward Oliver, Jr. Wilmington, Del. 75-69—144.

Fred Wampler, Great Neck, N. Y. 73-71—144.

Buck Luce, Pelham, N. Y. 71-74—145.

Clarence Doser, Scarsdale, N. Y. 73-72—145.

Jerry Desio, Harrison, N. Y. 72-73—145.

Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y. 70-76—146.

Jack Patroni, N. Y. 74-72—146.

Willie Goggin, Montclair, N. J. 70-77—147.

Robert DeVicenzo, Argentina 71-76—147.

X—A—Lloyd D. Ribner, Scarsdale, N. Y. 74-74—148.

X—Al Femminelli, Great Neck, N. Y. 75-73—148.

X—Won in seven-man playoff.

A—Denotes amateur.

Subway Gril and Beichert's are out in front with perfect records in the City Softball League, each club having notched its fourth straight victory in yesterday's bracket of games.

Tommy Spada pitched a six-hitter to lead Subways to a 16 to 0 victory over Barclay Knitwear.

Don Weeks continued to double in brass in spectacular fashion for Beichert's. He eight-hitted the Dukes into submission, 10 to 4, had "4 for 4" at the plate to extend his consecutive hitting streak to eight straight blows. Don Koeppen clouted a homer for the losers.

In other games, Hoppeys and Chez Emile played a 6-6 tie; the Legion trounced Central Lunch, 11 to 5, and Sickler's Delivery edged Jesse's Tavern, 9 to 6.

Subways on Rampage

The Subways scored in telephone numbers after two scoreless innings with Barclay's notching five runs in the third and sixth and a quartet in the seventh. Nine Barclay miscues eased their path.

Tommy Maines rapped a double and homer; Bill Polk and Tom Spada also hit homers, while Ken Hornbeck and Joe Scholar came up with a brace of doubles. Barclay had a double for the losers.

Darkness halted the Hoppeys-Chez Emile game in the sixth. S. Arbach's homer was the batting feature. J. Thomas had a double, while Doug Harvey and Samig tripled.

Murphy scattered 14 Central Lunch safeties in the Legion's victory. Cliff Davis pounded two singles, a double and homer for the winners. Don Riehl also homered for the Legion and DiMuccio clouted one for the Central Lunch.

Joe Norton led off with a homer for Sickler's Delivery against Jessie's Tavern and the Deliverymen went on to win, despite a four-run first inning by the Tavern. Norton added a double and single to his collection of safeties and Don Hobart rapped three hits. Leroy Hooker, Dan Schrader and Jack Buchanan were other players with two safeties and Fowler slammed a double and single for Jessie's.

Pittsfield Rallies in Ninth To Nose Out Colonials, 6-5

Locals Return Home Wednesday

The Colonials close out their Pittsfield series tonight and then head home to launch a four-night stand against the Amsterdam Rugmakers, Wednesday night at municipal stadium.

Manager Joel Kern's tossers dropped a 6-5 squeaker to the Electrics last night in the Bay State, the home forces rallying with four runs in the last two innings.

Kingston led 5-4 when the Electrics came to bat in the last of the seventh and developments came quickly.

Jack Ormiston, who pitched brilliantly until the eighth, walked Jack Seltenreich and Palmisiano sliced a single to left. When Charlie Ruddock attempted to sacrifice, Ormiston bobbled his tap in front of the mound and all hands were safe. Dick Connors relieved Ormiston at this point and was greeted by Bill Pope's single to left center scoring Seltenreich and Palmisiano with the tying and winning markers.

Three Run Third

In those fleeting moments a hard, uphill battle by the Colonials was undone. The Kernels had scored thrice in the third on singles by Walt Bremer and Lou Kramberg, Dennis Healey's walk and a couple of timely Pittsfield miscues. Bob Oliner scored on a force play in the sixth and, after the Electrics knotted the count 4-4 in the eighth, the Colonials moved ahead 5-4 in their half of the ninth.

Bremer led off with a single in the ninth and completed the circuit on a passed ball, infield out and Joe Niro's loft to center.

Big Sam Piacentino made his debut in left field for the Colonials and collected two singles. Joel Kern, Lou Kramberg and Bob Oliner also had two hits.

Know Your Colonials . . . . . .

Jack Allen, the first string Colonial catcher, is a 25-year-old veteran, who is now serving in his sixth minor league.

Allen stands 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 185 pounds, a good all-round build for a catcher and the kind of physique required to carry a man through a gruelling minor league campaign.

A native of Milford, Mass., where he now resides in the off season and works as a drill press operator, Allen went into organized ball from Natick, Mass., High School. He was a three-letter man at Natick High, winning varsity letters in baseball, football and basketball.

Allen's first stop was Auburn, N. Y., in the Border League. Then came stints with Eau Claire, Wis., in the Northern League; Pawtucket, R. I., in the New England circuit; Evansville, Indiana, of the Three-Eye League; and Hagerstown, Md., in the Interstate loop.

Hank Camelli, former manager of the Colonials, signed Allen as a free agent at the start of the 1951 season. His best batting average was .286 with Eau Claire in the Northern League in 1948.

Jack served three years with the U. S. Marines and saw duty in the South Pacific. Married, he is the father of two children.

Allen's bat has been more potent in recent games, after a slow start. He now holds down the important No. 5 spot in the batting order after Lou Kramberg.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Amsterdam Rugmakers are counting heavily on righthander Lou Paz in their nip-and-tuck battle with the Pittsfield Electrics for second place in the Canadian-American League.

Paz racked up his third victory against no defeats last night as the Ruggers swamped Gloversville, 13-2. The pitcher also batted in four runs with three singles and a sacrifice.

The victory kept Amsterdam in third place—a game and a half behind the first-place Oneonta Red Sox. Pittsfield is a game behind the leaders.

Game Postponed

The City League game between Old Capital Motors and Wiltwyck Motors was rained out yesterday. The schedule resumes this evening with Jones Dairy meeting Boulevard Gulf.

New First Night High at Saratoga

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—An opening-night record of $165,396 was bet at the pari-mutuel windows last night when the Saratoga Raceway's 72-night meeting got underway.

The previous first-night mark was $161,183, set in 1949.

Syndicator, a converted pacer, and Coleman, an outsider, won the $2,760 Kuno feature, raced in two divisions.

Garland Garnsey drove Syndicator, six-year-old son of Spencer Scott, to his sixth straight trotting victory in a two-year period. He was timed in 2:10 2/5. Peggy Laird was second and Lew Hahover, third.

Coleman, a six-year-old gelding owned by David Chambers of Unadilla, was driven by Henry Lowe in 2:15. Colonel Bostwick, a Hambletonian hopeful, was second and Miss Hobby, third.

The Hut Defeats High Falls, 10 to 4

The Hut softballers led all the way and scored in five of six innings to defeat High Falls, 10 to 4, on the High Falls diamond on Sunday.

Johnny Letus scattered seven High Falls hits while Form Coughlin's triple in the fourth inning was the longest blow of the game. The winners collected 11 hits off J. Williams and B. Williams.

The Hut	312	310	—10 11 1
High Falls	100	201	— 4 7 4

J. Letus and J. Kennedy; J. Williams, B. Williams and Felipe.

Subway Gril and Beichert's are out in front with perfect records in the City Softball League, each club having notched its fourth straight victory in yesterday's bracket of games.

Tommy Spada pitched a six-hitter to lead Subways to a 16 to 0 victory over Barclay Knitwear.

Don Weeks continued to double in brass in spectacular fashion for Beichert's. He eight-hitted the Dukes into submission, 10 to 4, had "1 for 4" at the plate to extend his consecutive hitting streak to eight straight blows. Don Koeppen clouted a homer for the losers.

In other games, Hoppeys and Chez Emile played a 6-6 tie; the Legion trounced Central Lunch, 11 to 5, and Sickler's Delivery edged Jesse's Tavern, 9 to 6.

Subways on Rampage

The Subways scored in telephone numbers after two scoreless innings with Barclay's notching five runs in the third and sixth and a quartet in the seventh. Nine Barclay miscues eased their path.

Tommy Maines rapped a double and homer; Bill Polk and Tom Spada also hit homers, while Ken Hornbeck and Joe Scholar came up with a brace of doubles. Barclay had a double for the losers.

Darkness halted the Hoppeys-Chez Emile game in the sixth. S. Arbach's homer was the batting feature. J. Thomas had a double, while Doug Harvey and Samig tripled.

Murphy scattered 14 Central Lunch safeties in the Legion's victory. Cliff Davis pounded two singles, a double and homer for the winners. Don Riehl also homered for the Legion and DiMuccio clouted one for the Central Lunch.

Joe Norton led off with a homer for Sickler's Delivery against Jessie's Tavern and the Deliverymen went on to win, despite a four-run first inning by the Tavern. Norton added a double and single to his collection of safeties and Don Hobart rapped three hits. Leroy Hooker, Dan Schrader and Jack Buchanan were other players with two safeties and Fowler slammed a double and single for Jessie's.

By BYRON NELSON

Former U. S. Open Champion

Like many good golfers, I developed peculiarities in my game which suit the way I play, but might not prove most effective for others.

Of course, you know that we ourselves don't know actually how we play.

Whenever you make a change it seems unnatural, whether you change from right to wrong or wrong to right. That's why we get into arguments with persons teaching us.

We may be changing from a very bad grip to a perfect one, but until we become used to the grip it doesn't feel natural.

A lot of people say I sway. It has been argued pro and con. I don't know if I do.

I do know that the lower part of my body, from my hips down, sways when I start my swing.

When I stand at the ball, I have a decided amount of weight on my left foot. Not 80 per cent but more than a majority.

When I start the backswing, I can feel the weight transfer to my right foot, giving me the freedom I need for the lateral shift I have.

When I start back, my hips, hands, club and shoulders start at once.

The more you can start everything together, the easier it is to keep everything timed together throughout the swing.

If you start with the clubhead first, everything must follow the clubhead all the way around.

If your body and hands start first you'll get a lash at the top of the swing.

As I told a roomful of experts at the PGA convention in Chicago, one day that will work perfectly and the next it won't be so good.

It is essential that a person waggle the club in the same line that he expects to carry the club through during the entire swing.

ALL TOGETHER—"The more you can start everything together, the easier it is to keep everything timed together throughout the swing," stresses Byron Nelson. (NEA)

Next: Jimmy Demaret says the professional's real pay-off is the grin of the duffer who suddenly hits the pin because he swung exactly as he was told.

Lee Mackey to Resume Quest of Open; Vines Counted Among Darkhorses

New York, June 5 (AP)—If you look hard enough today at the small type carrying qualifiers for the 51st U. S. Open golf championship you'll run across these names:

Lee Mackey, Jr., Birmingham, Ala., 73-73—146.

Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, 70-68—138.

They are two of the 126 who survived sectional trials yesterday for the national tournament June 14-16 over the heavily-trapped Oakland Hills course at Birmingham, Mich.

Mackey is the unknown who startled the golf world by shooting a record-shattering 64 in the first round of the golden jubilee open a year ago at Philadelphia's Merion.

It was the greatest round of golf ever fashioned in a major competition, excelling the best efforts of such links titans as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Ben Hogan.

Quick Exit

The next day the young unemployed pro skied to an 81 and when they presented the championship trophy to Hogan four days later he was too far back to be recognized with binoculars.

But he's back. What will he do in '51?

Vines is the long-legged, bespectacled Californian who ruled amateur tennis in the thirties and later became king of the pros. No man has ever won national titles in both tennis and golf, but here's a man capable of bridging the "impossible" chasm.

At 39, Vines is rated one of the best shotmakers in golf—winner of numerous tournaments on the pro circuit, one of the leading money winners in past years.

Does his excellent qualifying rounds of 70-68 mean that he'll be ready for his strongest open golf bid?

Texan Leads

It's another of the intriguing questions of the Oakland Hills Open.

Qualifying tests, in which more than 1,400 competed at 29 sectional centers, followed a familiar pattern.

A Texan—Jack Harden of El Paso—led the national tryouts with a six-under-par 68-66—134 over the par 70 Amarillo Country Club. Harvie Wardl, the former National Intercollegiate champ from Southern Pines, N. C., had the best score of the amateurs—71-69—140—at Greensboro, N. C.

The new British amateur titlist, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., didn't try. A fellow member of the Walker Cup team, Bill Campbell of Huntington, West Va., missed out when he scrambled around in 77-78—155 in the New York Metropolitan competition.

These fast trials also cut down two of the famous Turnesa brothers—Jim, who shot 153, and Mike, who fired 150.

The 16 qualifiers from the New York Metropolitan district are:

Herman Barron, Scarsdale, N. Y., 67-74—141.

Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. Car., 73-68—141.

Douglas Ford, Harrison, N. Y. 72-70—142.

Claude Harmon, Rye, N. Y., 72-70—143.

Pat Mucci, Paterson, N. J. 74-74—144.

Edward Oliver, Jr. Wilmington, Del. 75-69—144.

Fred Wampler, Great Neck, N. Y. 73-71—144.

Buck Luce, Pelham, N. Y. 71-74—145.

Clarence Doser, Scarsdale, N. Y. 73-72—145.

Jerry Desio, Harrison, N. Y. 72-73—145.

Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y. 70-76—146.

Jack Patroni, N. Y. 74-72—146.

Willie Goggin, Montclair, N. J. 70-77—147.

Robert DeVicenzo, Argentina 71-76—147.

X—A—Lloyd D. Ribner, Scarsdale, N. Y. 74-74—148.

X—Al Femminelli, Great Neck, N. Y. 75-73—148.

X—Won in seven-man playoff.
A—Denotes amateur.

Set New Teeter Record

Stockton, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Two students gave College of Pacific a unique present to celebrate the school's 100th anniversary — a world teeter-tottering record of 100 hours. Duane Weaver, 21, and Jim Lane, 23, reached their goal at 2:15 p. m. (4:15 p. m., E.S.T.) yesterday—amid going clanging and cheers. Two University of California students had set the previous 72-hour mark a few days earlier. The COP boys kept going by taking turns teetering and napping in sleeping bags roped to the seesaw.

Ski Club Plans For Next Season

Unmindful of the humidity and barometric readings of the moment, the newly-organized Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston has elected officers and is already making plans for the 1951-52 season.

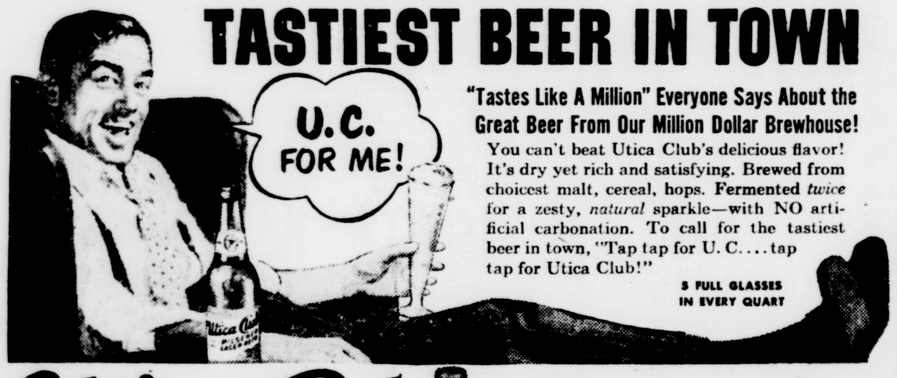

The officers are: Daniel Morehouse, president; Harry Kapelian, vice-president; Naomi Van Steenburgh, secretary, and Joan Ballard, treasurer.

The club will keep busy with hikes and picnics during the summer season. The next meeting is scheduled on June 7 at 8 p. m. at the Cerasaro sporting goods store in Kingston.

Great Proximity Will Race No More

Goshen, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Proximity, the golden-hoofed queen of the trotters and one of harness racing's greatest stars, will thrill race crowds no more.

The brown nine-year-old racing mare, harness horse of the year in 1950, and the greatest money-winning sulky star in the sport's history, has been retired.

The announcement was made here at Historic Track, where an effort had been made to get Proximity in shape for the Grand Circuit meeting opening July 2.

Ralph Verhurst of Victor, N. Y., who with his son, Gordon, owns the mare, made the decision reluctantly a month after she came to this Hambletonian scene from winter quarters at Orlando, Fla.

"I want everyone to remember her as a great champion," said Ralph. "She has a long rest coming, and we don't want to disgrace her."

The Verhursts bought Proximity from Dr. W. R. Scott of Baxter Springs, Kan., for $10,000, and when she finished her racing career last fall—with a lame foot—she had earned $252,929. Scott got Proximity as a yearling from the Walnut Hall Farm for $350 in 1943.

Little Leaguers In Second Drill

A total of 111 youngsters in the 8 to 12 age bracket, survivors of the preliminary screening in the Kingston Athletic Association tryouts for the Little League, will undergo a second workout this evening at St. Mary's Field at 5:30 p. m.

All players who were notified by mail are requested to report promptly at 5:30.

Kingston High closed out its 1951 DUSO Baseball League season with a 5 and 5 record yesterday, outlasting the tail-end Port Jervis nine, 8 to 7, at municipal stadium.

The result left Coach Bill Burke's tossers with a chance to tie Poughkeepsie for third place. The Blues meet Newburgh Academy in a postponed game Thursday.

In other action, Newburgh strengthened its chances for the pennant by toppling Middletown High, 4 to 1, and Poughkeepsie squeezed by Beacon, 5-4.

Newburgh can win the title outright on Thursday by beating Poughkeepsie. A Newburgh loss would create a tie and a playoff with the Middies.

Bench Cleared

Coach Bill Burke's desire to give every player a chance in the final outing of the season made yesterday's game seem as close as the outing. He used the two-platoon system in every position and threw four pitchers at the hapless Red and Black.

Trailing 8-3 in the seventh, the tri-staters bagged four runs on four walks and four passed balls.

Kingston's quartet of hurlers—Bert Kuhn, Mousey Telepas, Lou Secreto and Joe Turck—restricted the visitors to six hits, but shelled out 10 walks.

The Burkeman sailed into starter Babiarz for five runs in the first inning to build a cushion that stood them in good stead in later innings.

Two Big Triples

Big blows in the first inning were triples by Charlie Engle and Red Hinkley, a base on balls to Bob Lyons, singles by Baumer and Jones and a Port miscue.

The Maroons unloaded a triple by Moll Leonard, Telepas' double and singles by Engle and Hinkley in the three-run third.

Coach Burke cleared the bench by using 19 players in the contest that was played in intermittent showers and rain drenched field.

Palm Beach Golf Tourney Thursday

With Lloyd Mangrum, Chandler Harper, Roberto DiVincenzo and Bobby Locke hooked up in the leadoff spot in what probably is the most diversified international match ever staged in this country, the annual Palm Beach Round Robin invitation golf tournament will open Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle.

Mangrum, U. S. Open champion in 1946 and runnerup last year after a playoff of a triple tie, will drive the first ball and will be followed in order by Harper, DeVincenzo and Locke.

Harper is the current PGA champion. DeVincenzo is champion of his native Argentina and Mexico, while Locke, who hails from South Africa, has held the British Open title for the last two years.

Locke, with two firsts and a second in three tournaments, has the best record of any in the Palm Beach Round Robin invitation. He was 37 plus to win in 1947; 32 plus in 1948 when he was runnerup to Barron, and 66 plus when he spread-eagled the field in 1949. The South African is the only competitor in the Palm Beach Round Robin with a score better than 100 plus. His count is 135 for three tournaments. Barron's record for five tournaments is plus 96.

White Sockers Batting Merrily

Chicago, June 5 (AP) — Four White Sox players were among the top seven batters in the American League in averages through Sunday's games, with Nelson Fox only four percentage points behind Philadelphia's Ferris Fain who retained his lead with .366.

Fox, Chicago's 150-pound second baseman, was a close second with a challenging .362. The White Sox' Orestes Minoso was third with .359, Eddie Robinson fifth with .345 and Jim Busby seventh with .333.

Others among the first 10 hitters were Vern Stephens of Boston with .357 and teammate Dom DiMaggio with .344; Ray Coleman of St. Louis and Gil Coan of Washington with .331 each; and Larry Doby of Cleveland with .317.

Minoso and Boston's Ted Williams each were double leaders in the specialized department. Minnie had the most runs, 39, and the most triples, 7. Williams was ahead in homers with 11 and runs batted in with 42.

Dom DiMaggio led in hits, 63; Fain in doubles, 15, and Busby in stolen bases, 10.

Musial Bids For Fifth Title

New York, June 5 (AP)—Stan Musial, the master mauler of the St. Louis Cardinals, is making rapid strides in his bid to win the National League batting crown for the fifth time in his brilliant career.

Musial, winner of the title last year, made the biggest gain of the week in the batting derby, rising from seventh to second place.

The Cardinal clipper banged out 12 hits in 25 trips to the plate through games of Sunday to jack his average 23 points to .370.

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers took over the lead although his average dipped nine points from his runner-up figure of a week ago. Robinson is hitting at a .403 pace.

Dodger Cal Abrams who paced the league a week ago with a lofty .451, dropped to seventh place as his average melted to .333. Abrams managed to collect only two hits in 31 swings.

Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers is third with .357. Then comes Richie Ashburn of the Phils, .351, and Bob Elliott of the Braves, .350.

Rounding out the top ten are, Frank Baumholtz, Chicago, .338; Abrams, .333; Al Dark, New York, .331; Red Schoendienst, St. Louis, .330, and Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327.

Three-Way Tie In Golf Match

Three teams tied for first place with net 67s in the first two-ball mixed foursome of the season Sunday at Twaalfskill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt; Mrs. Ed Remmert and John Van Gonsic; and Mrs. N. Levan Haver and Charles Gaffney made up the winning combines.

Mr. and Mrs. Shufeldt posted a 94 gross with 27 handicap. The Remmert-Van Gonsic duo had 85-18-67; while Mrs. Haver and Mrs. Gaffney shot 91-24-67.

Mrs. John Van Gonsic and N. Levan Haver fired net 68 with 92-24 to win fourth place.

Other scores:

Wiltwyck Swingers Rout Red Hook Club In Return Match on Local Links, 30-2

Danaher Fires 79 in Debut

Wiltwyck Golf Club swingers routed Red Hook, 30 to 2, in their peak performance of the season, Sunday at the Hurley avenue links.

The Dutchess linksmen were able to win only one singles and one best-ball point against the strong array thrown up by the home forces.

Tommy Danaher, the club pro, shot a steady pair of 39s in his first competition of the season to take the measure of Joe Sondey, the long-hitting Red Hook pro.

Leon Randall, playing in the No. 2 spot, downed H. Law Weatherwax, the former Eastern Intercollegiate champion at Yale University, to give Wiltwyck a 3-0 decision in the No. 1 match.

Two Red Hook aces who missed the first match between the clubs at Red Hook, Joe Kane and Jack Scheffler, fell before Wiltwyck's No. 2 squad of J. Watson Bailey and Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr.

Red Hook's only points came in the No. 5 match where Bob Lapham won his singles from Rube Leventhal in spite of a fine 83 by the local furrier. Al Heisman, playing with Leventhal, won from his opponent, but the best-ball tally gave Red Hook its second and last point.

Other results:

C. Raichle-W. Costello, W, d F. Kunze-J. Melley, RH, 3-0.

M. Davenport-Dr. George Rifenbary, W, d Don Norton-M. McEntee, RH, 3-0.

Bob Cullum-Bob Powell, W, d G. Mead-J. Coon, RH, 0.

Ben Cohen-Larry Jacobs, W, d S. Lloyd-D. Haskins, RH, 0.

Ed Tongue-Charles Meirowitz, W, d C. Wilson-C. Stockenberg, RH, 3-0.

W. McClements-Bill Zwick, W, d C. Haen-W. Snyder, RH, 3-0.

Ike Trowbridge-Art Organtini, W, d W. King-J. Harrison, 3-0.

In singles matches, Jim Winters defeated R. McKeefey, 1-0, and Joe Kwasney defeated William White by the same margin.

Luncheon Served

A special blind bogey event was run in conjunction with the match. Winners were Dr. George Rifenbary, Al Heisman, Jack Scheffler, Don Norton, Ben Cohen, Leon Randall, Charles Meirowitz, Reuben Leventhal, J. W. Bailey, Joe Kane, J. Harrison and Jim Winters.

Folowing the match, the players enjoyed a buffet luncheon prepared with the generous assistance of members of the Ladies House Committee, including Mrs. Reuben Leventhal, Mrs. James Winters and Mrs. John Dudyk.

Weekend Bogey Winners

Hyde Park Driver Wins at Arlington

Duke Washburn of Hyde Park won the feature stock car race on Sunday afternoon at the Airport Speedway in Arlington.

Trailing the winner in order were Ben Davis of Middletown; Norman Calley, Middletown; Buck Eastwood of Hyde Park; Bill Secor, Pleasant Valley; Tom Dressel, Poughkeepsie and Gordon Atkins of Rhinebeck.

The first of a series of Friday night races will be held on June

Adirondack AAU Sets Track Meet

The annual Adirondack District AAU track and field championships will be held at Bleecker Stadium, Albany, on Saturday, June 16, it was announced today by William G. Leonard, Jr., chairman.

The events are open to all amateur athletes registered with the Adirondack AAU. There is no entry fee but any athlete who sends in an entry and fails to appear will be liable to censure or suspension by the registration committee.

Entries close on Wednesday, June 13, at 6 p. m. with William G. Leonard, Jr., chairman, Adirondack AAU track and field committee, 116 Jackson avenue, Schenectady.

Track events at 2 p. m. include the 100, 220, 440 and 880 yard runs; mile run, two miles, 120-yard low hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles.

Field events are scheduled at 1:30 p. m. and include 16-pound shotput; discus, javelin, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, 100-yard novice (boys under 18 years of age); and 440-yard novice (boys under 18).

No individual will be permitted to compete in more than three events. No entry will be accepted from a contestant under 21 years of age unless signed by a parent or legal guardian of contestant.

A team trophy will be awarded in addition to individual medals for first, second and third place winners in each event.

Entry blanks may be had by calling the Freeman sports department.

Still Hot

Paris, June 5 (AP)—If the United States is to wrest the Davis Cup from Australia, she'll probably have to do it by winning the singles. The Aussies still have the snappiest doubles combination in all amateur tennis in aggressive Frank Sedgman and towering Ken Macgregor. This crack tandem, which helped seize the big trophy from the Americans at Forest Hills last summer, defeated one United States' potential cup combination, Gardnar Mulloy ard Dick Savitt, yesterday for the French doubles championship, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7, 7-5.

Jailed in Veterans' Fraud

New York, June 5 (AP)—A man, his wife and a corporation were fined a total of $95,000 yesterday after conviction of participating in a scheme that cost the Veterans Administration $300,000. The couple also was sentenced to prison. Sentencing marked the closing phase of a case in which 199 veterans also were indicted for allegedly collecting GI Bill of Rights benefits illegally.

State Guard Functions Outlined at Meeting

The purpose and functions of the New York State Guard were outlined at an all-day conference of officers of the Northern Area Command in the Jefferson street armory at Syracuse Saturday.

Subjects explained and discussed included organization plans and training, administration and personnel, supply and equipment, the guard and civil defense, intelligence and legal aspects.

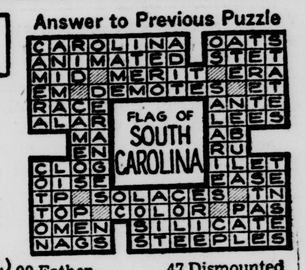

Officers of the 52nd Infantry Security Battalion, which takes in Ulster, Delaware, Sullivan and Otsego counties attending were: Lt. Col. John J. Schwenk, Kingston; Maj. Arthur Ames, Pine Bush; Capt. William J. Teetsel, Walton; and Capt. Bernhardt S. Kramer, Kingston. Lt. Hubert Richter was unable to attend.

Several staff officers of the national guard spoke on the more important program subjects.

Interest in the security of employes is being reflected in the growth of group life insurance in the United States.

Great Proximity Will Race No More

Goshen, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—Proximity, the golden-hoofed queen of the trotters and one of harness racing's greatest stars, will thrill race crowds no more.

The brown nine-year-old racing mare, harness horse of the year in 1950, and the greatest money-winning sulky star in the sport's history, has been retired.

The announcement was made here at Historic Track, where an effort had been made to get Proximity in shape for the Grand Circuit meeting opening July 2.

Ralph Verhurst of Victor, N. Y., who with his son, Gordon, owns the mare, made the decision reluctantly a month after she came to this Hambletonian scene from winter quarters at Orlando, Fla.

"I want everyone to remember her as a great champion," said Ralph. "She has a long rest coming, and we don't want to disgrace her."

The Verhursts bought Proximity from Dr. W. R. Scott of Baxter Springs, Kan., for $10,000, and when she finished her racing career last fall—with a lame foot—she had earned $252,929. Scott got Proximity as a yearling from the Walnut Hall Farm for $350 in 1943.

Little Leaguers In Second Drill

A total of 111 youngsters in the 8 to 12 age bracket, survivors of the preliminary screening in the Kingston Athletic Association tryouts for the Little League, will undergo a second workout this evening at St. Mary's Field at 5:30 p. m.

All players who were notified by mail are requested to report promptly at 5:30.

Kingston High closed out its 1951 DUSO Baseball League season with a 5 and 5 record yesterday, outlasting the tail-end Port Jervis nine, 8 to 7, at municipal stadium.

The result left Coach Bill Burke's tossers with a chance to tie Poughkeepsie for third place. The Blues meet Newburgh Academy in a postponed game Thursday.

In other action, Newburgh strengthened its chances for the pennant by toppling Middletown High, 4 to 1, and Poughkeepsie squeezed by Beacon, 5-4.

Newburgh can win the title outright on Thursday by beating Poughkeepsie. A Newburgh loss would create a tie and a playoff with the Middies.

Bench Cleared

Coach Bill Burke's desire to give every player a chance in the final outing of the season made yesterday's game seem as close as the outing. He used the two-platoon system in every position and threw four pitchers at the hapless Red and Black.

Trailing 8-3 in the seventh, the tri-staters bagged four runs on four walks and four passed balls.

Kingston's quartet of hurlers—Bert Kuhn, Mousey Telepas, Lou Secreto and Joe Turck—restricted the visitors to six hits, but shelled out 10 walks.

The Burkeman sailed into starter Babiarz for five runs in the first inning to build a cushion that stood them in good stead in later innings.

Two Big Triples

Big blows in the first inning were triples by Charlie Engle and Red Hinkley, a base on balls to Bob Lyons, singles by Baumer and Jones and a Port miscue.

The Maroons unloaded a triple by Moll Leonard, Telepas' double and singles by Engle and Hinkley in the three-run third.

Coach Burke cleared the bench by using 19 players in the contest that was played in intermittent showers and rain drenched field.

Palm Beach Golf Tourney Thursday

With Lloyd Mangrum, Chandler Harper, Roberto DiVincenzo and Bobby Locke hooked up in the leadoff spot in what probably is the most diversified international match ever staged in this country, the annual Palm Beach Round Robin invitation golf tournament will open Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle.

Mangrum, U. S. Open champion in 1946 and runnerup last year after a playoff of a triple tie, will drive the first ball and will be followed in order by Harper, DeVincenzo and Locke.

Harper is the current PGA champion. DeVincenzo is champion of his native Argentina and Mexico, while Locke, who hails from South Africa, has held the British Open title for the last two years.

Locke, with two firsts and a second in three tournaments, has the best record of any in the Palm Beach Round Robin invitation. He was 37 plus to win in 1947; 32 plus in 1948 when he was runnerup to Barron, and 66 plus when he spread-eagled the field in 1949. The South African is the only competitor in the Palm Beach Round Robin with a score better than 100 plus. His count is 135 for three tournaments. Barron's record for five tournaments is plus 96.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Hal Sharp

FLY CASTING: USING THE "T" CAST.....

THE "T" CAST IS USABLE WHEN HIGH OBSTRUCTIONS PREVENT THE REGULAR BACKCAST. THE FLY CASTER FACES THE SHORELINE WITH HIS CASTING SIDE AWAY FROM THE WATER. HE BEGINS TO FALSE CAST WITH HIS ROD AND LINE ACTION PARALLEL TO THE SHORE LINE, STRIPPING LINE AND BUILDING UP SPEED UNTIL HE IS READY; THEN HE CASTS THE LINE ACROSS IN FRONT OF HIMSELF TO COMPLETE.

White Sockers Batting Merrily

Chicago, June 5 (AP) — Four White Sox players were among the top seven batters in the American League in averages through Sunday's games, with Nelson Fox only four percentage points behind Philadelphia's Ferris Fain who retained his lead with .366.

Fox, Chicago's 150-pound second baseman, was a close second with a challenging .362. The White Sox' Orestes Minoso was third with .359, Eddie Robinson fifth with .345 and Jim Busby seventh with .333.

Others among the first 10 hitters were Vern Stephens of Boston with .357 and teammate Dom DiMaggio with .344; Ray Coleman of St. Louis and Gil Coan of Washington with .331 each; and Larry Doby of Cleveland with .317.

Minoso and Boston's Ted Williams each were double leaders in the specialized department. Minnie had the most runs, 39, and the most triples, 7. Williams was ahead in homers with 11 and runs batted in with 42.

Dom DiMaggio led in hits, 63; Fain in doubles, 15, and Busby in stolen bases, 10.

Musial Bids For Fifth Title

New York, June 5 (AP)—Stan Musial, the master mauler of the St. Louis Cardinals, is making rapid strides in his bid to win the National League batting crown for the fifth time in his brilliant career.

Musial, winner of the title last year, made the biggest gain of the week in the batting derby, rising from seventh to second place.

The Cardinal clipper banged out 12 hits in 25 trips to the plate through games of Sunday to jack his average 23 points to .370.

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers took over the lead although his average dipped nine points from his runner-up figure of a week ago. Robinson is hitting at a .403 pace.

Dodger Cal Abrams who paced the league a week ago with a lofty .451, dropped to seventh place as his average melted to .333. Abrams managed to collect only two hits in 31 swings.

Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers is third with .357. Then comes Richie Ashburn of the Phils, .351, and Bob Elliott of the Braves, .350.

Rounding out the top ten are, Frank Baumholtz, Chicago, .338; Abrams, .333; Al Dark, New York, .331; Red Schoendienst, St. Louis, .330, and Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .327.

Three-Way Tie In Golf Match

Danaher Fires 79 in Debut

Wiltwyck Golf Club swingers routed Red Hook, 30 to 2, in their peak performance of the season, Sunday at the Hurley avenue links.

The Dutchess linksmen were able to win only one singles and one best-ball point against the strong array thrown up by the home forces.

Tommy Danaher, the club pro, shot a steady pair of 39s in his first competition of the season to take the measure of Joe Sondey, the long-hitting Red Hook pro.

Leon Randall, playing in the No. 2 spot, downed H. Law Weatherwax, the former Eastern Intercollegiate champion at Yale University, to give Wiltwyck a 3-0 decision in the No. 1 match.

Two Red Hook aces who missed the first match between the clubs at Red Hook, Joe Kane and Jack Scheffler, fell before Wiltwyck's No. 2 squad of J. Watson Bailey and Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr.

Red Hook's only points came in the No. 5 match where Bob Lapham won his singles from Rube Leventhal in spite of a fine 83 by the local furrier. Al Heisman, playing with Leventhal, won from his opponent, but the best-ball tally gave Red Hook its second and last point.

Other results:

C. Raichle-W. Costello, W, d F. Kunze-J. Melley, RH, 3-0.

M. Davenport-Dr. George Rifenbary, W, d Don Norton-M. McEntee, RH, 3-0.

W. McClements-Bill Zwick, W, d C. Haen-W. Snyder, RH, 3-0.

Ike Trowbridge-Art Organtini, W, d W. King-J. Harrison, 3-0.

In singles matches, Jim Winters defeated R. McKeefey, 1-0, and Joe Kwasney defeated William White by the same margin.

Luncheon Served

A special blind bogey event was run in conjunction with the match. Winners were Dr. George Rifenbary, Al Heisman, Jack Scheffler, Don Norton, Ben Cohen, Leon Randall, Charles Meirowitz, Reuben Leventhal, J. W. Bailey, Joe Kane, J. Harrison and Jim Winters.

Following the match, the players enjoyed a buffet luncheon prepared with the generous assistance of members of the Ladies House Committee, including Mrs. Reuben Leventhal, Mrs. James Winters and Mrs. John Dudyk.

Weekend Bogey Winners

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Still Hot

Paris, June 5 (AP)—If the United States is to wrest the Davis Cup from Australia, she'll probably have to do it by winning the singles. The Aussies still have the snappiest doubles combination in all amateur tennis in aggressive Frank Sedgman and towering Ken Macgregor. This crack tandem, which helped seize the big trophy from the Americans at Forest Hills last summer, defeated one United States' potential cup combination, Gardnar Mulloy ard Dick Savitt, yesterday for the French doubles championship, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7, 7-5.

Jailed in Veterans' Fraud

New York, June 5 (AP)—A man, his wife and a corporation were fined a total of $95,000 yesterday after conviction of participating in a scheme that cost the Veterans Administration $300,000. The couple also was sentenced to prison. Sentencing marked the closing phase of a case in which 199 veterans also were indicted for allegedly collecting GI Bill of Rights benefits illegally.

State Guard Functions Outlined at Meeting

The purpose and functions of the New York State Guard were outlined at an all-day conference of officers of the Northern Area Command in the Jefferson street armory at Syracuse Saturday.

Subjects explained and discussed included organization plans and training, administration and personnel, supply and equipment, the guard and civil defense, intelligence and legal aspects.

Officers of the 52nd Infantry Security Battalion, which takes in Ulster, Delaware, Sullivan and Otsego counties attending were: Lt. Col. John J. Schwenk, Kingston; Maj. Arthur Ames, Pine Bush; Capt. William J. Teetsel, Walton; and Capt. Bernhardt S. Kramer, Kingston. Lt. Hubert Richter was unable to attend.

Several staff officers of the national guard spoke on the more important program subjects.

Interest in the security of employes is being reflected in the growth of group life insurance in the United States.

Fordomatic's* sweeping the country

● There's absolutely nothing that can touch it! That's what folks say who have tried Fordomatic Drive. For it's the newest, finest, most flexible automatic transmission of all.

The result is automatic driving with trigger-quick getaway . . . surging passing power at your instant beck-and-call . . . safe engine braking downhill . . . and smooth-as-silk performance!

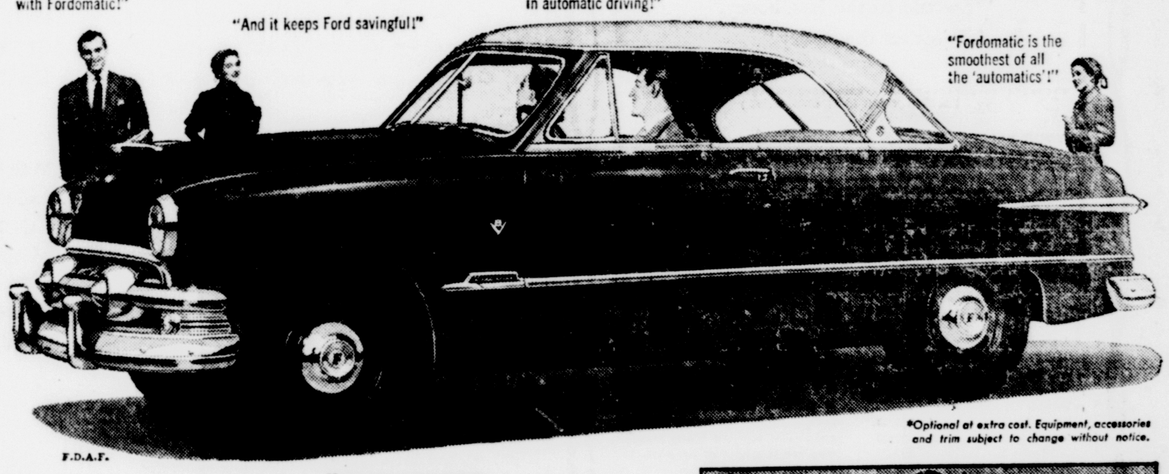

EASY "ROCKING" . . . even easier than with conventional drive. Just flip the selector back and forth between "Reverse" and "Low" . . . you'll find you're "unstuck" from mud, sand or snow in jig time.

"It takes off like a jet plane with Fordomatic!"

"And it keeps Ford savingful!"

"It's the last word in automatic driving!"

"Fordomatic is the smoothest of all the 'automatics'!"

*Optional at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

These non-veterans, for the most part, were either criminals or Communist agitators, who, taking advantage of unsettled conditions, sought to promote violence and bloodshed as a step toward communism. I have before me a report of the Department of Justice signed by Hon. Nugent Dodds, the assistant attorney general. Mr. Dodds states that the FBI had fingerprints of only 4,334 of the bonus marchers, but that 1,069 of them were those of men who had criminal or police records. The crimes included murder, manslaughter, rape, robbery, burglary, blackmail, assault, extortion. Of the three largest camps in which the marchers lived, one was called 'Camp Marx' and one 'Communist Camp'."

Hurley recalled that the mob greatly out-numbered the city police and had licked them twice in battles in which a number of policemen were severely injured and one veteran was killed and another fatally injured. The city government then asked for troops.

In reply to this and voluminous other proof that she lied, the Roosevelt woman wrote merely that "I simply stated my impressions of that day, derived from the press which I happened to read. I know others had similar impressions but I am glad to have an authentic account published and I only wonder why it was not done much sooner." She offered no apology and was content to leave the impression that after 17 years she relied on her unverified memory of newspaper reports.

Transformed Bay Mare

Joseph Buono, Saugerties, and his granddaughter, Jo Ann Bauer, pose with the former's trick horse, "Babe Marie." The horse, once offered by the Saugerties man for $25, is now an exceptionally well-trained bay mare. (Freeman Photo)

Refused at Sale, Saugerties Horse Now Takes Prizes

Joseph Buono of Saugerties has reason to smile when he exhibits his horse, "Babe Marie."

About two years ago, a friend of Buono's passed up as a poor risk the chance to purchase the then scrawny animal for $25. Now, Buono has had the satisfaction of turning down several offers for "Babe," who has turned out to be a well built and exceptionally well trained bay mare.

Buono bought Babe at an auction in February, 1949, for about $18. The offspring of a trotter and a Morgan mare, Babe was in poor shape. She used to kick and bite, and it was then that Bunon offered her for sale.

When the offer was refused, Buono began to give her close attention, getting medicine to improve her condition and teaching her to stretch, to lie down, and to do other tricks.

Three months later, Buono's friend reconsidered and offered to buy the mare. Buono replied, "You haven't got money enough to buy her."

Devoted to Master

The horse now numbers among her tricks counting out her age (three), laying down or kneeling on command, jumping, and standing on a box. When she was one year old, she was exhibited at the Hudson County Fair and took a second prize.

Babe is devoted to her master and will follow him right into Joe's Restaurant on Partition street, behind which she is stabled. Buono is proprietor of the restaurant, and training the horse is strictly an avocation for him. In fact, Babe is the first and only horse he has ever trained, although Buono has been around horses most of his life.

Famous Clown at 9-W And Broadway Theatres

Clarabell, famous clown of the Howdy Doody NBC television show, will appear in person at the Broadway and the 9W Drive-In, Walter Reade Theatres in Kingston, on Saturday, June 9, the theatres announced today.

The clown will be at the Broadway Theatre for the Saturday matinee, and will appear at the Drive-In Theatre at about 8 p. m., just prior to the start of the evening show.

Clarabell has appeared at most of the larger Walter Reade Theatres in New Jersey, but this will be his first visit to the Ulster county area. He will have prizes for the children at both theatres, in addition to performing his famous pantomime act and displaying his wrestling "prowess."

Hervey Keator, manager of the 9W Drive-In, disclosed that Clarabell will be the first in a series of television and circus stars booked for the Drive-In during the season. Arrangements have been completed, he said, to play Ferdinand the Bull and Frances, the Comedy Mule, in early July, and to bring the noted Will Hill Elephant Circus back to the theatre later in the summer.

Do You Remember

SOPHIE MILLER

Did you ever try to read out loud some of the old advertisements. I have a "Kingston Weekly Freeman and Journal" of Thursday, April 22, 1886. One item reads: Emerson's Albumenoid Food. The only perfect food in the world. For infants, invalids, dyspeptics, brain-workers, persons of sedentary habits, mariners, explorers, travelers and sportsmen. It is the most nutritious and wholesame food that can possibly be made, and does not contain a single grain of drug or medicine. It is most easily digested because of its composition and not by reason of artificial aid. Endorsed by all physicians. For sale at Clarke's Drug Store, Kingston, N. Y. and Van Deusen Bros., Rondout. Sample box free to any physician on application to company."

Another short advertisement read: "The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt Rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 centers per box. For sale at local drug stores."

Now here's a name for a perfume, "Hackmetack, a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. For sale by Cooper & Winchell, druggists, next to P.O. Kingston." Also, a Dr. E. F. Butterfield was giving clairvoyant sessions at the old Eagle Hotel, on Monday, May 10th, 1886. It said: "He cures the worst cases of scrofula, catarrh, asthma, female weakness, diseases of the heart, lungs and kidneys."

The word "electric" appeared in many of the medicines of those times. One of F. J. R. Clarke, Kingston and E. W. Knapp, Rondout druggist advertisements said: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers. Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known, and will positively cure kidney and liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of doctor's bills every year."

As I say, they used the word "electric" most any where. The next advertisement reads: "Agents wanted for Dr. Scott's beautiful electric corsets. Samples free to those becoming agents." There is another advertisement about 10 inches long in fine print covering, I think every ill that was ever written in one of those old fashioned "Be Your Own Physician" books. It is called Vinegar Bitters. "Purely vegetable and free from alcohol. No person can take Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair . . cleanse the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, etc., cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, etc." I guess medicinal advertisement writing was a special art in those days.

Modena, June 4 — Preston J. Bennett, commander of Sullivan-Shafer Post, American Legion, New Paltz, accompanied by the Legion color guard and the firing squad, conducted services at the graves of war veterans in Modena Rural Cemetery on Memorial Day at 8 a. m.

Thursday afternoon, June 7, Mrs. Gerald DuBois will entertain the members of the Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church at her home near New Paltz. Plans will be completed for the food sale to be held Saturday, June 16 at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Mrs. DuBois is chairman of the sale, with Mrs. Floyd Wells as co-chairman. Orders may be phoned prior to the sale to Mrs. DuBois 3628, or Mrs. Wells, 6392, New Paltz.

Members of the Modena Sunday school are rehearsing for the annual Children's Day exercises to be held Sunday, June 10, in the church.

Joseph Deyo and Joseph E. Hasbrouck attended the annual banquet and meeting of the Ulster County Branch of the Holland Society of New York held recently at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

The new building on the property of J. E. Hasbrouck and Co., presents a splendid appearance. The mason work was done by Peter Plate and the carpenter work by Fred and Harold Bernard.

Richard Van Aken of New Hurley visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leander Minard last week.

Mrs. Catherine Denton of Highland and Mrs. Melvin Carroll of New Paltz accompanied Mrs. Lester Wager to Shawangunk on Thursday.

Among the 145 children confirmed at St. Joseph's Church at New Paltz on Tuesday were Patrick Adams, Robert Eichler, Shirley and Ronald Moran, Francis Saborese, Florence Fiscelli, and Barbara Walter, Mrs. Ella Moran was in the class of adults.

Children may be registered at the Modena school on June 11 and 12 for kindergarten beginning in the fall. In order to sign for school, children must be five years of age on or before December 1, 1951. Either or both parents should accompany the registrant, it has been announced, and present the child's birth certificate and record of immunization.

It's an age when a tireless worker is always at our finger tips. We call him Reddy Kilowatt. He lives in the walls of our homes — in the wires, the switches, the convenience outlets. A touch of a switch brings him instantly to our command to do many of the things which formerly we did by hard labor.

Like other workers, Reddy works for wages. But his wages are penny-wages! Could you hire a woman to wash for you for 2c per week? In the average home, 2c is Reddy's weekly-washer-wage! All through the day and into the night he does countless jobs at penny prices. A penny spent for electricity is still big money!

Like other workers, Reddy works for wages. But his wages are penny-wages! Could you hire a woman to wash for you for 2c per week? In the average home, 2c is Reddy's weekly-washer-wage! All through the day and into the night he does countless jobs at penny prices. A penny spent for electricity is still big money!

Look around you in your home . . . upstairs . . . downstairs. What else do you buy which gives you so much for so little — in comfort, in convenience, in health, in time and labor saved? Yes, your electric switch is the key to low-cost, comfortable living.

Twenty years ago at this time, Uncle Sam's Liberty 4 and ¼ per cent bonds were selling at 103 and all of his outstanding obligations were on a comparable basis. At that time the federal debt was around 16 billions of dollars.

Today, with his debt 16 times as large as it was in 1931, his Treasury 2 and ½ per cent bonds due in five years are selling at 101.

Yes, when Uncle Sam owed 16 billions of dollars he was paying about 70 per cent more for his money than when he owed 255 billions! It sounds inconceivable: but facts are facts.

America has experienced a money revolution during the past two decades. If anyone had predicted in 1931 that what has happened would happen, his sanity would have been widely questioned. It hardly seems possible in America that anybody or institution or political state could multiply debts by 16 times and with it all get a 70 per cent reduction in interest charges. Most people and corporations would go broke under such a weight of unfavorable economic circumstances.

But Uncle Sam is in a class by himself. He has the machinery of the Federal Reserve System, and the Federal Reserve banks to help him over his fiscal problems. And with the machinery operating very efficiently, he can coin out money to his heart's content. So, his debts are multiplied and dollars flood the country.

While this business has been going on, it is well to note what has happened to commodity prices. Please remember that basic interest rates have declined 70 per cent.

Today wheat is about $2.40 a bushel. Twenty years ago it was 96 cents a bushel. Corn, now about $1.80 a bushel, was then 70 cents. Wholesale eggs at this time twenty years ago were 21 cents a dozen; today they are 52 cents. And butter, 24 cents a pound wholesale in 1931 is now 70 cents!

What has hit America? Why cruel inflation in the commodity markets and tragic deflation in the money markets.

If any corporation in America had perpetrated such economic acts on a huge unsuspecting segment of our country's population, what do you think would have happened to it and its officers?

We hear too little of these momentous things. And in the meantime, millions of retired people whose life-savings simply will not stand up under the impact of rising costs and lowered income become desperate in this inflation-deflation dilemma.

Savings and interest used to be driving motives in the economic lives of many people. But the events I have briefly outlined here are putting savings and interest in the shade. This very week a cynical savings bank depositor—for years a thrifty citizen—took $5,000 from his accounts.

He has been getting $100-a-year from this money in interest. He is educating two children in New York city colleges. "What?" he asks, "can $100 buy today? Nothing!"

And he buys speculative stocks paying 10 and 12 per cent dividends. The whole economic atmosphere in which he lives is surcharged with danger. What brought this all about? Why, the very things I am writing about: rising costs and declining interest.

There is nothing more serious in our national economic life than this inflation-deflation paradox. For it is killing thrift and saving.

America needs high in her political life statesmen who recognize this evil business and who will do something to reverse it. And it is a very tough job. Not an unnecessary dime should be spent by Washington. Eliminating waste there involves a million headaches. What has taken 20 years to do can't be undone in 20 months. But the task must be done sometime.

And until deflation leaves the money market, those who suffer under it should buy risks paying 6 and 8 per cent a year. It is the only way to neutralize the bad price-interest relationship presently existing.

Standard's Golden Anniversary

Fienberg Family Built Company

The Standard Furniture Company stores—in Albany, Troy, Schenectady and Kingston—this month are celebrating their golden anniversary in the furniture business. Three generations of the Fienberg family have built the company to its present five-store status, with the largest furniture warehouse in New York State, outside the city of New York.

In 1901 Abraham I. Fienberg began selling house furnishings house to house. He did not realize in those early days that he was laying the foundation of the great Standard Furniture Company of today. Years passed, and in 1907 after having built a large personal following, Abe opened a small store at 293 So. Pearl Albany. His own son, William a youngster of 16, embarked on this venture with him.

Rapid growth the following years made necessary several moves to larger quarters, until 22 years later when the Standard Furniture Company moved into it's own building at 112-116 So. Pearl street Albany—its present location, and connected it with a building at 82 Hamilton St. A complete modernization program of all floors and basement made it a truly beautiful store. A large section was added to the main floor in 1928. This section consisted of 10,000 sq. ft. additional.

In 1936 two stores were added to the Albany store to make a large 62 ft. width frontage with a revolving window display. More space was added to the upper floors and basement.

Standard's first out-of-town store was opened in 1939 in Kingston with Al Goodman as manager. This store, now managed by Jay Melton, boasts leadership in the entire Ulster county.

World War 2 temporarily halted the March of Progress . . . but the officers of Standard took these years to plan, buy properties, etc. In 1946 a third store was added to the Standard Furniture Company family, at 231-233 River street, in Troy with George Hyman as manager. In the spring of 1949, a fourth store was added at 121-129 Broadway at State in Schenectady, with Al Goodman as manager.

Chester L. Fienberg, new treasurer and general manager of the Standard Furniture Company chain, began learning the furniture business during vacations and after school, when just a lad in grammar school—working in various capacities from crating furniture to working on the trucks. In 1938 he took an active part, following his graduation from Cornell University. In 1945 he was made general manager.

In 1949 the largest furniture warehouse in New York state (outside of the metropolitan area) was completed to bring the finest delivery, repair and warehousing in America to Standard's customers. The warehouse has 1,500,000 cubic feet of space, and from there all Standard stores are serviced with dispatch in four cities.

In this warehouse an outlet store was opened, bringing Standard's total to five. Through this store are sold floor samples, factory seconds, and reconditioned merchandise at bargain prices. Also housed in the warehouse are the advertising, bookkeeping and shipping offices with following personnel:

Miss Libby Jupin, advertising manager; Richard J. Blocksidge, merchandise manager; Marvin Lape, director of shipping; John Cyran, head shipper; Ara Winchell, assistant shipper; Art Silvano, head of receiving department; Michael Buker, head of warehousing; Joe Halko, head of the service department. Chester Fienberg also makes his office in this building. The immense enclosed loading platform can receive or discharge cargo simultaneously from eight giant trailer-trucks.

In keeping abreast with modern trends, this past year Standard executed a program of modernization in their Albany and Troy stores . . . giving them a complete paint job. New light fixtures were installed to give day-light lighting. The Kingston store and Albany stores display beautiful new window fronts . . . the entire width of the stores . . . to give perfect vision into the stores. All four Standard stores now measure up to the finest present day standards of store decoration. William A. Fienberg, president, in announcing the 50th anniversary said—"we look back upon the last 50 years with pride and gratitude. We look forward confidently to the challenge of the next 50."

Plunges to His Death

New York, June 5 (AP)—Suicide of a defendant has led to a three-month delay in the trial of 19 policemen—all retired or suspended—on gambling-protection charges. Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz late yesterday in Brooklyn put off the prosecution until Sept. 10. A few minutes before the trial was scheduled to start yesterday morning, retired Policeman Charles V. Panarella, 44, plunged to death from a sixth-floor window of the court house. His death was officially pronounced a suicide.

Book Review

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE
By Cecil Woodham-Smith

A distinguished well-authenticated biography of one of the most remarkable women who ever lived. Born into a wealthy and aristocratic family, she was a beautiful and charming girl, expected to shine in society and to marry one of her several eligible suitors. Instead at age 16 she, like Joan of Arc, received a "Call from God" and for the next sixteen years she struggled valiantly to ascertain what she was called upon to do and, that question answered, to break down family opposition, give up the idea of marriage with the man she loved and free herself for her chosen task. First she took a course of training for nursing, which she had to take in German, since at that time the position of nurses in England was that of immoral drunkards or worse; and then to organize training schools for nurses and to improve the care of sick and wounded British soldiers wherever they were.

How well she succeeded is well known. But the great obstacles and frustrations which she had to overcome in order to attain her objective occupy a large part of the book and is fascinating reading. Her father was a scholar and a recluse and no great help to her except in her education; her mother and sister were selfish neurotics who hindered her in many ways and were a drag upon her all their lives.

The Crimean episode hardened her resolve as nothing else could. Through the influence of Sidney Howard, Secretary-at-War, she was sent with forty nurses to the front line hospital at Scutari. There amid scenes of indescribable horror, filth and disease and incompetence, she worked long, hard hours, carrying on bitter battles for supplies, combating or overlooking petty jealousies of nurses and doctors but always keeping before her the alleviation of pain and suffering of the common soldiers for which she was there. Although she was a slight, frail woman her fortitude and capacity for hard work were amazing. She was said at one time to have spent eight hours on her knees dressing wounds. She made it a rule to never let a man who came under her observation die alone. Her slight form could be seen at all hours, carrying a dimly lit lantern, bending over doomed cases. Truly "The Lady of the Lamp." It was said that she witnessed more than two thousand deaths in that hospital. Added to that she spent long hours at her administrative duties-writing reports, letters to bereaved families etc., until she literally fell asleep from exhaustion.

The legend of her achievements preceded her return to England. A grand reception was planned, which she avoided by traveling incognito and finally quietly walking home alone from the railroad station at night.

In Crimea she had once and for all raised the standards of nurses and soldiers to the high place which they deserved and that was her reward. She wished no public praise.

However praise she got from her Queen, from her friends and from many, many high officials who realized her worth. Her genius for organizing was called upon all through the years that followed. Although she drove herself several times into what appeared fatal illnesses, she managed to survive until 1919 when she was ninety years old.

Then sight and memory gone she slipped away, leaving a record of service to suffering humanity which has never been surpassed.

Slaying by Ex-Convict

New York, June 5 (AP)—The strangulation-strip slaying of a former New Orleans burlesque dancer was admitted early today by a 41-year-old housepainter, District Attorney Herman Methfessel said. Methfessel said the painter, August E. Jagusch, would be booked on a homicide charge. The district attorney said Jagusch, an ex-convict, gave details of the lovers' lane slaying of Doreathy M. At the formal opening on Friday and Saturday, crowds were shown through the new automobile display rooms and garage.

Statement Issued On Bond Issue For Hurley School

William C. Petry, of Hurley, chairman of the Hurley Taxpayer's Association, made the following statement today in reference to the story published in Monday's Freeman about a projected bond issue of $135,000:

"The statement in last night's Daily Freeman that a bond issue of $135,000 for building an addition to the Hurley School would add approximately $3.66 per thousand to the present rate of $15 is to say the least an understatement.

"To retire a bond issue of $135,000 in 30 years requires an annual payment of at least $4,500, without interest. An additional tax of $3.66 per thousand on the Hurley School District Assessment Roll would bring in a total of $3,817.89, not enough to cover the required annual payment.

"To this must be added the interest on the $135,000 plus the increase in operating costs: additional teachers' salaries, twice the amount of fuel for heating, double the amount of electricity, additional maintenance costs, $135,000 of additional fire insurance, additional workmen's compensation insurance, additional janitor wages and supplies, all of which will bring the increase in the Hurley tax rate to at least $16 per thousand instead of $3.66.

"The Hurley Taxpayer's Association wants additional class rooms added to their school, but question the wisdom of building an auditorium to seat 500 people at this time, under present unsettled conditions. They believe that adequate class room space can be provided for less than half of the $135,000."

Trinity Church Plans Annual Dinner June 14

Credentials Reinstated

Madrid, Spain, June 5 (AP)—The Spanish government has reinstated the press credentials of New York Times Correspondent Sam Pope Brewer after three American protest notes, the U. S. embassy announced today. The announcement said Brewer's press card had been given U. S. ambassador Stanton Griffis last night during an interview with Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo. Brewer's credentials were withdrawn April 17 on the grounds that the "general tone" of his dispatches was objectionable.

Statement Issued On Bond Issue For Hurley School

William C. Petry, of Hurley, chairman of the Hurley Taxpayer's Association, made the following statement today in reference to the story published in Monday's Freeman about a projected bond issue of $135,000:

"The statement in last night's Daily Freeman that a bond issue of $135,000 for building an addition to the Hurley School would add approximately $3.66 per thousand to the present rate of $15 is to say the least an understatement.

"To retire a bond issue of $135,000 in 30 years requires an annual payment of at least $4,500, without interest. An additional tax of $3.66 per thousand on the Hurley School District Assessment Roll would bring in a total of $3,817.89, not enough to cover the required annual payment.

"To this must be added the interest on the $135,000 plus the increase in operating costs: additional teachers' salaries, twice the amount of fuel for heating, double the amount of electricity, additional maintenance costs, $135,000 of additional fire insurance, additional workmen's compensation insurance, additional janitor wages and supplies, all of which will bring the increase in the Hurley tax rate to at least $16 per thousand instead of $3.66.

"The Hurley Taxpayer's Association wants additional class rooms added to their school, but question the wisdom of building an auditorium to seat 500 people at this time, under present unsettled conditions. They believe that adequate class room space can be provided for less than half of the $135,000."

Trinity Church Plans Annual Dinner June 14

The annual congregational dinner of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, will be held Thursday, June 14, at 6:30 p. m., the Rev. Dr. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor, announced today.

Dr. Paul C. White, secretary of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, who recently returned from a plane trip around the world, will be the guest speaker.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from Oscar Lawatsch or Mrs. Edward Snyder.

Approves Resolution

Pusan, Korea, June 5 (AP)—The South Korean Legislature today unanimously approved a resolution opposing any cease fire which did not guarantee a complete unification of Korea under the republican government.

The largest office building in the world is the Pentagon in Washington.

Boy's Condition Fair

The condition of John Wunders, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wunders of Ellenville, is "fair," Kingston Hospital authorities reported today. The boy suffered a fractured skull and concussion in a fall at his home, his physician reported.

Credentials Reinstated

Madrid, Spain, June 5 (AP)—The Spanish government has reinstated the press credentials of New York Times Correspondent Sam Pope Brewer after three American protest notes, the U. S. embassy announced today. The announcement said Brewer's press card had been given U. S. ambassador Stanton Griffis last night during an interview with Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo. Brewer's credentials were withdrawn April 17 on the grounds that the "general tone" of his dispatches was objectionable.

How You May Gain New Strength — Feel Younger

If you are rundown—low spirited—have sleepless nights—no energy—"nerves"—poor appetite, don't be discouraged! Chances are you are just not getting your full daily requirements of the necessary vitamins and minerals from the food you eat.

What you should do is try FERRIZAN—the new dietary supplement and reconstructive tonic. FERRIZAN not only gives you your full quota of many of the essential vitamins but also supplies the equally important Iron for the blood and Iodine for the ductless glands plus needed Calcium and Phosphorus.

Often in ten days you may feel the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly.

So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see yourself just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied says UNITED CUT RATE PHCY.

ARE YOU MISSING SOMETHING?

Do you wish you could hear better at the movies — at concerts, in church, in group conversation?

Then see MICROTONE about a new hearing aid. So unbelievably tiny and light, your best friend need not know you are wearing it. But so outstanding in performance, you will probably brag about its power, clarity and quietness.

A free demonstration when you wish — where you wish. Just stop in or call for an appointment.

I love you for your tenderness
Your heart so warm and true
I love you for your kindness and Consideration too
You're very sentimental but Sometimes I make you blue
And, I love you most of all, just Because you're [illegible]—Mrs. M. H.

Two matrons, chatting over lunch, were discussing a mutual friend.

First Matron — What's bothering Safly? She looks furious.

Second Matron—Oh, she's trying to reduce, and she just weighed herself on one of those scales with the new speaking attachment . . .

First Matron—And what happened?

Second Matron—Well, when she stepped on the scales, the voice said, 'One at a time, please!'

The quickest way to go broke is to start loving beyond your means.

Instead of loving your enemies, treat your friends a little better.

He—Say, that's a bad gash you've got on your forehead. How in the world did you get it?

Him—I bit myself!

He—Oh, come now. How could you bite yourself on your forehead?

Him—I stood on a chair.

A Harvard man and a Yale man were walking down the street, when suddenly a pretty girl stepped off the curb right in the path of a moving van. The Yale man rushed out, tackled the girl and tossed her to safety. The Harvard man and the Yale man walked, a little farther and suddenly another girl stepped right out, right in the path of another moving van. And what did the Harvard man do? Did he tackle the girl? No, siree, he tackled the moving van.

STANDARD CELEBRATES 50 Yrs. OF SELLING FURNITURE

In 1901 Abraham I. Feinberg started selling house furnishings house-to-house. Little did he realize, in those early tough days, that he was laying the foundation of the great Standard Furniture Co. of today.

In 1907 Having built a large personal following, in May of this year, Abraham opened a small store at 293 So. Pearl St. in Albany, in order to better serve his customers. Because space was limited, a one-story building was rented at 268 So. Pearl St. to serve as a stove store.

In 1908 Only a year later, increased business forced a move to larger quarters . . . a two-story building at 27 So. Pearl St., in Albany. Event than an addition had to be made to the rear of this store to give room to a rapidly expanding furniture business.

In 1913 Years of hard work, sacrifice, ability and good values, prompted the move to 227 So. Pearl St., Albany . . . a much larger building with three stories in all!

In 1923 Twenty-two long, hard years later, Standard moved into its own building at 112-116 So. Pearl St., Albany—its present location and connected it with a building at 82 Hamilton St. A complete modernization program of all floors and basement made it a truly outstanding store. In 1927 a large new section was added to the main floor, giving an additional 10,000 sq. ft. to the main floor.

In 1936 A new store because two more stores were added, to make a beautiful 62 ft. width frontage with a revolving window display. More space was added on the upper floors and basement, too! This was an expansion program which established Standard's leadership in furniture sales in Albany County, a position we still maintain.

In 1939 Standard's march of progress brought a store to 267-269 Fair St. in Kingston. Its immediate acceptance pushed it into a position where we are now the leaders in the entire Ulster County.

In 1946 This was big year for Trojans. Standard opened a beautiful store in Troy . . . another great step in their great program of progress. The following year, increased sales made necessary the opening of a new "Maple Manor." The Albany store, in 1947 added more space on Mosher Street, and established modern appliance, drapery and floor covering departments.

In 1948 nl the spring, the fourth store in Standard's chain was added at 121-129 Broadway at State. .A big, modern beautiful store to serve the people of Schenectady. A revolving window holds special attention to Standard's window displays.

In 1949 The largest furniture warehouse in New York State (outside of the Metropolitan area) was completed to bring the finest delivery, repair and warehousing in America to you. An outlet story in the warehouse was opened, with new and used furniture bargains.

Their Engagements Announced

SHIRLEY E. WELLS

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wells of 48 Hasbrouck avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Eleanor, to George Edward Ronk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ronk, New Paltz.

No date has been set for the wedding.

MARY-LOU MEHM

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Mehm of 28 Staples street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary-Lou, to John J. Naccarato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Naccarato, Sr., of 295 First avenue.

No immediate wedding plans have been made.

Shirley Thielker, 4-H Club Agent, Is Married May 27

Miss Shirley Jane Thielker daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August F. Thielker of James street, Poughkeepsie, became the bride of S./Sgt. William J. DeForest, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. DeForest of LaGrangeville, during a 2 p. m. ceremony May 27 at Sylvan Lake. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Wermuth of St. Denis Church. During the ceremony traditional bridal music was played. The church was trimmed with spring flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white eyelet embroidery over taffeta. Her white net veil was edged with lace, and attached to a lace headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of white baby's breath and carnations.

Mrs. Earl Muilen of New City was the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of light blue eyelet over matching taffeta. She wore a blue taffeta tiara, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Peter DeForest of LaGrangeville was best man for his brother. Leonard Scaccia of LeGrangeville, and Robert Thielker of Poughkeepsie, brother of the bride, ushered.

A reception at the bride's home for 75 guests followed the ceremony. The couple then left for Oklahoma and a tour of the southern states. Staff Sergeant and Mrs. DeForest will make their home in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The bride was graduated from Arlington High School and Cornell College of Home Economics. She has been employed as assistant home demonstration agent for Jefferson county, and until June 1 as assistant 4-H Club agent for Ulster county.

The groom is a graduate of Pawling High School. He enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Force in December, 1945, and is now stationed with the 2060th Mobile Weather Squadron at Tinker Air Base, Oklahoma City.

Woodstock Quartet Plans Fourth Year Of City Concerts

This summer, for the fourth consecutive year, the well-known Woodstock String Quartet, with Engelbert Roentgen, founder, as managing director, will give a series of six Wednesday evening concerts beginning July 18 at the air-cooled parish hall of St. James Methodist Church, a spokesman of the quartet announced today. The concerts to begin at 8:30 p. m., will be given under the auspices of St. James Sanctuary Choir.

Quartet personnel this year will include Sidney Harth, first violin; Teresa Testa, second violin; Carolyn Voight, viola, and Engelbert Roentgen, cello. Quartet artists will once again be assisted by several distinguished guest artists as Inez Carroll, Ilse Sass, Joseph Wolman, pianists; Lois McCauley, soprano; Cynthia Eddy-Britt, cello; Leon Barzin, viola.

Once again this year programs of classic, romantic and contemporary music have been drawn up with an eye toward variety and distinction.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roentgen has stressed the necessity for large community support, if the quartet is to continue its Kingston concerts.

Bard College Plans For Dance Recital

Annandale-on-Hudson, June 5—The dance department of Bard College will give four evening performances of its final workshop program beginning Wednesday, June 6, and ending Saturday, June 9, college authorities announced today. The recital, to open nightly at 8:30, will be held in the gymnasium, and will include two senior projects by members of this year's graduating class.

One senior project, When the Nuns Came to Carthage, the work of Janice Rosenbaum, is based on an old upper New York state legend, dated about the year 1812.

The second composition, Life of Janet Livingston Montgomery, is a dance drama written and produced by Isabel Summers in collaboration with Scott Peyton, a drama major. The story is based on Mrs. Livingston's diary which was written in 1819 when she was 66 years old.

The music for both projects was written by Clair Leonard, associate professor of music, and is directed by Claire Weigt, assistant professor of dance, and Lawrence Wismer, instructor in drama.

Early Botanist's Story Is Unfolded For Little Gardens

Gardens by the Schuylkill, the story of John Bartram, a botanist of the pre-Revolutionary era, who has come to be known as the American Linnaeus, was read by Mrs. Claude Twombly Friday afternoon, June 1, when the Little Gardens Club held it regular meeting, at the home of Mrs. John H. Saxe, West Hurley. The paper was prepared by Mrs. John D. Groves.

Bartram, who lived in the days of Washington, Franklin, and other pre-Revolutionary luminaries, was considered the "greatest botanist in the world" by Linnaeus. Philadelphia born, he was often visited by Washington, Franklin, and Jefferson, who delighted in wandering about his "wonder garden."

Bartram was born in 1699 the son of a Quaker farmer, who had come to William Penn's colony 17 years before. While still a young man of 29, he bought at a sheriff's sale five acres of land at Gray's Ferry, now located inside of Philadelphia's city limits. With his own hands he built additional rooms on the small house which stood on the property. Today, the native stone home still stands. There, on his grounds which ran down to the Schuylkill river, he began to garden. In his own words: "I began to botanize all over by farm and in little time I became acquainted with every vegetable in my neighborhood."

A Pioneer

Bartram, the paper emphasized, was a pioneer. His formal education was slight. Reading and writing were attained with the help of a Latin grammar, and a nearby schoolmaster. He was a quick student, and within three months had learned enough to study botanical treatises. He was among the first to penetrate the country's virgin forests, and to unearth their plant life. Later he shipped, at five guineas a box, seeds, roots, and plants to a London draper named Collinson, another plant life lover. From 1733, until Collinson's death in 1768, the two men corresponded. Their correspondence reveals innumerable difficulties, particularly the destruction of shipments by rats. But it was through this association that he became well-known.

Botanical Interest

Bartram was fortunate in that he lived during an era of botanical interest. Linnaeus had undertaken the tremendous chore of plant classification. English botanical students were eager to obtain each new specimen and scrap of information.

Not content to merely know the growing life of his native Pennsylvania, when he was already an old man, at the age of 76, he went to Florida to study southern plants. Two years later he died. His property was willed to his two sons, and finally, when there were no descendants, the property was sold. It wasn't until 1891 that the city of Philadelphia purchased the tract for a park.

His Home Today

Today, Bartram's home is located at 54th street and Elwood avenue, where a caretaker acts as a guide through the quaint home and beautiful gardens. There, visitors can find 82 varieties of trees, shrubs, and plants which were still in existence when the work of restoration began. More are being constantly added, although desire for authenticity has made the process a slow one. The garden now contains more rare trees and shrubs than any other spot in America.

The garden itself, Mrs. Groves concluded in her paper, takes visitors back to "the mysterious charm of an earlier America, and for a few moments, at least, gives complete calm and peace."

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Roger Loughran, and Mrs. Marie Gunther. Following the paper, refreshments were served.

A Little Piece of Holland

Brenda Bareika, looking very much like a fair poster come alive, holds two dolls which will be in an exhibit of Netherlands' imports this week, June 6, 7 and 8, at the Dutch Fair which is sponsored annually by the Old First Reformed Church. Other events will include a faithful reproduction of a Holland windmill in miniature, a guided tour June 6 of the historic and charming Van Leuven mansion, two luncheons and a dinner. (Freeman Photo)

Citizenship Contest Winners

Graduated Today

Miss Gertrude Lucille Eldridge, daughter of Mrs. Florence H. Eldridge, 186 Main street, who was graduated today from St. Agnes School, Albany. Miss Eldridge will enter Russell Sage College School of Nursing, Troy, in September.

Personal Notes

Sgt. and Mrs. Joseph Forte of 12 Deyo street, this city, announce the birth of a son, Joseph Paul, born May 31 at West Point Hospital, West Point.

Alfred Sicilio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cecelia, 110 Grant street, has won the Alpha Sigma Chi chemistry award for excellence in the natural sciences at Centenary College, Shreveport, La., where he is a member of this year's graduating class. In addition to a scroll and a monetary award, he will have his name inscribed on a plaque in the college's science library.

Robert V. Cahill of 466 Albany avenue was among 29 students to receive ROTC army commissions at St. Bonaventure University, St. Bonaventure, during commencement exercises June 3. He also received a medal for excellence in music.

Roland Stycos, 31 Main street, Saugerties, a student at the New England Conservatory of Music, played the clarinet at a chamber music concert presented by the Composers' Guild in Recital Hall of the conservatory Monday night. Mr. Stycos played Floyd McClain's Quartet for Woodwinds.

Vernon D. Beehler of Glendale, Calif., a former resident of this city, is visiting his mother, Mrs. John C. Beehler, and his sister, Mrs. Herman Roosa, 359 Albany avenue. With him are his wife, and their three children, Barry, Linda and Maureen. Mr. Beehler, a resident of California for the past seven years, is engaged in the practice of patent law in Los Angeles. He will attend the 25th reunion of his class at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, June 7, 8 and 9.

Marriage Announced

SHIRLEY E. WELLS

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wells of 48 Hasbrouck avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Eleanor, to George Edward Ronk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ronk, New Paltz.

No date has been set for the wedding.

MARY-LOU MEHM

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Mehm of 28 Staples street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary-Lou, to John J. Naccarato, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Naccarato, Sr., of 295 First avenue.

No immediate wedding plans have been made.

Shirley Thielker, 4-H Club Agent, Is Married May 27

Miss Shirley Jane Thielker daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August F. Thielker of James street, Poughkeepsie, became the bride of S./Sgt. William J. DeForest, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. DeForest of LaGrangeville, during a 2 p. m. ceremony May 27 at Sylvan Lake. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Wermuth of St. Denis Church. During the ceremony traditional bridal music was played. The church was trimmed with spring flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white eyelet embroidery over taffeta. Her white net veil was edged with lace, and attached to a lace headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of white baby's breath and carnations.

Mrs. Earl Mullen of New City was the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of light blue eyelet over matching taffeta. She wore a blue taffeta tiara, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Peter DeForest of LaGrangeville was best man for his brother. Leonard Scaccia of LeGrangeville, and Robert Thielker of Poughkeepsie, brother of the bride, ushered.

A reception at the bride's home for 75 guests followed the ceremony. The couple then left for Oklahoma and a tour of the southern states. Staff Sergeant and Mrs. DeForest will make their home in Oklahoma City, Okla.

The bride was graduated from Arlington High School and Cornell College of Home Economics. She has been employed as assistant home demonstration agent for Jefferson county, and until June 1 as assistant 4-H Club agent for Ulster county.

The groom is a graduate of Pawling High School. He enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Force in December, 1945, and is now stationed with the 2060th Mobile Weather Squadron at Tinker Air Base, Oklahoma City.

Woodstock Quartet Plans Fourth Year Of City Concerts

This summer, for the fourth consecutive year, the well-known Woodstock String Quartet, with Engelbert Roentgen, founder, as managing director, will give a series of six Wednesday evening concerts beginning July 18 at the air-cooled parish hall of St. James Methodist Church, a spokesman of the quartet announced today. The concerts to begin at 8:30 p. m., will be given under the auspices of St. James Sanctuary Choir.

Quartet personnel this year will include Sidney Harth, first violin; Teresa Testa, second violin; Carolyn Voight, viola, and Engelbert Roentgen, cello. Quartet artists will once again be assisted by several distinguished guest artists as Inez Carroll, Ilse Sass, Joseph Wolman, pianists; Lois McCauley, soprano; Cynthia Eddy-Britt, cello; Leon Barzin, viola.

Once again this year programs of classic, romantic and contemporary music have been drawn up with an eye toward variety and distinction.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roentgen has stressed the necessity for large community support, if the quartet is to continue its Kingston concerts.

Bard College Plans For Dance Recital

Annandale-on-Hudson, June 5—The dance department of Bard College will give four evening performances of its final workshop program beginning Wednesday, June 6, and ending Saturday, June 9, college authorities announced today. The recital, to open nightly at 8:30, will be held in the gymnasium, and will include two senior projects by members of this year's graduating class.

One senior project, When the Nuns Came to Carthage, the work of Janice Rosenbaum, is based on an old upper New York state legend, dated about the year 1812.

The second composition, Life of Janet Livingston Montgomery, is a dance drama written and produced by Isabel Summers in collaboration with Scott Peyton, a drama major. The story is based on Mrs. Livingston's diary which was written in 1819 when she was 66 years old.

The music for both projects was written by Clair Leonard, associate professor of music, and is directed by Claire Weigt, assistant professor of dance, and Lawrence Wismer, instructor in drama.

Early Botanist's Story Is Unfolded For Little Gardens

Gardens by the Schuylkill, the story of John Bartram, a botanist of the pre-Revolutionary era, who has come to be known as the American Linnaeus, was read by Mrs. Claude Twombly Friday afternoon, June 1, when the Little Gardens Club held it regular meeting, at the home of Mrs. John H. Saxe, West Hurley. The paper was prepared by Mrs. John D. Groves.

Bartram, who lived in the days of Washington, Franklin, and other pre-Revolutionary luminaries, was considered the "greatest botanist in the world" by Linnaeus. Philadelphia born, he was often visited by Washington, Franklin, and Jefferson, who delighted in wandering about his "wonder garden."

Bartram was born in 1699 the son of a Quaker farmer, who had come to William Penn's colony 17 years before. While still a young man of 29, he bought at a sheriff's sale five acres of land at Gray's Ferry, now located inside of Philadelphia's city limits. With his own hands he built additional rooms on the small house which stood on the property. Today, the native stone home still stands. There, on his grounds which ran down to the Schuylkill river, he began to garden. In his own words: "I began to botanize all over by farm and in little time I became acquainted with every vegetable in my neighborhood."

A Pioneer

Bartram, the paper emphasized, was a pioneer. His formal education was slight. Reading and writing were attained with the help of a Latin grammar, and a nearby schoolmaster. He was a quick student, and within three months had learned enough to study botanical treatises. He was among the first to penetrate the country's virgin forests, and to unearth their plant life. Later he shipped, at five guineas a box, seeds, roots, and plants to a London draper named Collinson, another plant life lover. From 1733, until Collinson's death in 1768, the two men corresponded. Their correspondence reveals innumerable difficulties, particularly the destruction of shipments by rats. But it was through this association that he became well-known.

Botanical Interest

Bartram was fortunate in that he lived during an era of botanical interest. Linnaeus had undertaken the tremendous chore of plant classification. English botanical students were eager to obtain each new specimen and scrap of information.

Not content to merely know the growing life of his native Pennsylvania, when he was already an old man, at the age of 76, he went to Florida to study southern plants. Two years later he died. His property was willed to his two sons, and finally, when there were no descendants, the property was sold. It wasn't until 1891 that the city of Philadelphia purchased the tract for a park.

His Home Today

Today, Bartram's home is located at 54th street and Elwood avenue, where a caretaker acts as a guide through the quaint home and beautiful gardens. There, visitors can find 82 varieties of trees, shrubs, and plants which were still in existence when the work of restoration began. More are being constantly added, although desire for authenticity has made the process a slow one. The garden now contains more rare trees and shrubs than any other spot in America.

The garden itself, Mrs. Groves concluded in her paper, takes visitors back to "the mysterious charm of an earlier America, and for a few moments, at least, gives complete calm and peace."

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Roger Loughran, and Mrs. Marie Gunther. Following the paper, refreshments were served.

A Little Piece of Holland

Brenda Bareika, looking very much like a fair poster come alive, holds two dolls which will be in an exhibit of Netherlands' imports this week, June 6, 7 and 8, at the Dutch Fair which is sponsored annually by the Old First Reformed Church. Other events will include a faithful reproduction of a Holland windmill in miniature, a guided tour June 6 of the historic and charming Van Leuven mansion, two luncheons and a dinner. (Freeman Photo)

Citizenship Contest Winners

"It must be somebody's birthday today," announced Generous George, "so I'll make you a present of this trick." It was an unusual trick to give away, but our hero certainly didn't lose anything by it.

The bidding had been tentative but reasonable enough. Playing for a game with four trumps in your own hand and three in the dummy is sound enough if you're a good player.

West opened the king of clubs and then shifted to the nine of spades. Dummy played the deuce of spades, East played the four of spades, and Generous George made his little speech and played the six of spades. The defenders were surprised, but not grateful to be given this trump trick.

West led his remaining trump (as good as any lead at this point), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next entered his hand with the queen of diamonds to ruff his remaining club with dummy's last trump.

Now George could get to his hand with the ace of hearts to draw trumps with the king and queen. That made it possible for him to run the rest of the diamonds without interruption. He scored with five diamonds, a heart, three top trumps, and one club ruff.

What would the result have been if George had not been so generous at the second trick? He'd have lost his game contract.

For example, suppose the first round of trumps is taken by dummy's ace. South gets to his hand with the queen of diamonds to ruff a club and then draw two rounds of trumps with the king and queen. He must then run the diamonds, whereupon East carefully ruffs on the fourth round of the suit. East then leads back a club, and south can win only nine tricks.

The point is that South should expect to lose one trump trick and can afford to give it up only on the first round of the suit. That leaves him in position to ruff a club and still draw all the trumps.

KHS Ratings Are Given for School Music Competition

Kingston ratings at the annual New York State School Music Association Competition Festival for this area of the state, at which 46 schools and 2,200 students participated, were announced today.

Competition rules stressed that competing organizations must select music from the state manual, where it is listed in grades one through six, sixth being the most difficult. Groups not using music from the manual, while designated as festival entries, were given criticisms, but no ratings. There were two judges for each major organization, and one judge for solo events.

The following plan was used for all adjudication: A, excellent performance, comparable to school marking system of 90-100; B, good performance, 80-90; C, fair performance, 70-80; D, below average.

This year marked the third successive season that Kingston High School Choir received an A rating in grade six music. In 1949 there were 191 choirs entered in the state competitions with Kingston one of two choirs receiving top rating. Last year 176 choirs participated, with Kingston the only entry receiving an A-six rating. This year's complete official report will not be made known until fall.

Participants, Ratings

Following are Kingston participants and ratings: KHS Choir, A-six; KHS Band, B-four; KHS Orchestra, B-two.

Vocal soloists: Joseph Berryann, A-two; Arlene Craw and Barbara Ewig, A-five; Patricia Dixon, A-four; Robert Engle, A-two; Donna Hyatt, A-six; Sylvia Kern, A-five; Chase Page, A-three; Joan Timpson, A-four; Phyllis Weiner, A-four.

Instrumental soloists: Bert Bishop, flute A-three; Bert Bishop, piano, D-six; Patricia Carr, twirler, B-three; Ole Christensen, alto-sax, festival; Betty Dabney, clarinet, B-four; DeCosta Dawson, bass, A-two; Irma Dedy, oboe, B-two; Drum Quartet, A-three; Thomas Dugan, cornet, B-five; Eleanor Howar, twirler, A-three; Paul Jeffrey, clarinet, A-six; Paul Jeffrey, tenor sax, A-four; Richard Lamoreaux, alto sax, festival; Ramona Leonard, piano, A-five; Gertrude Linck, twirler, B-three; Marion Leoffler, oboe, B-three.

Instrumental soloists: Robert Luedtke, cornet, A-six; Robert McNierney, cornet, B-one; Robert Mendel, cornet, C-three; Louis Perry, clarinet, B-three; John Roberti, alto sax, C-three; Judy strong, flute, A-three; Valerie Swanson, twirler, A-three; James Sylvestri, cornet, festival; Richard Torrens, piano, C-six.

Elementary School Instrumentalists, (Miss Lulu May Robert's classes): William Cross, fifth grade, violin, C-one; Douglas Eighmey, kindergarten, bass, A-one; Phillips Eighmey, third grade, trumpet, A-one; David, Phillips and Douglas Eighmey, trio, A-one; Robert Gollnick, fourth grade, cello, B-one; Carolyn Hull, sixth grade, violin, B-one; Margaret Lawatsch, cello, festival; Richard Luedtke, fourth grade, cornet, A-one; Iris Robinson, sixth grade, violin, C-one; Gale Scholes, fifth grade, violin, A-two; Diane Thomas, fourth grade, violin, B-one.

Boston University Graduates

Miss Jean Comstock (left), 317 Lucas avenue, who received, cum laude, her bachelor of science degree, with a major in physical education at the College of Physical Education, Sargent, Boston University, yesterday, during traditional commencement exercises at Boston Garden. Also graduating from Boston University yesterday was Miss Verabelle Royce Crisman (right), 56 Elizabeth street, who received her bachelor of science degree, with a major in art education, from the College of Practical Arts and Letters.

John LeFever to Be Hebron Graduate

John R. LeFever, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd LeFever of Richmond Park, will be graduated from Hebron Academy, Hebron, Me., at the school's 147th commencement exercises to be held Friday, June 8, academy authorities announced today.

While a student at Hebron, Mr. LeFever was a member of the baseball, swimming and skiing teams, the school band, and the Glee Club. He will continue his education at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., in the fall.

She was vice-president and social chairman of her dormitory, a member of the German Club, the Women's Athletic Association, and the Drew-Eds, campus women's organization. She will be employed as a laboratory assistant at the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York.

Card Parties

Temple Emanuel

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will sponsor a card party at Wiltwyck Golf Club Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Sisterhood spokesmen promise a gala event, and refreshments will be served. Those wishing transportation are asked to call Mrs. Harold Taylor, 4488. The public is invited.

Loam is a fertile soil composed of sand, clay and decomposed vegetable matter.

Van Leuven Mansion To Be Open June 6 For Old Dutch Fair

The old Sudan House, better known as the Van Leuven Mansion, at the corner of Main and Wall streets, will be open to the public on Wednesday, June 6.

Girls in period costume will guide visitors through the 21-room building for a fee, proceeds of which go to the Old Dutch Church which is sponsoring its annual Dutch Fair on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

This week's open house will be the first held in conjunction with the church fair in two years.

According to Fred J. Johnston, present owner of the building, many interesting items have been added to the extensive collection of period pieces on display since two years ago. Among the additions is a 600-piece Paris China desert service, circa 1810.

Another newly acquired item is the portrait of Margaret Livingston, who later became the wife of General Montgomery who was killed in the battle of Quebec. A Chippendale sofa in the library belonged to the same general.

The Van Leuven Mansion was built in 1784 by John Sudan, whose portrait by Vanderlyn hangs in the National Gallery in Washington. Another Vanderlyn portrait of the builder hangs in the mansion and can be seen by visitors on Wednesday. Hours for visiting are 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Hudson Valley Room

The Hudson Valley room of the mansion contains a large collection of maple furniture made in the valley, among the items a bed with serpentine canopy made in New Paltz. The room has a nautical note, containing several ship models and many paintings and prints of ships that once sailed the Hudson.

In the China Hall on the top floor of the building is a dome-back cubbard built about 1710 containing examples of the work of every early glass factory in America. The wallpaper here was made from the original woodblocks representing a commemorative on the death of George Washington.

Among the many paintings on display is one of the early representative views of Kingston by A. W. Ladd. Showing the village from the Esopus Flats, the picture includes the Fair Street Reformed Church as it appeared with its steeple, which blew down on March 17, 1854.

The slave kitchen in the basement includes many interesting examples of domestic implements of the 1740 period.

Other Fair Events

Two luncheons and one dinner have also been scheduled this week at the Old First Dutch Church in conjunction with the church's annual fair.

Wednesday, June 6, a meat loaf luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 1 o'clock. Mrs. Richard Talleur is chairman.

Thursday noon a turkey salad luncheon will be served by Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller and her committee.

Patrons of the dinner Friday evening will have their choice of baked ham or fish. Co-chairmen of the dinner are Mrs. Henry Page and Mrs. Ethel Martin.

As a sauce for vegetables mix equal amounts a hot white sauce and mayonnaise and add minced parsley.

Veteran Day Line Ship Heads for Scrap Pile

The 45-year-old Hudson River Day Line steamer "Hendrick Hudson" which for 35 years after she was built in Newburgh in 1906, plied the Hudson river carrying thousands of passengers each trip between Albany and New York, is being scrapped. The famous old boat which was a familiar sight along the Hudson and pulling in at Kingston Point to discharge her passengers for the Catskill mountains, left the Day Line Pier in New York under tow for Philadelphia where she will be broken up.

For some time the vessel had not been in use. The Hendrick Hudson was 379 feet long and had a capacity of 5,000 passengers.

Two Men Injured In County Mishap

Selwyn Moshier, 23, Clintondale, and John Phillips, 18, of New Paltz road, Highland, were injured in a two-car collision Monday afternoon at the intersection of the Ohioville-Ardonia road and the Clintondale road, three miles south of Clintondale.

Moshier sustained a fracture of the knee cap, lacerations of the chin and body injuries and after being treated by Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz was sent to a hospital. Phillips was treated by Dr. Karl F. Meekins at Highland for contusions of the left shoulder, chest and back injuries.

State Police from Highland investigated. There was no arrest. Phillips, driving a car of Angela Crimi of New Paltz road, was north bound to Ohioville on the Ohioville-Ardonia road. Moshier was operating a vehicle owned by the Tantillos Service and Supplies Company of Ohioville, easterly to Clintondale on the Clintondale road. The cars collided at the intersection about 5:45 p. m.

"It must be somebody's birthday today," announced Generous George, "so I'll make you a present of this trick." It was an unusual trick to give away, but our hero certainly didn't lose anything by it.

The bidding had been tentative but reasonable enough. Playing for a game with four trumps in your own hand and three in the dummy is sound enough if you're a good player.

West opened the king of clubs and then shifted to the nine of spades. Dummy played the deuce of spades, East played the four of spades, and Generous George made his little speech and played the six of spades. The defenders were surprised, but not grateful to be given this trump trick.

West led his remaining trump (as good as any lead at this point), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer next entered his hand with the queen of diamonds to ruff his remaining club with dummy's last trump.

Now George could get to his hand with the ace of hearts to draw trumps with the king and queen. That made it possible for him to run the rest of the diamonds without interruption. He scored with five diamonds, a heart, three top trumps, and one club ruff.

What would the result have been if George had not been so generous at the second trick? He'd have lost his game contract.

For example, suppose the first round of trumps is taken by dummy's ace. South gets to his hand with the queen of diamonds to ruff a club and then draw two rounds of trumps with the king and queen. He must then run the diamonds, whereupon East carefully ruffs on the fourth round of the suit. East then leads back a club, and south can win only nine tricks.

The point is that South should expect to lose one trump trick and can afford to give it up only on the first round of the suit. That leaves him in position to ruff a club and still draw all the trumps.

KHS Ratings Are Given for School Music Competition

Kingston ratings at the annual New York State School Music Association Competition Festival for this area of the state, at which 46 schools and 2,200 students participated, were announced today.

Competition rules stressed that competing organizations must select music from the state manual, where it is listed in grades one through six, sixth being the most difficult. Groups not using music from the manual, while designated as festival entries, were given criticisms, but no ratings. There were two judges for each major organization, and one judge for solo events.

The following plan was used for all adjudication: A, excellent performance, comparable to school marking system of 90-100; B, good performance, 80-90; C, fair performance, 70-80; D, below average.

This year marked the third successive season that Kingston High School Choir received an A rating in grade six music. In 1949 there were 191 choirs entered in the state competitions with Kingston one of two choirs receiving top rating. Last year 176 choirs participated, with Kingston the only entry receiving an A-six rating. This year's complete official report will not be made known until fall.

Participants, Ratings

Van Leuven Mansion To Be Open June 6 For Old Dutch Fair

The old Sudan House, better known as the Van Leuven Mansion, at the corner of Main and Wall streets, will be open to the public on Wednesday, June 6.

Girls in period costume will guide visitors through the 21-room building for a fee, proceeds of which go to the Old Dutch Church which is sponsoring its annual Dutch Fair on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

This week's open house will be the first held in conjunction with the church fair in two years.

According to Fred J. Johnston, present owner of the building, many interesting items have been added to the extensive collection of period pieces on display since two years ago. Among the additions is a 600-piece Paris China desert service, circa 1810.

Another newly acquired item is the portrait of Margaret Livingston, who later became the wife of General Montgomery who was killed in the battle of Quebec. A Chippendale sofa in the library belonged to the same general.

The Van Leuven Mansion was built in 1784 by John Sudan, whose portrait by Vanderlyn hangs in the National Gallery in Washington. Another Vanderlyn portrait of the builder hangs in the mansion and can be seen by visitors on Wednesday. Hours for visiting are 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Hudson Valley Room

The Hudson Valley room of the mansion contains a large collection of maple furniture made in the valley, among the items a bed with serpentine canopy made in New Paltz. The room has a nautical note, containing several ship models and many paintings and prints of ships that once sailed the Hudson.

In the China Hall on the top floor of the building is a dome-back cubbard built about 1710 containing examples of the work of every early glass factory in America. The wallpaper here was made from the original woodblocks representing a commemorative on the death of George Washington.

Among the many paintings on display is one of the early representative views of Kingston by A. W. Ladd. Showing the village from the Esopus Flats, the picture includes the Fair Street Reformed Church as it appeared with its steeple, which blew down on March 17, 1854.

The slave kitchen in the basement includes many interesting examples of domestic implements of the 1740 period.

Other Fair Events

Two luncheons and one dinner have also been scheduled this week at the Old First Dutch Church in conjunction with the church's annual fair.

Wednesday, June 6, a meat loaf luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 1 o'clock. Mrs. Richard Talleur is chairman.

Thursday noon a turkey salad luncheon will be served by Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller and her committee.

Patrons of the dinner Friday evening will have their choice of baked ham or fish. Co-chairmen of the dinner are Mrs. Henry Page and Mrs. Ethel Martin.

As a sauce for vegetables mix equal amounts a hot white sauce and mayonnaise and add minced parsley.

Veteran Day Line Ship Heads for Scrap Pile

The 45-year-old Hudson River Day Line steamer "Hendrick Hudson" which for 35 years after she was built in Newburgh in 1906, plied the Hudson river carrying thousands of passengers each trip between Albany and New York, is being scrapped. The famous old boat which was a familiar sight along the Hudson and pulling in at Kingston Point to discharge her passengers for the Catskill mountains, left the Day Line Pier in New York under tow for Philadelphia where she will be broken up.

For some time the vessel had not been in use. The Hendrick Hudson was 379 feet long and had a capacity of 5,000 passengers.

Two Men Injured In County Mishap

Selwyn Moshier, 23, Clintondale, and John Phillips, 18, of New Paltz road, Highland, were injured in a two-car collision Monday afternoon at the intersection of the Ohioville-Ardonia road and the Clintondale road, three miles south of Clintondale.

Moshier sustained a fracture of the knee cap, lacerations of the chin and body injuries and after being treated by Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz was sent to a hospital. Phillips was treated by Dr. Karl F. Meekins at Highland for contusions of the left shoulder, chest and back injuries.

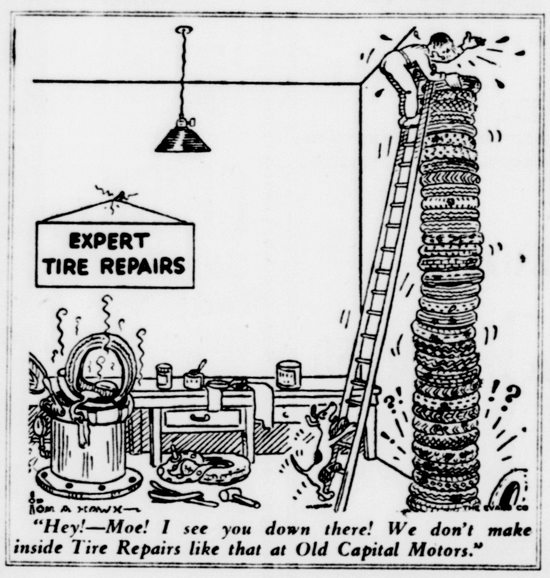

State Police from Highland investigated. There was no arrest. Phillips, driving a car of Angela Crimi of New Paltz road, was north bound to Ohioville on the Ohioville-Ardonia road. Moshier was operating a vehicle owned by the Tantillos Service and Supplies Company of Ohioville, easterly to Clintondale on the Clintondale road. The cars collided at the intersection about 5:45 p. m.

Rev. F. L. Gollnick Receives Degree At Wagner College

Many From Trinity Church Attend the Ceremonies Honoring Their Pastor

Two hundred and fifty-five men and women received degrees last Saturday at the 66th annual commencement exercises of Wagner College, Staten Island. The graduation ceremony for one of the largest classes in the last 10 years was held under a large tent in front of the Lutheran College's huge administration building. Over 4,000 persons attended the exercises.

The graduating class was presented by the Dean of the College, John R. Bacher. Dr. Bacher is the son of a former pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Kingston. Dr. Walter Langsam, president of the college, conferred the degrees. The commencement address was given by Dr. G. Elson Ruff, editor of the Lutheran, the official paper of the United Lutheran Church of America. He gave a brilliant address on the theme: "I Am, You Are, He Is!" He outlined a philosophy of life based upon a confidence in one's self; the ability to get along with people; and the willingness to sacrifice in order to attain a goal.

Ten nursing diplomas were granted to the graduates of the Wagner School of Nursing. Two Distinguished Citizenship Awards were given to State Senator John Merrill Braisted, Jr., and to Dr. Arleigh Boyd Williamson, head of the Department of Public Speaking at New York University. Among those receiving honorary degrees was the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Kingston. His citation noted not only his activity in church affairs, but also in civic life. Pastor Gollnick has been pastor of Trinity Church for 10 years. Under his leadership, Trinity Church has grown to a membership of 1,500 baptized members. A special bus of parishioners, together with several carloads of people from Kingston attended the rites.

Others receiving honorary degrees at the commencement were Lauritz Melchior, famous singer; Josiah N. Macy, prominent Westchester county publisher; Joseph C. Rovensky, president of the International Tin Corporation; the Rev. Eugene C. Kreider, superintendent of Home Missions for the United Lutheran Synod of New York; and the Rev. Edwin H. Knudten, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New Jersey.

Prize Winning Lamp Builders

Prize winning lamps from 34 high schools in the Central Hudson Gas & Electric franchise territory have been on display in the windows of company district offices. Woodworking and industrial art classes have been building the original design lamps for the past few weeks. Lamps range in motif from an old fashioned telephone to lily pads.

Central Hudson distributed 1,671 indirect three-way lamp kits to the high schools for use in the company-sponsored contest. Prizes for the first, second and third place lamps in the district-wide competition are being offered.

Three winners have also been selected in each of the high schools by a panel of instructors from the schools with the first place winner receiving automatic entry into the final competition.

Final judges are Harold Green of General Electric, D. P. Caverly of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Marshall N. Waterman of Westinghouse Electric Corp. The winners will be announced in the near future.

First place winner in the lamp building competition at the Kingston High School was Anthony Gardecki. He received automatic entry into the district-wide competition. Second place went to Ludwig Distler, and third place winner was Frank Boice.

Community . . .

ment, is closest to the average citizen. It doles out scarce materials, runs the priority system, and restricts civilian goods. DPA, independent and a notch higher in the alphabetical hierarchy, makes policy on production.

Informed officials said the merger, if approved, would bring DPA also under commerce's wing. Manly Fleischmann, NPA administrator, is mentioned as a possible choice to head the combined agency.

Several advisers have told Wilson, it was learned, that the present division of authority has caused some delays, snags and disagreements in the control program.

Di Salle's price-posting program will begin June 18, when beef pricing charts are to be put up in butcher shops under an order already announced. DiSalle indicated veal might be next on the meat list. Pork is selling under parity—below the level at which prices may be frozen.

The 18-man Wage Stabilization Board scheduled a second day of talks this afternoon on a proposed four-cent hourly bonus to 1,000,000 auto workers for improving production in the past year.

Named Lecturer

Walter W. Kantack of New York city was named a Christian Science lecturer at the annual meeting held Monday of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Kantack formerly was a prominent New York designer and manufacturer, and for 10 years was a member of the Advisory Committee on Industrial Art at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He has been a Christian Science practitioner since 1942. Christian Science lecturers make extensive speaking tours throughout the United States as well as overseas.

Grand Jury . . .

Daniel Duffy was arraigned on a charge of burglary, third degree, alleged to have been committed on September 18, 1950, and also grand larceny, first degree. A plea of innocent was entered and Howard C. St. John was assigned. The case was adjourned until June 11 at 2 p. m.

Alex Kochek of Ellenville entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4 of the Penal Law in that he possessed a revolver without a permit. Charles F. Kaiser appeared and told the court the defendant had made application for a permit and believed he had a right to possess the firearm. The gun was found in his car last October. Judge Cashin suspended any imposition of sentence.

George E. Federal, Catskill, one of the men charged with malicious mischief in connection with destruction of property of the Knaust Mushroom company during a labor dispute, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of malicious destruction of property and he will be sentenced next Monday at 2 o'clock. N. J. Friendman appeared for Federal.

Wallace Effner, 17, charged with grand larceny, first degree, growing out of a car case appeared and entered a plea of innocent to being a youthful offender. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant. His case will be disposed of at chambers under the Youthful Offender statute.

Grand Jurors Honor Macholdt, Resigned

Henry Macholdt, who has served as secretary of the Grand Jurors Association of Ulster county since its inception 17 years ago, resigned from that position for reasons of ill health last night when the association met at the court house with Thomas Murphy, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Daniel L. Haynes.

Highlight of the evening was a resolution passed in Macholdt's honor, praising his "efficient service" to the position "he so patiently, effectively, and with great pride and honesty held for so many years."

Murphy also presented Macholdt, who is the only living charter member of the organization, with a life membership to the Grand Jurors, and a copy of the resolution. Further wishes for his health and happiness were also expressed.

Mrs. Anna Ashdown was elected to succeed him as secretary.

Big Fire Hits Passaic

Passaic, N. J., June 5 (AP)—The heart of Passaic's shopping area was ravaged by a $1,000,000 fire that raged unchecked for five hours yesterday. Left gutted or badly damaged were a huge electrical appliance store, two textile factories, a dress shop, delicatessen, luncheonette and men's clothing store. Thick, acrid smoke that blanketed this city of 60,000 damaged dozens of other shops.

There are five major universities in Argentina.

YMCA 'Victory Dinner' Program Arrangements Set

Program arrangements for the YMCA drive's "victory dinner" tomorrow night have been completed by George H. De Kay, chairman, and Clarence S. Rowland, president, it was announced today, with the expectation that those who have promised donations will submit them. It is also hoped that the four or five remaining workers will complete their returns to make up the $166 deficit necessary before the $20,000 goal is reached.

Tomorrow night's program will include an invocation by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, a turkey dinner served by a special committee of volunteers; singing lead by Richard Talleur; cutting of the 85th-year birthday cake by Rowland and De Kay; a vote of thanks to all workers by the chairman, and introduction of the toastmaster, Clarence S. Rowland, who will present the prizes.

Special guests during the dinner will be Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Frederick Snyder and Judge John M. Cashin. The benediction will be given by the Rev. William J. McVey.

The entire program will be appropriate to the 85th anniversary of the YMCA in this city, and its national 100th anniversary, as well as to a successful financial campaign.

Police Have Bicycle

Patrolman Walter Van Steenburgh reported to headquarters at 3:45 a. m. today that he found a small bicycle, girl's model, parked against the street light pole in front of 52 Main street. The cycle may be claimed at police headquarters.

Hunt Circus Here For Shows Today

Today is circus day in Kingston, and early this morning the gaily-painted trucks and trailers of Hunt Bros. Circus arrived at the municipal stadium for the one-day stand in the city from which it started back in 1892.

Hunt Bros. Circus, with 76-year-old Charley Hunt bossing the project, pitched its tents this morning for the afternoon and evening performances on the grounds at the foot of North Front street—directly across from the corner where the same Charley Hunt practiced slack wire walking over half a century ago.

According to advance notice, the circus is "bigger and better" than ever. Business this year for the Kingston-organized show has been exceptionally good, reports the Billboard, magazine of the show world, which rates the Hunt Bros. Circus as one of the largest motorized circuses traveling today. There are 62 trucks, trailers, and private cars used to transport the show which arrived here from Newburgh.

A feature of this year's performance are the Hunt elephants, a herd of six well-trained pachyderms with "the smallest baby elephant in the world" leading the herd through its tricks. Hunt Bros. also displays a fair-sized menagerie and a well-rounded program of circus talent.

Would Honor Forrestal

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The navy's new supercarrier would be named for James V. Forrestal, first secretary of defense, under a resolution passed by the House yesterday and sent to the Senate. Congress has authorized work on a giant new carrier, but construction has not yet started. The ship would take the place in navy planning of the proposed carrier United States, on which former Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson halted work two years ago.

All but the Fire

Children at School No. 8 on Franklin street had an unexpected deviation from their usual schedule shortly after 9 a. m. today when four fire trucks, the chiefs' car, a police car and motorcycle converged upon Rose's Super Market across Franklin street. Kept in good order by their teachers, the children remained inside the schoolyard and watched as the firemen stretched a hose line which, it developed, was not needed. The fire, a slight one in the flooring near a counter, was out on arrival and business at the store was not interrupted.

Valuable Cat Found

A valuable cat was found Monday night near 23 Hewitt Place by Joseph Setera, who turned it over to the police department. The cat was taken to the office of Dr. A. Evans, 456 Albany avenue, where he will be held, at no cost to the city, until claimed by its owner, police reported. The Siamese cat was described as a "very valuable one" that is probably being sought by its owner.

Dewey Sees . . .

powered to remove local officials for wilful failure to comply with state C-D requirements.

He replied with measured emphasis that the Defense Council was fully aware of such powers.

The drafting of personnel for C-D duties, Dewey said, was not discussed as an immediate possibility.

Wilkinson said all communities had reported difficulty "in obtaining civil defense volunteers in the numbers required."

He said that generally auxiliary police and fire services were the most successful in attracting volunteers.

The response has been least satisfactory, Wilkinson reported, to calls for volunteers in emergency medical, welfare and air raid warden services.

The Defense Emergency Act permits the drafting of C-D personnel under certain conditions, including the failure of volunteers to meet required quotas.

Wilkinson observed:

"Whether or not large numbers of volunteers can be enrolled, it is essential that sound, capable local civil defense staffs be established, and thoroughly trained, and that complete, detailed local operational plans be prepared.

"If these steps, which are within the capabilities of the counties and cities, are taken, it will be possible in an emergency to act quickly and effectively, even with limited forces, and the volunteer assistance which an attack will certainly bring forth can be used in an orderly and intelligent way."

Price Wars Flame

same week a year ago, according to a Federal Reserve Bank survey.

Philadelphia department stores, in contrast, showed a marked drop in the absence of a price skirmish. Some merchants thought shoppers were holding back, waiting for the price war to hit that city.

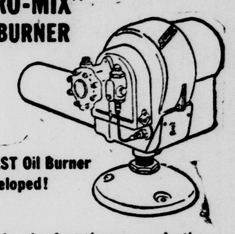

The price war, following a U. S. Supreme Court ruling upsetting much fair-trade law price-fixing, drew thousands to San Francisco's Market street stores. Weinstein's Department Store led off San Francisco's bargain battle, and other merchants jumped into the fray.

New Jersey's biggest department store, L. Bamberger & Co., of Newark, started cutting its prices to meet New York competition. This store is a Macy Affiliate.

In Baltimore, Gutman's cut prices on fair-trade items ranging from toasters to union suits.

Two drug store chains were feuding in Omaha. At least two Memphis, Tenn., stores cut fair-trade prices last week.

Rev. F. L. Gollnick Receives Degree At Wagner College

Many From Trinity Church Attend the Ceremonies Honoring Their Pastor

Two hundred and fifty-five men and women received degrees last Saturday at the 66th annual commencement exercises of Wagner College, Staten Island. The graduation ceremony for one of the largest classes in the last 10 years was held under a large tent in front of the Lutheran College's huge administration building. Over 4,000 persons attended the exercises.

The graduating class was presented by the Dean of the College, John R. Bacher. Dr. Bacher is the son of a former pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Kingston. Dr. Walter Langsam, president of the college, conferred the degrees. The commencement address was given by Dr. G. Elson Ruff, editor of the Lutheran, the official paper of the United Lutheran Church of America. He gave a brilliant address on the theme: "I Am, You Are, He Is!" He outlined a philosophy of life based upon a confidence in one's self; the ability to get along with people; and the willingness to sacrifice in order to attain a goal.

Ten nursing diplomas were granted to the graduates of the Wagner School of Nursing. Two Distinguished Citizenship Awards were given to State Senator John Merrill Braisted, Jr., and to Dr. Arleigh Boyd Williamson, head of the Department of Public Speaking at New York University. Among those receiving honorary degrees was the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Kingston. His citation noted not only his activity in church affairs, but also in civic life. Pastor Gollnick has been pastor of Trinity Church for 10 years. Under his leadership, Trinity Church has grown to a membership of 1,500 baptized members. A special bus of parishioners, together with several carloads of people from Kingston attended the rites.

Others receiving honorary degrees at the commencement were Lauritz Melchior, famous singer; Josiah N. Macy, prominent Westchester county publisher; Joseph C. Rovensky, president of the International Tin Corporation; the Rev. Eugene C. Kreider, superintendent of Home Missions for the United Lutheran Synod of New York; and the Rev. Edwin H. Knudten, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New Jersey.

Prize Winning Lamp Builders

Prize winning lamps from 34 high schools in the Central Hudson Gas & Electric franchise territory have been on display in the windows of company district offices. Woodworking and industrial art classes have been building the original design lamps for the past few weeks. Lamps range in motif from an old fashioned telephone to lily pads.

Central Hudson distributed 1,671 indirect three-way lamp kits to the high schools for use in the company-sponsored contest. Prizes for the first, second and third place lamps in the district-wide competition are being offered.

Three winners have also been selected in each of the high schools by a panel of instructors from the schools with the first place winner receiving automatic entry into the final competition.

Final judges are Harold Green of General Electric, D. P. Caverly of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Marshall N. Waterman of Westinghouse Electric Corp. The winners will be announced in the near future.

First place winner in the lamp building competition at the Kingston High School was Anthony Gardecki. He received automatic entry into the district-wide competition. Second place went to Ludwig Distler, and third place winner was Frank Boice.

Community . . .

ment, is closest to the average citizen. It doles out scarce materials, runs the priority system, and restricts civilian goods. DPA, independent and a notch higher in the alphabetical hierarchy, makes policy on production.

Informed officials said the merger, if approved, would bring DPA also under commerce's wing. Manly Fleischmann, NPA administrator, is mentioned as a possible choice to head the combined agency.

Several advisers have told Wilson, it was learned, that the present division of authority has caused some delays, snags and disagreements in the control program.

Di Salle's price-posting program will begin June 18, when beef pricing charts are to be put up in butcher shops under an order already announced. DiSalle indicated veal might be next on the meat list. Pork is selling under parity—below the level at which prices may be frozen.

The 18-man Wage Stabilization Board scheduled a second day of talks this afternoon on a proposed four-cent hourly bonus to 1,000,000 auto workers for improving production in the past year.

Named Lecturer

Walter W. Kantack of New York city was named a Christian Science lecturer at the annual meeting held Monday of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Kantack formerly was a prominent New York designer and manufacturer, and for 10 years was a member of the Advisory Committee on Industrial Art at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. He has been a Christian Science practitioner since 1942. Christian Science lecturers make extensive speaking tours throughout the United States as well as overseas.

Grand Jury . . .

time was granted to make motions.

Daniel Duffy was arraigned on a charge of burglary, third degree, alleged to have been commited on September 18, 1950, and also grand larceny, first degree. A plea of innocent was entered and Howard C. St. John was assigned. The case was adjourned until June 11 at 2 p. m.

Alex Kochek of Ellenville entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4 of the Penal Law in that he possessed a revolver without a permit. Charles F. Kaiser appeared and told the court the defendant had made application for a permit and believed he had a right to possess the firearm. The gun was found in his car last October. Judge Cashin suspended any imposition of sentence.

George E. Federal, Catskill, one of the men charged with malicious mischief in connection with destruction of property of the Knaust Mushroom company during a labor dispute, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of malicious destruction of property and he will be sentenced next Monday at 2 o'clock. N. J. Friendman appeared for Federal.

Wallace Effner, 17, charged with grand larceny, first degree, growing out of a car case appeared and entered a plea of innocent to being a youthful offender. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant. His case will be disposed of at chambers under the Youthful Offender statute.

Grand Jurors Honor Macholdt, Resigned

Henry Macholdt, who has served as secretary of the Grand Jurors Association of Ulster county since its inception 17 years ago, resigned from that position for reasons of ill health last night when the association met at the court house with Thomas Murphy, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Daniel L. Haynes.

Highlight of the evening was a resolution passed in Macholdt's honor, praising his "efficient service" to the position "he so patiently, effectively, and with great pride and honesty held for so many years."

Murphy also presented Macholdt, who is the only living charter member of the organization, with a life membership to the Grand Jurors, and a copy of the resolution. Further wishes for his health and happiness were also expressed.

Mrs. Anna Ashdown was elected to succeed him as secretary.

Big Fire Hits Passaic

Passaic, N. J., June 5 (AP)—The heart of Passaic's shopping area was ravaged by a $1,000,000 fire that raged unchecked for five hours yesterday. Left gutted or badly damaged were a huge electrical appliance store, two textile factories, a dress shop, delicatessen, luncheonette and men's clothing store. Thick, acrid smoke that blanketed this city of 60,000 damaged dozens of other shops.

There are five major universities in Argentina.

YMCA 'Victory Dinner' Program Arrangements Set

Program arrangements for the YMCA drive's "victory dinner" tomorrow night have been completed by George H. De Kay, chairman, and Clarence S. Rowland, president, it was announced today, with the expectation that those who have promised donations will submit them. It is also hoped that the four or five remaining workers will complete their returns to make up the $166 deficit necessary before the $20,000 goal is reached.

Tomorrow night's program will include an invocation by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra; a turkey dinner served by a special committee of volunteers; singing lead by Richard Talleur; cutting of the 85th-year birthday cake by Rowland and De Kay; a vote of thanks to all workers by the chairman, and introduction of the toastmaster, Clarence S. Rowland, who will present the prizes.

Special guests during the dinner will be Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Frederick Snyder and Judge John M. Cashin. The benediction will be given by the Rev. William J. McVey.

The entire program will be appropriate to the 85th anniversary of the YMCA in this city, and its national 100th anniversary, as well as to a successful financial campaign.

Patrolman Walter Van Steenburgh reported to headquarters at 3:45 a. m. today that he found a small bicycle, girl's model, parked against the street light pole in front of 52 Main street. The cycle may be claimed at police headquarters.

Hunt Circus Here For Shows Today

Today is circus day in Kingston, and early this morning the gaily-painted trucks and trailers of Hunt Bros. Circus arrived at the municipal stadium for the one-day stand in the city from which it started back in 1892.

Hunt Bros. Circus, with 76-year-old Charley Hunt bossing the project, pitched its tents this morning for the afternoon and evening performances on the grounds at the foot of North Front street—directly across from the corner where the same Charley Hunt practiced slack wire walking over half a century ago.

According to advance notice, the circus is "bigger and better" than ever. Business this year for the Kingston-organized show has been exceptionally good, reports the Billboard, magazine of the show world, which rates the Hunt Bros. Circus as one of the largest motorized circuses traveling today. There are 62 trucks, trailers, and private cars used to transport the show which arrived here from Newburgh.

A feature of this year's performance are the Hunt elephants, a herd of six well-trained pachyderms with "the smallest baby elephant in the world" leading the herd through its tricks. Hunt Bros. also displays a fair-sized menagerie and a well-rounded program of circus talent.
